Front elevation of the Kohlhaagen Apartment house, on which work is expected to start in about ten days. Photograph shows Lane street entrance.

Plans for the Kohlhaagen apartment house to be constructed here soon have been placed in the hands of contractors, who will submit bids on or before Saturday of this week. The contract will probably be let the first of next week and work will be started at once, the contract calling for immediate work on the building. R. M. Jones, designer of the structure, is in the city placing the plans in the hands of contractors and getting ready for the allowing of the contract. The Inland Construction company, which prepared the plans, is submitting a bid, and a number of local contractors are desirous of submitting proposals, it having been found necessary today to telegraph for additional sets of plans in order that more may figure on the job. Several alterations have been made to the original plans, and approximately $25,000 has been added to the original estimate of $100,000. Mr. Kohlhaagen has announced that he will install an automatic electric elevator, such as are now being used in all of the large, modern apartment houses. These elevators are purely automatic and require no attendant. The pressure of a button brings the elevator to any desired floor. The door cannot be opened until the elevator reaches its position and stops. No other person can call the elevator until the person using it has reached his destination and has closed the door, forming an electrical contact which again permits the elevator to move at the direction of the person desiring its use. The system is approved as completely same in every respect and is endorsed by the leading insurance companies. In addition to this, Mr. Kohlhaagen has decided to equip the building throughout with hardwood floors. This not only adds to the attractiveness of the building but increases the service and will be much better in keeping up the looks of the interior in future years. The demand for apartments has resulted in nearly all of the rooms being spoken for, Mr. Kohlhaagen states, and a great many people will move into Roseburg from other cities as soon as the building is ready for occupancy.

America's Youngest Woman Explorer Returns

Gertrude Emerson, Noted Editor, Visits Buried Cities in Asia

"Miss Marco Polo"—the title earned in the Orient by adventurous Gertrude Emerson, associate editor of "Asia," for her indefatigable explorations—is safe on American soil again, to the infinite relief of her friends. For this intrepid small person, who is just five feet tall and only weighs ninety-six pounds, went all around the world during the last two years, absolutely alone, on a still hunt for picture and story material for her magazine.

People Courteous Everywhere Wherever she went, people were solicitous for her safety, but she waved warnings aside and blithely kept on with her exploring. She hunted tigers in Indo-China, and crocodiles in India; she traveled by elephant, camel, sampan, horseback, motor, aeroplane and ocean liner over so many thousands of miles that she lost count of them herself.

She visited Angkor, a buried city of Cambodia, rediscovered by the French in 1910, where only one hundred persons had ever been since. She explored the famous bat caves of the Philippines and took dangerous motor trips across Indian country that was infested with fanatical insurgents. She was the only passenger on a cargo boat, going from Port Said to Constantinople, which two months before had been held up by the Turks with resultant large death rate. "But I wasn't scared," she offers casually. "An American woman can go anywhere and she's doing it, too, if not in person at least by way of pencil or pen.

American Music Heard 'Round The World "For instance, there was the zippy little waltz 'Three O'clock in the Morning' to which I danced American dances in Yokohama, Paris, Bangkok and London. Dorothy Terris, an American girl, wrote the words to that, and now it's an international tune, played not only by foreign dance orchestras, but by the natives themselves on their own peculiar instruments. "The ship's orchestra played it on my way over from London and when I got home, a phonograph in a near-by apartment greeted me with the familiar "It's three o'clock in the morning, We've danced the whole night through, And daylight will soon be dawning. Just one more waltz with you." "It was hard for me to realize that I was really at home again."

are sure that no such trouble has been experienced with the Red Rose brand as packed by the Drager Fruit company, and it is our opinion that other packers have not had the experiences that Mr. Lewis refers to. The finest Italian prunes are grown in Douglas county and packers who know how to pack prunes will never have any trouble with them. They are growing in favor each year. Packers who do not know how to pack these prunes, should either learn how or stay out of the business. Plant more Italian prunes and Potatoes as well. They are wanted also. You won't have to grub out your orchards. Inspectors can be appointed to see that prunes are properly packed. W. F. DRAGER.

Why Our Cars Are Good

If we were indifferent about public opinion we might spend less time and money putting Used Cars in shape before offering them for sale. But we find that it helps our business as well as our conscience to be particular.

CONCERNING THE PRUNE CROP.

Roseburg, May 4, 1922.
Editor News-Review:
The prune prospects in Oregon are very good for this year. Prunes have bloomed in Douglas county districts under the most favorable conditions and at the present time there are prospects of a large crop. Cold, wet weather, however, might damage the crop. The orchards in the southern part of the Willamette valley are in full bloom, but in the upland orchards will not be in full bloom for a week or ten days. Growers are expecting good crops in the Willamette valley. There are reports coming in from one of the large markets that a growers' association is offering Italian prunes at the following prices: 30s to 40s at 2 cents per pound, 40s to 50s at 7 1/2 cents per pound. These appear to be rather low prices to quote before we are sure of a crop. Even if 9 cents were a good price, there is too much of a drop on forties and fifties. We are in favor of the one-fourth cent drop on the five prunes more required to make a pound, as was the custom in years past, but even if that method is impossible at this time all packers should strike to get prices on 30s to 40s and 50s to 60s nearer equal than the above quotation.
Mr. Paulus, of the Oregon Growers' association, claims they are not offering new crop prunes. He did say that they had wired to find out what the markets would stand in price. We hope no packers will permit at any time the difference of 2 1/2 cents per pound between 30s to 40s and 50s to 60s.
Mr. C. I. Lewis in a meeting at Roseburg spoke rather discouragingly of the Italian prune. He mentioned something of the packing of this variety, claiming that unless packers did better packing that Italian orchards would have to be grubbed up. Mr. Lewis must have had in mind some pack that he was familiar with. We

Prevent Caries

Every tooth should be examined two or more times each year, and if there are any faults in development, or cavities, they should be attended to.

This is one way of preventing decay of the teeth. The other method is the careful brushing of the teeth morning and night regularly.

The bacteria of caries, or tooth decay, are always waiting the chance to go to work.

Whenever you neglect your teeth you give the bacteria a chance, and it is difficult to get rid of them.

Do your part by keeping your teeth clean, and by having the cavities in your teeth filled.
