CLASS FEELING IN POLITICS.

One of the bad features of political life is the tendency for people to vote for those of their own type and so called "class," regardless of the qualifications of such candidates to hold office. The rich man feels that he is crowded with taxes and the stability of his business is threatened by hostile legislation. A candidate of his own type may come along, who has never shown any great interest in public welfare or accomplished any civic service. But it may seem to the rich man as if this fellow would look out for the big business interests, and he votes for him. The man proves a dead weight on the progress of his party and country. Similarly a good talker may come among the people who have had a hard struggle in life and make promises to hold out hopes that can not be realized by any set of politicians, because they are against economic laws. He shakes hands with the men, women and children and often makes them think he loves them all personally. The crowd thinks he will look after the common man, and they vote for him. Such voters often show poor judgement as the result of class hostility preached by radicals. They have been told that the business men and employers are determined to crush them and deprive them of all opportunity, and they vote for the candidate that promises to carry on the most vigorous fight against the business interests. As a result of such mistakes many men are constantly being chosen to office who know little about business, who run public functions in a costly way, and who help divide the community into hostile camps and prevent cooperation and industrial efficiency. What this country needs is a broad spirit that ignores so called class lines, and seeks for honest, competent men who have made good in their own callings, and who are broad enough to care for all interests of the community and all kinds of people.

TALKING PROSPERITY.

Business health is a good deal like physical well being. Physicians have long told their patients that their health was unfavorably affected when they encouraged or tolerated depressed thoughts. Similarly the people who talk in a discouraged way about business help to make business worse. According to some folks, the country is almost always suffering from hard times. They will rarely admit that conditions are good. Always there is something the matter. And at times when there is considerable unemployment, they emphasize the bad conditions and make them out much worse than they really are. Even at the peak of the unemployment that existed last year, the great majority of people were at work and business was going on a good deal as usual. There never was a time yet when there were not good opportunities for ambitious and enterprising and hard working people. The condition of business depends largely on the state of mind of the business men. Some are always hopeful, and they have faith to believe that by a little more persistence, by using their brains a little more, and spending less time in play, they can secure plenty of business. And it usually proves so. Such people are an inspiration to all with whom they come in contact. After talking with them, people feel like branching out and doing things themselves, and they constitute centers of activity from which spread influences that promote prosperity. People read too much about depression and disorganization in Europe, and think that this necessarily means that there must be stagnation in this country. But all through this period, Europe had bought just about the same quantity of goods as before the war. If we have business troubles they are largely the result of our own mistakes, and we can cure them by policies of determination and cooperation.

Wealth does not bring happiness. Neither does poverty. That's why it is pleasant and profitable to strike a happy medium in your every day life and let it go at that.

Public opinion is like the wind—you know from what direction it is blowing today but you cannot foretell the direction tomorrow.

"If at first you don't succeed," its generally better to get another job.

You have only one life to live, so if necessary you should die living it.

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—

Ye ed. receives
 Lots of advice on how
 To conduct this column
 And if we followed
 All of it we'd be
 In a padded cell.

Listening to outsiders give advice on how to conduct your own business has built up a great trade for the poor houses.

It has long been our ambition to start a department of interest to women touching upon beauty and domestic science. We have secured the services as editor of this department one who is not only an expert house-keeper but a great beauty as well. It took us nearly nine years of constant searching to find this combination. We will be glad to receive from our women readers contributions to this department.

Our expert gives the following advice today:

How to Remove Freckles from Nose—Hold nose in boiling water for ten minutes. When skin has peeled off, freckles will be gone.

Resort Hotel Macaroni—Take one hundred feet of last year's garden hose and chop it up in short lengths. Boil four hours or longer if necessary. Pour melted cheese over top and serve with pitchfork. If care is taken, one mess of this macaroni will last several seasons.

How to Make a Cozy Corner—Buy up all the wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade, and you will have one of the coziest corners on earth.

How to Get a Neat Figure—Sue your husband for $10,000 alimony and win your suit.

How to Have a Vegetable Garden—Hypnotize your husband and make him think he is digging for bait.

Mending Stockings—All women should darn their husband's socks, but under no condition should a perfect lady use any stronger language than "darn."

When one is not interested in one's daily work it becomes drudgery and a grind. To enjoy it, understand it. Appreciate the dignity and human helpfulness of it and take pride in doing it just a little better than the other fellow.

The fire boys have installed a siren which makes our Ford horn sound like thirty cents.

LIVE STOCK FIELD NOTE.

A Hampshire I bought for a pet. Unknowing how big she would get. From her nose to her tail, She's as long as a rail, And she hasn't stopped lengthening yet.

JUST SO.

"What have you there, wife?" asked the real estate man.
 "A hat frame."
 "I see. You buy an unimproved hat and do your own construction work."

The cop who sold bootleg isn't a copper still.

In the American league they throw you out of the game for throwing dirt. Babe Ruth being banished the other day. In this state they nominate the dirt slingers for office.

ON SLIPPERY ELM STREET.

"I was walking down the street last night and picked up a wonderful girl."
 "What did she do?"
 "She just said 'Thank you' and walked away."

The president of a Roseburg bank says a woman came up to his window the other day with a cashier's check for fifty dollars. "What denomination?" asked the banker in his pleasantest manner. "Luthern," replied the woman. "What are you?"

How to improve business? One woman declares that if women would refrain from wearing hats, business would pick up. She declares that never in her life has she asked her husband for a new hat that he didn't declare that business was punk.

