Entered as second-class matter May 17, 1920, at the post office at Roseburg, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

ROSEBURG, ORE CON, MAY 25, 1922.

THE YOUNG CROWD OF TODAY.

The young people of the present day are under much severe criticism for loose manners and ideals, and some people feel that they show marked signs of deterioration. Before condemning them too sharply, it would be worth while to consider some things they are accomplishing. The public schools are the place where you get the best idea of their tendencies. Those of us who look back twenty-five years or more, would not care to return to the educational conditions then existing, when the average school was a dull and listless place. The typical position of a school child in those days was to lean his weary head on his hand and rest his elbow on his desk, as he tried to fool the teacher with the idea that he was studying. Usually his thoughts were far away from the hated school room with its tasks which seemed meaningless to him. It was a common remark among the boys of those times that they wished the schoolhouse would burn down or the teacher would get sick, or anything happen to set them free from their prison house. Today the average school room is bright and cheerful. The great majority of the children would not of their own accord leave it. It has been shown to them that a person must have education in order to win success in life. They may get weary and discouraged over their lessons, but at least they want to learn. Young people that have come along to and through high school age with that point of view have at least made a tremendous gain over the relative position of young people of that age twenty-five years ago. They may have their silly streaks and flippant ways and false ideals, that are in great need of correction. But they have some idea of one of the basic conceptions of life, expressed by the stereotyped but ever true phrase, that "Knowledge is power."

Yesterday's dispatches telling of freight rate reductions sounds mighty good to the average producer and business man. This will effect a great saving, and passed to the consumer should have a tendency to relieve conditions generally throughout the nation. However, if the railroads attempt to make up any alleged deficiency in their operating expenses by a further reduction of wages to their employees the order reducing freight rates will not be so stimulating to the business world as some would imagine. Going into the pockets of the working men to iron out high freight rates is a method not conducive to the best interests of the public. The rates have been reduced some ten or twelve per cent, it is now up to the railroads of the country to build up a greater volume of business to offset this reduction. That this business will come through lower freight rates there is no question and an appreciative public will at once show their good will towards the railroads. But for heaven's sake, and for the good of all concerned, stop off the wage reduction propaganda and give the railroad employees an opportunity to get on a permanent plane and thereby placed in a position to give greater and more efficient service to their employers. It is next to impossible to harmonize matters by continuous wage scale adjustments and it seems like the railroad workers have been tossed around to the limit in this part of the railroad adjustment program of the nation.

Business is picking up generally all over the country and 1922 has all the "ear marks" of a most prosperous year. Come on, boys, let's go.

Straw hats took a back seat today. Fur headgear would be much more appropriate.

Now that the official count is over is everybody satisfied? If not, start a little propaganda for a recount.

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—

The fellow with sideburns
 May look distinguished
 But after his first Few words you can Tell that all he has
 On you is a Pair of sideburns.

When a man doesn't care what he says no one else does either.

Pretty soon they won't allow a man to park long enough to let the flusher spatter water and mud all over his car.

EVEN FRIENDS.

"The most reliable friend in need," said Uncle Cy Koloky, "generally charges at least 6 per cent interest."

When a man tells a girl her dresses are too short Cupid moves on to the next victim.

EVIDENTLY.

"Say, mama, was baby sent down from Heaven?"
 "Why, yes, dear?"
 "Um. They like to have it quiet up there, don't they?"

OUR OWN POEM.

Little bits of sawdust,
 Little bits of wood,
 Flavored scientifically,
 Makes the breakfast food.

Every time business turns the corner it seems to be confronted with a "detour" sign.

NO LUCK.

President Harding says we have returned to normalcy. He is mistaken about some of us. We are still unable to find a ten-cent cigar that seems fit to smoke.

A. J. Hochradel left last eve. for the east. Hoch says he's going to make part of the trip thru Canada and he sent his wife ahead to make the hotel reservations for his Canadian stops—or rather Canadian hang-overs.

Charley McElhinny slipped us the following poem which we slip on to our readers:

THIS IS A PEACH.

