

Kids Fleeced by Ticket Scalper

The meanest man in the world is still at large and if he is a resident of Roseburg we hope the Ku Klux Klan gets him. Robert Householder and his brother, Arthur, and a friend, Lloyd Hoage, all of Glenary came into Roseburg to see the circus. Like most boys of 10 and 12 years of age they had scraped and saved to get money enough to see the circus and were all eager to get inside the "Big Top." They were standing on the street watching the circus parade when a man approached them and offered to sell them tickets to the show at bargain prices. Kid-like they immediately grabbed at the offer sensing an opportunity to have money enough on their original tickets to stay for the "concert or after-show."

Dividing their hands into their pockets at frequent intervals to be sure they still had their ticket, the boys finally arrived at the main entrance and presented the pasteboards to the doorman, only to find out that they were "phony." Robert was in the middle of the bunch and the crowd was pushing him so hard that he was swept right on by and got to see the circus anyway. But the others were turned back and disappointed and sick at heart they were forced to leave and return to their homes without having seen the circus to which they had long looked forward.

An investigation has developed that not only these boys but others were fleeced by the man, and officers have been put on his trail. Several of the boys insist that he is a local resident and not a member of the circus crowd. If located, he will be severely dealt with for officers are aroused over his "taking money from kids."

Sunday Big Day at Revival Service

Sunday was one great day in the Christian church, and the revival meeting kept up to a high standard. The day opened with a Bible school that filled every corner of the church. At the close the photographer took a picture of the school. There were at least 300 in the picture. The morning service saw a packed house. Following this service was a big basket dinner which was enjoyed by a large crowd. Two hundred or more sat at the tables. Then in the afternoon came another fine service, closing with the evening hour and a happy day. During the day, seven more responded to the invitation, and ten people were baptized. This makes a total of 69 who have come forward during this revival. The meeting will close on Wednesday evening and will be immediately followed by a social hour, for the acquaintance of new and old members, and as a farewell to the evangelist. Tonight the subject will be "The Meanest Thing in Roseburg." At the close of the service tonight all who wish to will go down to the river and there will be a weiner and marshmallow roast. Quite a large crowd has already expressed their intention of going to this roast and a good time is expected. There will be baptismal services again this evening. So great has been the success of this meeting and so large the crowds and so great the interest that there has been reluctance on the part of many to bring the meeting to a close. Those who are interested have but three more nights. Another interesting feature of yesterday's service was the presenting of two Bibles to two little girls because of good work in getting names for the cradle roll. One little girl got 20 new names for the cradle roll. The musical features kept to a big standard, and the cornet solo last night by Mr. Olsen with piano and violin accompaniment was one of the striking features. The Ross people begin at Monmouth next Sunday.
