

ROSEBURG NEWS-REVIEW

Entered as second-class matter May 11, 1920, at the post office at Roseburg, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

ROSEBURG, OREGON, JUNE 1, 1922.

AS SEEN FROM THE STREET.

Many people who maintain property in a poor condition have no conception of the way their real estate looks from the street and to neighbors. They get used to the scanty grass and the piles of rubbish and the tumble down sheds that may disfigure their places, and do not give a thought to the way the same looks to other people. Easy going human nature adjusts itself to almost anything, and people soon sink to a low standard of care. Other people who on the whole maintain good looking places, will yet permit the whole effect to be marred by a few disorderly conditions. These could be removed by just a little work, which would make such a difference and give such a sense of comfort and pride in return for a little effort. The mayor of Attleboro, Mass., in planning for a clean-up week, has had photographs taken of a number of places, which will be given to the owners thereof, to show how their property looks to the man on the sidewalk. This is a method of propaganda that could be used elsewhere. If the man who has allowed himself to become more or less careless in maintenance, could be made to realize that his neighbors are affected by his indifference, that they comment upon and regret his failure to co-operate in keeping the home town at a high standard, he would get busier much quicker. The attitude of a town toward physical cleanliness is a good deal like the discipline of a company of soldiers. If one or two men get out of step the whole line looks ragged, and pretty soon others become slipshod and the beauty of united motion has disappeared. The home place that tolerates disorderly conditions is a discordant unit in the company of homes, and it tends to destroy the effect of the whole. Owners of property that is not cared for in creditable condition should do their part to keep up the morale of the community.

One of the best services rendered by the modern chamber of commerce movement is to get people in the same line of trade or production together to exchange ideas. No one man can know it all. If men in the same line just get together and talk over their problems and experiences, they often learn more than could be gained by years of study or individual effort. For instance, the Rochester, N. Y., chamber of commerce has one group of men studying production problems, another studying employment and service questions, another working on superintendents' problems, another discussing cost accounting. In this manner it could be arranged so as to give every business man a chance to perfect himself in his specialty. In smaller cities the same idea can be worked out by having groups of men from near by communities gather to swap experiences. The exchange of ideas is one of the best ways for promoting gains in business efficiency.

School Director to Be Elected

An interesting school election will be held on Monday, June 19, when a director will be elected. Barton Hellwell is now serving as director, but his term expires this month. Mr. Hellwell has not announced, whether or not he will be a candidate for reelection but his friends are insisting that he again be a candidate and he doubtless will receive a good vote. Mr. Hellwell has served very efficiently on the school board. He has given a great deal of time into the thankless job and has accomplished a great deal. He is very conscientious in his work and has proven one of the most able of the board. The ladies of the Rotson school are circulating a petition to put Miss Marie Martens in nomination. Miss Martens is well known in Roseburg and is very well qualified to perform the duties of school director. The ladies who are backing her campaign state that they believe there should be a woman on the school board and are working with this end in view.

Recital to Be Given Tonight

The first recital of the pupils of the Moore Music Studio will be given tonight at the Presbyterian church. On this evening's program are the kindergarten Dunning class and the junior pupils. There will be class songs, demonstrations of the class work, and piano numbers. One special feature will be a three piano number with George and Elizabeth Case on separate pianos accompanying the Aeolian player piano. Pupils on the piano for this evening are: Dorothy Frear, Maxine Falbe, Genevieve Moore, Gertrude Cedarstrom, Mae Hutchings, June Wild, Lorena Turpin, Edwin Sandstrom, Maxine Moore, Joyce Busenbark, Ethel Hunsaker, Mildred Koenig, Ardath Hunsaker, Maxine Laird, Margaret Hess, George Case, Mary Burgoyne, Elizabeth Case and Eugene Covert. The advanced pupils of the studio will be heard in piano numbers tomorrow evening.

We will sell 100 hats at $5 each. Thurs., Fri., Sat. The Hat Shop.

HOWDY, NEIGHBORS.
Climbing hills before we come to them is what makes us tired.

A HIGH AVERAGE.
A man with one idea has just one more than the average man has been able to pick up.

John—"Dearest, will you share my lot?"
Practical Mable—"Is there a bungalow on it, John?"

TOO REALISTIC.
A surgeon was performing an operation on a patient when a fire started in a warehouse across the street, illuminating the whole operating room. Having finished, the doctor said to the nurse: "I think the patient is coming on; you had better pull down the shades. I don't want him to think the operation hasn't been a success."

Some newspaper men are like fords—everybody drives them.

THE YOUNG MAN'S FANCY.
In the spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of girls. To that jazz necromancy. That is hidden in their curls; And he goes about so raving And with such a silly craving That his brain in circles whirls.