Said the little young red rooster,
 "Gosh all hemlocks! Things are tough,
 Seems that worms are getting scarcer,
 and I cannot find enough.
 What's become of all those fat ones
 is a mystery to me;
 There were thousands through that rainy spell—but now where can they be?"

The old black hen who heard him
 didn't grumble or complain,
 She had gone through lots of dry spells, she had lived through floods of rain;
 So she flew up on a grindstone, and she gave her claws a whet,
 As she said, "I've never seen the time when there weren't worms to get."

She picked a new and undug spot; the earth was hard and firm,
 The little rooster, jeered, "New ground!" That's no place for a worm."
 The old black hen just spread her feet; she dug both fast and free,
 "I must go to the worms," she said,
 "the worms won't come to me."

The rooster vainly spent his day, thru habit, by the ways
 Where fat, round worms had passed in squads back in the rainy days.
 When nightfall found him supperless,
 he growled in accents rough,
 "I'm hungry as a fowl can be. Conditions sure are tough."

He turned then to the old black hen and said: "It's worse with you, For you're not only hungry but you must be tired, too;
 I rested while I watched for worms,
 so I feel fairly perk,
 But how are you? Without worms, too? And after all that work?"

The old black hen hopped to her perch and settled down to sleep.
 And murmured in a drowsy tone:
 "Young man, hear this and weep:
 I'm full of worms and happy, for I've dined both long and well;
 The worms are there as always—but I had to dig like hell."

WHITHER BOUND, CUPID?

"When I married you I thought you were an angel."
 "So that's why you never buy me any clothes."

ACCORDING TO AUNT NET.

"Sometimes I think Lot's wife was kind of lucky, after all. Every time we have to pull up and pack up and move, I wish I could turn into something that would stay put from now on."

There is something as rotten as hell about the man who is always trying to show some one else up.—Billy Sunday.

Circus Prices
Coming Down

Cheer, dada, cheer.
 Circus admission prices are following the trend of other luxuries and necessities in tumbling from the war-time pinnacle.

It remained for Howe's great London circus with Van Amberg's trained wild animals to establish the precedent of restoring the old familiar 50 cents admission price into the "white tops"—and the strain on father's pocketbook consequently will be considerably lightened.

This three ring circus will exhibit in Roseburg on Thursday, June 1, with afternoon and evening performances.
 Since leaving winter quarters near San Francisco early in March they have covered California extensively and are now en-route to Portland, Seattle, Vancouver, then east, returning to the coast in the fall. By this time they will have exhibited in 25 states and traveled 25,000 miles.

Umpqua Association
To Meet Here

Representatives of about ten Baptist churches in the Umpqua association will meet at the local Baptist church next week beginning on Tuesday evening. All-day sessions will be held on Wednesday and Thursday. The associational meetings are held yearly at first one church and then another. The meetings are pur-posed for inspiration, instruction and fellowship among the churches.
 Some of the foremost men in the state are on the program. Dr. O. C.
 Wright, the state superintendent of promotion, will be here. Dr. S. J.
 Reid, Dr. A. M. Petty, Dr. George H.
 Young, and others will be among those who will make a splendid program. The meetings will be open to the public.

Class Day Program
This Evening

The class day program which will be given at the high school auditorium tonight, beginning at 8 o'clock, will be a unique and novel affair.
 Instead of the regular exercises the class has planned the program in the order of a trial for the class of '22.
 Different members of the class will take the part of the judge, prosecutor, attorney, clerk, jurors, witnesses and prisoners. The trial will be for the purpose of determining if the class is eligible to their diploma.

The picnic yesterday afternoon sponsored by the seniors for the juniors was an enjoyable occasion in spite of the showers of rain. The seniors had arranged for shelter in a prune dryer near Hutton's grove and the merriment was carried on with little thought of the showers.

The reason why professional cooks are never without Kingsford's Corn Starch

PASTRY flour with Kingsford's makes lighter and flakier biscuits, pie crusts and muffins. Just use one-fourth cup of Kingsford's with three-fourths cup or ordinary wheat flour . . . You can have smoother, glossier gravies and sauces if you use a dessert spoonful of Kingsford's instead of a tablespoonful of wheat flour.
