

World Service Council of Y. W. C. A. Plans Co-operative Uplifting of Races

Welfare of Girls Throughout World Aim of Prominent American Women.

(International News Service).
HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 16.—The World Service Council, a national committee of the Young Women's Christian Association, whose membership includes 144 outstanding women from all parts of the United States, will hold its second annual meeting, since its organization in 1920, at Hot Springs, Arkansas, April 21. This meeting will be at the same time as the biennial convention of the Young Women's Christian Association.

The special work of this committee is in promoting the welfare of girls and women in the United States and throughout the world. Some of the lines of work which they are pursuing at the present time are the Americanization program, which begins in Europe, the Orient or in South America, where secretaries meet the women and girls who are coming to the United States and advising them as to conditions which they will find here, and keep many from coming when their journey would be fruitless because of the strict immigration laws.

Young Women's Christian Association secretaries meet these strangers in five of the ports of entry in the United States—Ellis Island, Boston, Angel Island, Seattle and Honolulu—and send word of their coming to the cities of ultimate destination that secretaries there may call on them immediately upon their arrival and offer friendship and advice in helping them to make right contacts in their new environment.

Promotes Understanding.
Another line of work which the World Service Council promotes is the bringing about of a better understanding between the different races in this country, working with foreign students in the universities, with colored girls, with Indians, in central Europe, where the association has work in Rumania, Czechoslovakia, the Baltic States, the Near East, and also China, Japan, in the Orient, India and the Straits settlements. An outstanding example of this work for different races is in Constantinople, where there are two centers and a camp, which are at present being used by five nationalities—Greeks, Syrians, Armenians and Russians, as well as Turks—who are studying and working and playing together for the first time in history.

The World Service Council is also directly interested in promoting club and recreation work for moving picture actresses at Hollywood, California, which includes a residence, where a number of the actresses live, and recreation and educational work under specially trained secretaries. They also further work for American girls in two centers in the Panama Canal zone.

The council is intending to do this work with the greatest understanding possible and has instituted the plan of having three trips a year in which members will visit the Orient, South America, Constantinople and the Near East in order that they may see the work and be able to interpret it in the United States from first-hand knowledge.

Trip to Study Orient.
The first of these trips is now in progress. Fourteen women left the United States on January 24 to visit Honolulu and the Orient. The trip is outlined as follows: The first day is in Japan, 58 days in China, the time there being divided between Peking, Chungking, Shanghai, Peking, and three days in Korea. They will then return home some time late in May. The second trip will be to South America some time in the late summer. The first trip sailed under the direction of Miss Harriet Taylor and Miss Edith H. Kooy, National Board

Love's Masquerade

A Dramatic Story of Love and Romance
By Idaho McGone Gibson

SOME MODERN MARRIAGE IDEAS

Dr. Milton shifted nervously in his chair while the young men behind him continued their discussion of the Glendening case.

"I saw a report on divorce statistics showing that there is one divorce in each eight marriages. It looks like actually get divorced. It looks like pretty nearly all the rest would like to," put in the youngest of the group.

Mr. Milton pondered this thought. "Does this blue youth express the beliefs of the younger generation?" he asked himself. "Do one of them ever think of that sentence in the marriage ceremony, 'Till death do us part'?"

The voice came into his consciousness again. "Look around you. Do you know any married people that are particularly happy? I believe that marriage stifles a man's ambition by too much love or too much duty. The end is the same in either case. All the joy is taken out of living."

"You're wrong, Todd, you're wrong," protested a companion. "Aren't your mother and father happy? They've managed to get along together for a third of a century. Why Todd, I'm afraid you think you have to pull off this pessimistic marriage stuff because you write so much of it for the magazines. You're just trying to be consistent."

"Perhaps," conceded Todd, "but thank Heaven, Bert, we younger writers are daring to tell the truth. Books and plays of sentimentality and romanticism have lied to us too long. We give you a slice of life, and you set up a yell that tells us our shot went home."

"Todd, down deep in your heart you know that marriage is the one great stabilizer of civilization. But the conversation is getting heavy. I'll argue with you some other time. Just now I want to know something more about Harry Glendening's latest flame."

"If she's the 'American Beauty,' I'll say she is a good picker. It wouldn't be any great struggle for me to leave home and mother for a girl like that. Tell me all about her. If she's off with Harry she can consider me a candidate."

"What do you know about it, Bill?" asked Bert, addressing a third of the group.

"Nothing, like the rest of you," rejoined Bill bluntly. "But I have run across Glendening and the 'ramp' lunching and teazing and dining in out of the way corners of little known restaurants. And I have passed them motorizing on little frequented roads."

"What married woman were you with, Bill?" sallied a wit.

A laugh echoed this question. Dr. Milton smiled at the sage wisdom of youth who had been asked regarding his own peccadillo.

"You've got me wrong, George," answered Bill. "When I feel I ought to conceal my interest in a woman I take her to the noisiest cabaret and the most frequented restaurants. In other words, my system is to put the plain in platonically."

Young Dr. Milton arose. He suddenly felt very tired. He must be growing old, for he certainly was out of tune with the modern speech of men in regard to woman and the modern man's attitude toward marriage. Or was this the modern attitude?

He glanced at the clock. It was time he was going back to his club to dine. He turned and looked for a moment at the group of young men. He failed to note that they were all looking rather curiously at him. He did not realize that in his home city his fame made him a marked man.

The gossip—"gonner" Margaret would have called them—had apparently forgotten the Glendening divorce case and for the moment were engrossed in speculation about him.

As he strolled down the corridor the doctor passed the "American Beauty" whose name the young men had bandied about so lightly. She was more than beautiful. He had to admit it. A provocative allure enveloped her. Even the doctor felt his pulses quicken as he drew near.

Tomorrow—Three Men.

Antlers Will Have New Pipe Organ

Manager Hill of the Antlers theatre has announced that he has purchased a pipe organ for the theatre, and will have it installed immediately. The organ was purchased at a cost of nearly $20,000 and is the latest type for motion picture work. The organ box is smaller than the one now in use, but the pipes go above the organ, on the wall. The tones of the new instruments are very beautiful. It has a xylophone attachment and others that are exceptionally good for motion picture work.

SKILLED LABOR IS SCARCE IN OAKLAND

OAKLAND, Cal., April 10.—By United Press.—The first 10 days since the general depression of 1920-21, a shortage of skilled labor has been noted here. Skilled bricklayers and plumbers are in a good deal of demand, according to chamber of commerce reports. Building here and in San Francisco is going on at an unprecedented rate. Many apartments are being built. The building boom has gone into high gear because of the long strike period during the summer of 1921 when things were practically at a standstill owing to the strike in the building trades.