It is just the season's fashion, Just a pace a poet set; 'Tis the May time of his passion And calamity's best bet. It was started in the garden, Came on down to Enoch Arden, And they keep it going yet.

People keep busy nowadays—they're either passing the buck or passing the hat.

THE ABSENT-MINDED PROFESSOR
"Where is the car?" asked Mrs. Diggs.
"Dear me!" exclaimed Professor Diggs. "Did I take the car out?"
"Of course you did. You drove it to town."
"I remember now that after I got out I turned around to thank the gentleman who gave me a lift and wondered where he had gone."

SAFETY FIRST!
To hold my pants I long have felt that I would never wear a belt. I would not have you think at that my torso waxes over fat, but fellows should be pretty slight to wear straps 'round their appetites. So you may count me in among that worthy band, that noble throng, that gallant bunch of bitter enders, of good old custom's staunch defenders who still persist to wear suspenders.

Not yet my soul so callous is that I would scorn galluses. I know a button sometimes goes, yet, even such as Hannah sews; but when I feel the slip begin, I hunt me up a safety pin, and even if the pins should fail, I'm almost sure to find a nail or little stick that I can trust; but just suppose your belt should bust. What would you do, what would you say? I draw the veil, I turn away, I would not trust in doubtful pinches to these here new befangled cinches. Let's keep our old and well-tried braces, let's keep our holdbacks and our traces.

The man who owns a good flock of chickens is almost as conceited as the one who owns a new car.

The only thing green about some gardens is the man who makes 'em.

NOT SKIDDING.
If you are going to leave any footprints in the sands of time, do not let them show that you have been going backward.

Robins are extremely sensible; while we are writing poems to them they are filling up on fishworms.

SHE MEANT SNOW.
Teacher—As we walk out on a cold day and look around what do we see on every hand?
Johnny—A glove.

"Women must help men to save the world," says lady Astor. Since women have been assisting men to wreck it, this seems to be a fair proposition.

SEEMS SO.
It is getting so lately there is a good deal of "con" in a conference.

NOT NECESSARILY.
A clean film is not necessarily one in which the girl takes a bath twice in the first reel.

A new bulletin on the use of the cedar chest to protect against clothes moths says the effectiveness of the cedar wood is on account of sesquiterpene cedrene which it contains. We can readily understand that no moth of average intelligence would undertake to stand against sesquiterpene cedrene.

The name of the clothes moth, it seems, is Tineola biselliella. TINEOLA BISELLIELLA. Tineola biselliella! You're the cutest little fella, Playing gaily all the day, Using Sunday pants for hay.

Look out, insect, what you do, Or I'll squatterpene you. Therefore, read this warning note, Spare my winter overcoat!

All men do not deceive their wives—they just imagine they do.

SPEAKING OF THE BIG HEAD.
If some men bought hats according to their own estimation of the size of their heads, they wouldn't need umbrellas.

LAFE PERKINS SIZ:
"Many of us of fools fell in love with the circus gals today."

How to Make and Use It By A. HYATT VERRILL

V. READING DIAGRAMMS

Most people who have not made a study of radio telegraphy or other branches of electricity are puzzled when they look at the diagrams for wiring that are supplied in many books, magazines or catalogues. These seldom have the various appliances or accessories marked by name or letter, and to the uninitiated, they are practically meaningless. It is very easy to understand these, however, once you have learned what the various symbols mean, and everyone interested in radio telephony should learn them. In the accompanying cut, Fig. 8, the commoner symbols used in diagrams of wireless apparatus are shown and anyone can learn and memorize these in a short time.

In nearly all diagrams of wiring and setting up radio telephone instruments, the wires are drawn parallel with one another and with turns at right angles. This adds greatly to the appearance of the diagrams, but in actual practice it is a great advantage not to run the wires parallel or with the turns at right angles. For this reason, in the majority of the figures I have given, the wires are shown at angles.

Jungleland Depicted In All It's Glory by Circus Today

Maree Beaudet Atop Mispah, the Sacred Camel of Ronhuda to be Seen With the Howe's Circus Here Today.

Circus day. Just as the first golden ray of sunshine appeared on the eastern horizon the Howe's great London circus and Van Amber's trained wild animal circus arrived in town, and was greeted by a large gathering of young Americans who watched with keen interest the unloading of the large wagons and cages, and followed the circus crew to the show grounds which is located at Bellows field, and it took but a short while for the city of tents to be a reality. The performers and animal trainers were arriving on the grounds, and of course the clowns. What would a circus be without clowns?

Kenneth H. Waite, who is the producing clown is to be highly recommended for the neatness in appearance of his clowns and it took a lot of sleepless nights and created a lot of headaches on the part of Mr. Waite in give you what pleasure you may derive from watching him and his 39 assistants in their funny antics.

