Circus Offers Low Prices Here

Back to a pre-war basis! That's the slogan on the Al G. Barnes circus this season. "The Show that's different" in performance is different in every way, and that's why the general admission to the big show has been reduced to 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children. Thus, the people of the United States can see 1200 trained wild animals, some 1000 talented people and the most distinctive performance ever offered under a big top at a reduction of 45 per cent of the former admission.

Seventy-five cents for adults; fifty cents for children. These are the admission prices for your city. No more, no less. And Tusko, largest elephant in the world, a foot taller than Jumbo, is included in the bargain.

HOBBO CAUSES EXCITEMENT

Ernest Hutchinson, a colored hobo, caused more excitement in town today than the business section has known for many moons. Hutchinson was parading down Jackson street when Marshal Mathews hailed him. As soon as the negro saw the cop he started to run. The chief and a couple of news hounds gave chase, followed by about half the pedestrians on Jackson and Cass streets. The officers fired three shots in the air but they only added speed to the race. The fellow was finally cornered and taken to the city jail for an interview. At several times during the race he picked up stones and tried to hit the policeman.

AROUND THE TOWN.

Shoes repaired quicker and better, for less money, at the Booterie.

The members of the C. W. B. will meet at the Presbyterian church this evening at 7 o'clock and will attend the services at the Christian church in a body.

"BOY CRAZY"

Well, here is her latest hit, and it's faster and funnier and peppier than any picture she has made yet. It is a screamingly laughable story of a bed-dressmaker trying to out-do a she-haberdasher—both using ninety mile an hour methods in a two mile an hour town.

Also the Pathe News and the comedy, "Stop Kidding."
