arisen between the coal miners and the operators. They simply are the victims of circumstance.

If the tent colonies are not abandoned in the time specified by the court the arm of the law will reach out to evict them.

The United Mine Workers, enjoined to prevent further payment of relief to the colonists, must cut off their supply of food and clothing. Unless the federal court of appeals mitigates the district court's decision the colonists will be thrown out of their homes.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, May 10.—The British embassy officials after a conference with Alexander E. Robertson, British war veteran and suitor of Miss Mary Culbertson, daughter of Senator Culbertson of Texas, declared the action of the embassy on Robertson's charges of kidnapping by private detectives would amount merely to watching the court procedure which Robertson has instituted.

Some Simple Rules, the Observance of Which May or May Not Lead to Popularity.

"What you figuring on?" asked the florist of his advertising-writer.

"On an elaboration into details of our plan to say it with flowers. I have arranged to state that the man who wants to smile at his wife should use smilax, that the man that wants to growl at her ought to say it with tiger lilies or dog-tooth violets, that the bird who wants to sweeten her up without the expense of a box of chocolates may use candytuft, that instead of giving her a wrist watch you can present her with a bunch of four o'clocks, that he who wants to serve notice on his spouse that he is out of funds needs only hand her a cluster of touch-me-nots, that when the larder is low and the grub money gone he can slip her some butter-and-eggs plucked from the roadside, that if he is bewildered by his love for the sweet young thing he can express his feelings by sending around a nosegay of love-in-a-mist, that if he thinks his girl is a cat and is afraid to say so otherwise he can endow her with a vase of pussy-willows, that if she has a low-down opinion of him she can have a corsage bouquet of stunk cabbage delivered at his house—that's about as far as I have it worked out now."—Retail Ledger, Philadelphia.

NOT FOR PUBLIC PERUSAL

New York Girl Who Kept a Diary Found Means to Hide Home-Comings From Mamma.

Ruth was approaching her nineteenth year and she considered herself old enough to remain at social affairs as long as she pleased. Her tolerant mother contended that a girl her age should be home at 11:30.

Ruth kept a diary. When she came home one night after mother had gone to bed mother took the liberty of reading her daughter's diary. "To bed at 12:15 a. m.," she said, the New York Sun says.

When Ruth returned from the office that evening mother and daughter had a quarrel. It was not long afterward that Ruth again came home from a dance after every one had gone to bed. Faithfully she sat down and wrote in her diary. Mother arose next morning earlier than the remainder of the family and rushed to the closet which held the diary. Quickly she turned the page until she came to the last contribution.

"Arose at 7:30," she read "and went to the office. To lunch with Al, my country Romeo. Home to dinner at 6. To dance at the Center with Flo-sie at 8:30. Fine time. Home—And then mother could read no more. What followed was written in short-hand.

Drama Democratic.

It is the good fortune of the drama that it is the most democratic of the arts, since it must direct itself to the people as a whole. Yet this appeal to the multitude has never dulled the drama. "Hamlet" and "Tartuffe" are most popular plays; and they are also masterpieces of dramatic art. Shakespeare and Moliere did not condescend to the public; they gave that public the best they had in them, but with the utmost care to give it also what they knew it relished. Of course, very few pieces have ever had the breadth of appeal of "Hamlet" and "Tartuffe"; and the modern dramatist, when he is building his play, is likely to have in mind some subdivision of the throng—either the larger segment that craves the fierce joys of melodrama or the smaller cross-section that is ever eager to discuss the problem-play.—Brander Matthews.

Rubber and Maple Sugar.

An interesting parallel has been drawn between the different varieties of rubber trees in the tropics and those of maple trees in this country. Out of about 1,000 varieties of trees, all of which produce more or less rubber sap, only forty or fifty have been found whose product is considered commercially valuable.

When a would-be cultivator of rubber goes to a tropical country and sets out a plantation of rubber trees, which the natives know do not belong to the right variety, he causes amused comment, such as would be excited by a South American who came to the United States and bored holes in soft maples with the expectation of obtaining sugar sap. Experience has shown that excellent rubber trees transplanted from their native habitat or other regions having apparently identical soil and climate may flourish in growth, yet lose their producing power. Rubber culture requires great expert knowledge.

Largest Known Coin.

Probably the largest coin in the world is one belonging to Farren Zerbe, internationally famous expert on rare coins. It is a piece of stamped copper plate 10 inches square, and weighs 6 1/2 pounds. It has a value of "4 Daler" (the daler was a coin of varying value) stamped on it, and the date 1730.

Such coins were commonly used in Sweden for some time during and after the wars of Charles XII. It is part of a collection of more than 30,000 specimens, representing mediums of exchange of all countries and periods from the earliest times to the present day. The total face, or original exchange value of the collection is counted in millions, but no present value has ever been placed on it.

WOULD PRESERVE OLD HOUSE

Efforts Being Made to Raise Money to Buy Dwelling Dating From Seventeenth Century.

Some who love good things—and happily interest in the architecture of former ages is awakening more and more—are trying to preserve a remarkable old peasant's dwelling at Harreveld, a lonely hamlet on the heather in the province of Gelderland. It is called los huis, dating from the Seventeenth century and the last house of the Saxon type. Los, in the Geldrian dialect, means open, by which it is indicated that the house consists of one room only and that there are no partitions between the pieces for housing and sleeping for men and beasts; cows and goats and chickens living peacefully together with the inmates. There is no chimneyplace; the wood fire burns in a hole in the floor, which is of stone, and the smoke is allowed to find an outlet as it pleases.

The peasants, man and wife, who are living here are beset with the extremely modern, yet most unfortunate thought of having a wall built between the stable and the dwelling room, adding a chimney and building another room, by all of which renovations the house will be irretrievably spoiled.

The managing committee of the open-air museum at Arnhem are now trying to get money together in order to buy the house and have it removed to their museum park. It is much to be hoped that they will meet with a prompt success.

WHY HER WATCH GOES WRONG

Various Causes Given for Undoubted Fact That Woman's Timepiece is Generally Incorrect.

Punctuality is said to be the virtue of kings, but not of women. The latter will not, however, admit their lack of it. But when a lady has kept a mere-man waiting for her an indefinitely long time her excuse, cynics declare, is really at hand: "My watch must be wrong." And, strange to say, this reason given as an excuse, different from other excuses, is almost always valid. The watches of women are much less exact than those of men.

An Englishman, Herbert Duke, who occupied himself with this problem in profound speculations, thinks he has traced it to its source. He has observed that the same watch, when worn by his wife, runs very irregularly, whereas when worn by him it is perfectly correct. "Now, how is it," he asks, "that so many women have such a baleful influence on watches?"

Certainly much is due to the fact that to women the watch is a less necessary tool of life than a beautiful adornment; that they care more for its looking elegant on the wrist than for its being right; that they handle carelessly and inconsiderately this delicate apparatus.

But there must be another more potent cause. It has been observed that the electricity contained in the human body exerts a direct influence on the delicate mechanism of the watch. It may be that the small form of a woman's watch renders it very sensitive to the electro-magnetic influence that emanates from the body.

Lower Rates on Melons Proposed

Reduced rates on watermelon shipments from Dillard and other points in the Umpqua valley to Portland and Willamette valley points, have been requested by Fred G. Buchtel, public service commissioner, in a letter to the Southern Pacific company, according to information received today from Salem. The high rates now prevailing on watermelons prevented the Dillard growers from receiving the profit due them and made them enter into unfair competition with growers of other states. It is alleged, Mr. Buchtel in his letter sets out a number of reasons why the rate should be lowered. The Southern Pacific company is expected to answer the proposal in the near future.
