Talents of Youthful Soprano Are Praised by Famed Singer

By KENNETH HARRIS. (International News Service Staff Correspondent.) KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 21—Beautiful, petite Marion Talley, a girl of fifteen, sang her way into the hearts of hundreds of music lovers here when she made her operatic debut with the Kansas City Grand Opera Company.

The young girl's first appearance was in the stellar role of Ariadne in Daire's "The Bohemian Girl." She received a tremendous ovation from her audience, who had listened spell-bound while she waited from note to note.

Although the youthful soprano has had slightly more than a year of vocal study, musical critics declare her voice possesses the beauty and range of an educated prima donna twice her age.

Marion sang recently, displayed a warm interest in her future plans and predicted a great career for her.

Galli-Curci Praises Her "I never heard so well-developed a voice in a girl of fifteen," said the distinguished diva. "Already she does many things well. Her phrasing shows musicianship of a high calibre."

"I am thankful every minute of each day for the gift of my voice," declares the little "song bird." "I know that it is a gift. I like to sing better than anything else in the world."

"I sincerely hope to become a great artist. Some day I want to sing with the Metropolitan Opera Company. If my singing brings joy into the lives of people in future years, as I hope that it will, I will be a very happy person."

"I feel that it is imperative that I study some place in the East. I don't care to journey abroad to study, because I think there are just as capable voice instructors in this country as in any foreign nation. I am planning to go to Chicago some time this fall to continue my vocal training, but I am not positive as yet who my teacher will be."

Marion has another musical ability. She has studied the violin for the past five years. She also plays the piano.

"Slang Based on Humor." Slang is hot stuff; it is accepted in the best circles of England and the United States. These assurances of the respectability of "the vernacular" come from Pellam Granville Woodhouse, English writer, known to the United States and England as the master of slang.

"Humor is the basis of all slang," declared Mr. Woodhouse. "That is why this country excels in the invention of clever words and phrases. America laughs and smiles perpetually, and her colloquial expressions bear witness to that fact."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Doings at the Rippling Waters Boy Scout Camp

(BY A SCOUT)

Did you receive some "short and snappy" answers from the Boy Scouts when you first began asking them questions about their hike? This was not because they did not have a good time at camp. We had a fine camp this year. No, probably the reason your kid seemed cross upon arrival was because he was thoroughly tired out and had had no breakfast. But we all got fun out of these little troubles. Did you notice that your boy slept all day? Well, there's no harm in that.

We started out in cars Wednesday, June 7, and were taken to Rock Creek. Mr. Foster was on deck, as he usually is, with his pack-horses and he packed our food to camp. During all our camping days, Mr. Foster gave us all the help he could. He surely has the good will of every boy who went to camp.

When several of the boys had their tents spread out on the ground and were fixing tent-poles the rain broke loose. All those who were already under canvas just sat and laughed at us in our endeavors to fix our tents. At last after "Papa" King had finished his frantic efforts at stowing away bread in dry tents, we all gave up and got into a tent and dripped all over the bedding and persons of the occupants. It was about three days before everything was dry again. Everyone's blankets were soaked. Nearly half the fellows burned holes in their blankets while holding them in front of a bonfire. Everything was steaming. Everything was soaked except the good humor of the boys. In about 11 days we began to experience trouble from a dead cow which was lying above camp about 60 feet. We burned her up so that the flies would not bother us.

On Sunday, June 11, another cow just naturally up and died right in the middle of the creek where our drinking water was gotten. This was a little too much for the nerves and palates of some of the boys.

After that, our drinking water came from the North Umpqua. Somebody in camp pointed out certain signs that the cow had died of tuberculosis. Well, anyway, folks, don't mention dead cow to a scout while he is eating dinner.

Five boys were invited to Mr. Foster's house during camp. It was a novelty to visit his place. He lives about 6 miles up the river from the camp. Morril Ritter, especially, was greatly thrilled by his collection of horse-pistols and guns. He was also thrilled by the cats which Mr. Foster heaped on him.

Howard Shaw submitted the name Camp Rippling Waters, which won the prize.

James Wamsley established a record of falling in the creek only 65 times during our camping time. This is a record, for the minimum number. Everyone else fell in many more times.

Everything which does not go ahead must go backward. This is one of the main principals in scouting. No matter how far a boy goes in scouting there is always a step more which he can advance. The ranks in scouting are gained by passing tests such as Knot-Tying, First-Aid, Signaling, Hiking, Swimming, Woodcraft, etc. This year's camp has been a great place for passing these tests. Many boys who thought of quitting this summer have caught the real spirit of scouting from this year's camp. They want to go on and capture merit badges.

Therefore I hope I have conveyed this idea to you—that scouting is really doing the boys good by getting them interested in something. This year's camp had changed the minds of some boys from a narrow-gauge to a broad-thinking mind. So we wish to thank all Roseburg people who assisted us by donating cars or who helped in any way.

HALL'S PLEA OF ILLEGAL VOTING DECLARED VOID

SALEM, June 20.—The right of a voter to change his registration at the polls was upheld by George M. Brown, then attorney general, in an opinion to Collier H. Buffington, district attorney for Curry county.

This opinion, written on May 9, 1918, has been resurrected from the files of the state's legal department following charges by Charles Hall, defeated candidate for the republican gubernatorial nomination, that

"Watch me," said the strong swimmer, "I'm not afraid"

So he matched his strength against the swirl of the rapids, and laughed at the danger, and kept repeating the stunt, until—

It was the day the life-savers had been waiting for—that day the call for help came.

It's an easy matter to smile at coffee warnings when you're going strong.

But a good many strong swimmers won't risk the rapids, and a good many coffee drinkers are beginning to think of the caffeine in coffee.

Coffee can disturb nerves and digestion, and often it does.

There's a safe and satisfying course for everybody in the selection of a table drink.

Postum has charm without harm. It's the safe drink for all, and probably, therefore, it's the better drink for you. Thousands have found it better, and fully satisfying, for them.

Your grocer has both forms of Postum: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for fully 20 minutes.

"There's a Reason" for Postum

Made by Postum Cereal Company, Inc., Battle Creek, Michigan

re-registration of voters at the polls on election day was in violation of the primary law.

St. Paul Vote Questioned.

Hall's charges on this point are directed particularly against the St. Paul precinct in this county where out of a total of 269 votes cast, Hall received only three. In this precinct, Hall charges, some 59 erstwhile democrats appeared at the polls election day and changed their party registration to republican.

Touching upon this point in his opinion to District Attorney Buffington, Attorney General Brown declared:

May Change Party.

"It seems to be clearly the intention of the legislature that the elector shall have the same privilege of cancellation of his former registration and re-registering before a judge of election as he has before the county clerk or registrar while the registration books are open."