"I was told," he said, "in my early youth that if I didn't quit smoking cigarettes I'd be feeble minded when I grew up."
 "Well," answered she, "why didn't you quit?"

Got over being ashamed of your last year's straw "Kelley" yet?

Regard for their own nose keeps most men from smacking other men's noses every day.

Booth Tarkington says he "likes to play with the wild girls." So do we, but our wife won't let us.

"There are songs," said the musician, "that have never been died. They go ringing down the ages."
 "That is true, sir," Brown replied. "For the past six months and upward I have heard my daughter try to kill two or three each evening, but they never die."

The man with an ambition to die poor can begin to monkey with used cars and let nature take its course.

It took a post card 11 years to cross New Jersey, which raises the question that New Jersey may be almost as big as she thinks she is.

The eminent doctor was lecturing a class of young M. D.'s on the subject of fees. He explained that for calls at a residence his fee was $25, for office diagnosis $10, and for advice by telephone $5.

"Doctor," said one of the young upstarts, "what do you charge if a man passes you on the street?"

THE DIFFERENCE.

The difference between a baseball pitcher and a barber shop massage-artist is that the former faces the batter and the latter batters the face.

SUITING THE WORD YOU KNOW.

"Your lips are just like rose petals."
 "But really, Hubert I must say good-night now."
 "Well, let's say it with flowers."

LAFE PERKINS SEZ:

"A lilly in the garden is worth a dozen on the chest."

Christians Win From Baptists

The Christians last night won an interesting game of baseball from the Baptist organization, the game being a good one up to the fifth inning when the Baptists went into the air and allowed Christians to score heavily, and win the contest by a score of 15 to 7. In the sixth inning the Christians started scoring and put eight runs over. The inning was marked by considerable wrangling and it finally became so dark that the Baptists lost hope of ever retiring the side and surrendered the game.

The Christians obtained two runs in the first inning. Orr walked and stole second, but was thrown out by Carl Black who occupied the mound for the Baptists. Miles went to first on a fielders' choice and scored when Lancheater hit a double. Lancheater stole second and scored when Bush singled. The Baptists went out in one-two-three order in their half of the first. Fisher drew a walk in the second, but two high flies into left field and a strike-out retired the side without a score.

The Baptists tied the score in the second half of the inning. Tucker singled and stole second, scoring on Piley's two-bagger. Pearson walked, but was forced out at second, when McClintock hit to third. Finley scoring. Singleton went to first on a fielders' choice, but the scoring was stopped when Woody fanned.

The Christians failed to score in the third, but the Baptists got one. Horton hit a three-bagger into center field, but failed a touch first base and was called out. Black walked and stole second, scoring when Burt hit a single.

In the fourth Bush led off for the Christians and hit a single, going to second and third on passed balls, scoring when Fisher singled, tying the score. The Baptists failed to score.

In the first of the fifth, the Christians garnered four runs, a walk and three errors filling the bases which were cleaned up by two singles by Bush and Bruton. The Baptists in their half again tied the score. Woody got on by an error, Horton singled, and Black hit one into the field which was lost in the grass while he rounded the diamond, making a home-run. Finley got on by an error and scored on Pearson's single.

The sixth inning was the fiasco. Orr was hit by a pitched ball, but was forced out on an infield fly decision which caused some dispute. Miles went to first on an error and Orr ran for him. Lancheater singled, Hall was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Bush hit a three-bagger, scoring three runs. Scott walked and Fisher walked and Yates went to first when Burt, who replaced Black, booted the ball round the diamond while two runs raced in. Orr came up the second time and got first on an error. Miles walked, and Lancheater singled, scoring Yates and Orr. By this time it was getting dark and the Baptists gave up the game and retired from the field.

FRENCH CONSUL LEARNS GREAT GAME OF POKER

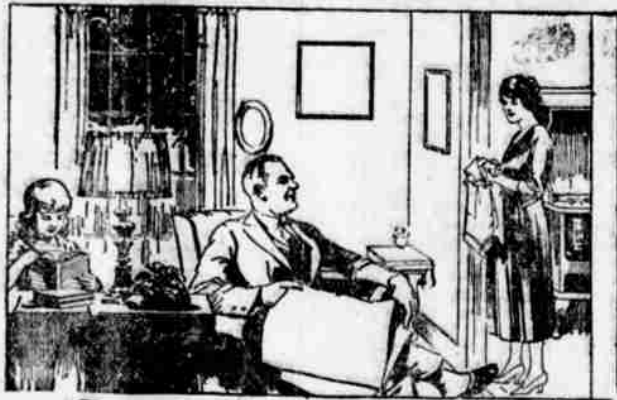

(International News Service.)
 PARIS, June 28.—American friends taught Gustave Ducouasse, chancellor of the French consulate-general at Mayence, in the occupied area, how to play poker.

Ducouasse taught his friends. Yesterday he answered charges of embezzling 40,000 francs in passport charges never recorded in the books of the government.

"Poker did it!" he told the gendarmes who arrested him.

"FLIVVER" A LUXURY, SAY LAWS OF FRANCE

(International News Service.)
 PARIS, June 28.—Is a flivver a luxury?

French law says it is. It demands a "taxe de luxe" of 10 per cent on everything that runs on four wheels and eats gasoline, irrespective of age, race or previous condition of service.

M. Maurice Ajam, deputy, comes out to bat for the flivver. He proposes that the Chamber of Deputies suppress the tax on all motor cars of less value than 15,000 francs (about $12,000), which, in France, means flivvers and their kin.

"It won't make much difference in the budget," M. Ajam is reported to have argued.