The big five street parade was held on the town streets at 11 o'clock this morning and was viewed by a large gathering of people. There were open dens of wild animals, fire, dog bands, beautiful ladies, elephants, camels, zebras, calicoes and circus gallopes which pleased the populace immensely. Immediately on the arrival of the parade at the show grounds there was a big free attraction held and will be repeated again this evening at 7 o'clock. The afternoon performance opened promptly at 2 o'clock and the big and beautiful spectacle, "Cinderella in Jungleland" was the opening number. A gorgeous musical extravaganza coupled with good singing and dancing, an array of people taking part in the wonderful review in jungle settings with magnificent electrical effects. The wild animal program followed the spectacle. Billie Burton and her polar bear act, Maree Beaudet and her dance in a cage of lionesses, Mlle. Falkendorf with her pumas, leopards and panthers, Ruth Irwin, America's most fearless trainer of lions, and Lilla Lee and her Royal Bengal tiger act were among the other acts of interest. Among the domestic acts was Captain Jack Casteel and his blue ribbon winners featuring his champion high hurdle horse, "Shuffle Along."

Helen Harris, the prima donna of the white tops, formerly of the Metropolitan Grand Opera, sings with the accompaniment of the concert band.

There are many other acts too numerous to mention such as elephant, camel, zebra, goat, monkey and pony acts which help to make this a very pleasing and entertaining circus. The wild west part of the program is given by Wild Horse Mike Braham and his congress of roughriders including a few of the best, Hank Potts, America's premier fancy rider, Gordon Jones, champion trick and fancy rope spinner, Jack Lindell, world's champion bucking horse rider, and Grabe Braham and her mule, Maud, the only cake-walking mule in America, are on this part of the program. Performance starts at 8 o'clock. Doors open at 7 o'clock. It is said that this is the only large circus in America, who has reduced their admission to pre-war level of 50 cents.

Be sure to take advantage of the June Clearance Sale, Thurs., Fri. and Sat. The Hat Shop.

Do you know all about these new and money-saving uses for Kingsford's Corn Starch?

It is not necessary to purchase both a bread and a pastry flour. By using 1/4 cup of Kingsford's Corn Starch to 1/2 cup of any good flour the percentage of gluten is decreased and the starch content increased so that home prepared flour will make a lighter and finer grained cake. If your recipe calls for 4 eggs to 1 quart of milk, use 3 eggs and let the egg omitted use 1/2 tablespoonful of Kingsford's Corn Starch. For a smoother, glossier gravies and sauces use a dessert spoonful of Kingsford's Corn Starch, instead of a tablespoonful of wheat flour. For lighter, flakier biscuits, pie crusts and muffins, make your pastry flour with one-fourth cup of Kingsford's and three-fourths cup wheat flour. A little Kingsford's Corn Starch dusted on top of cakes before icing prevents the frosting from running off. A quarter teaspoonful of Kingsford's put into each of your salt-shakers will prevent salt caking. Pastry made with Kingsford's Corn Starch makes lighter, flakier biscuits, pie crusts and muffins.

FREE: Ask your grocer or write Johnson-Lieber Co., Portland, Ore., for beautiful folder of the new Kingsford's Corn Starch recipes.

VISITORS AT THE AUTO CAMP GROUNDS

Short Stories of the Strangers Who Stop in Their Journey Along the Highway.

The camp grounds were crowded almost to the limit last night, there being cars in almost every available inch of camping space. Mr. Young is doing some clearing today, cutting grass and preparing to open up a portion of the city's side of the camp ground, which has not been available because of the high grass.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Archer, who were recently called back to Portland by the death of Mrs. Archer's sister, returned to Roseburg last night. Mr. and Mrs. Archer had been visiting in Portland with her sister and left her apparently in the best of health. They had reached Roseburg on their way back home when they were handed a telegram in the night announcing her death. As the party was traveling in two cars, one member was left to watch the equipment and the others went back and attended the funeral. They will leave tomorrow.

Dr. J. H. Bodie and family of Boise, Idaho, stopped last night. They are on their way to San Francisco where they will attend the Shrine convention. Dr. Bodie is a prominent member of El Kohra patrol at Boise.

E. N. Kiser and wife of Leona, arrived last night and expect to stay in the city for several days.

R. J. Wilhelm of Dallas, is making a trip into California by motorcar. Others visitors at the camp grounds were T. H. Squibbs and wife, El City, Mont.; Dan Williams and wife, Riverside, Cal.; C. E. Terry and wife, Walla Walla; Charles Francis and wife, Starbuck, Wash.; M. A. O'Brien, Hillyard, Wash.; H. Campbell and party of three, J. Dickson, Downing, Cal.; W. J. C. Howard, Redding, Cal.
