CHDEACON FLAYS GOVENLY DRESS OF YOUTHFUL PASTORS

By THOMAS C. WATSON,
National News Service Staff Correspondent.

ROSEBURG, July 10.—The young preachers of the English Episcopal church have just been severely taken to task by one of their archdeacons for their dress and manners. The archdeacon, in a sermon, flayed the "goat" of walking up to the pulpit in the country churches in a pipe and then acceding to the wishes of the congregation on the subject of the pipe.

"The pipe must stop," says the Archdeacon of Rochester. He carries on that there will be no pipe in the way of minor canonry. He will also see to it that the pipe is in the hands of the minor canonry, and that the pipe is in the hands of the minor canonry.

There is a tendency, says the archdeacon, "to discard the ordinary dress and to appear before the world as ordinary laymen. Such is the habits and conventions of centuries should surely not be discarded in a careless spirit, or in a blind following of fashion."

Representative Morgan, of Ohio, states that such distribution of costs is not justified, and that only cost justified would be the cost of financing the added value resulting from the tariff. The Wool Growers defend the 33 cents duty on imported wool as being in the interest of the general public. The Growers have nothing to conceal, nor do they make apologies for. They are glad to have the public voice its opinion on their position.

In the first place, the proposed duty would apply to considerably less than one half of the domestic consumption of clothing wools, for in 1921, 262,000,000 pounds were imported, as compared with the domestic production of 302,000,000 pounds. The rest of the imported wool is carpet wools, which come in duty-free.

Furthermore, in practice, the price of domestic wool is never equal to the price of foreign wool, plus the fundamental duty.

Secondly, the average amount of grease wool in a suit of clothing is only eight pounds. Taking an average and fair general estimate of about a 50-per cent shrinkage of the wool, the average suit of clothes contains only four pounds of wool, which at the duty of 33 cents, would add an outside maximum of $1.32 to the suit of clothes. The fairer figure which we are willing to admit, would be possibly as much as $1 a suit, that might be added to the retail cost of impression that in certain circles their presence in clerical garb causes a feeling of restraint to come over a gathering. That is as it should be, and should not be made the excuse for throwing off the garb of their vocation and adopting the looseness of manners and speech of the layman."

FARM NEWS

Official Defends Wool Schedule.

The National Association of Retail Clothiers are circulating a charge that the proposed 33 cents a pound duty on scoured wool, will add $5 to the retail price of a suit of clothes. It should not add more than $1.32 at the outside. The retailers arrive at this cost by the following interesting method, as shown by their own statements:

They pyramid the costs in this manner: The wool dealer is supposed to add 10 per cent to the costs of the wool, which is supposed to add 15 per cent to the cost of the product when it leaves the spinner, 17½ per cent when it leaves the weaver, 22½ per cent when it leaves the clothing manufacturer, and 33½ per cent when it leaves the retailer. This is supposed to equal $1.01, paid by the legitimate consumer for every pound of wool bought in a suit of clothes. No mention is made of any profit being allowed the wool grower, as evidently from this hypothesis, he is supposed to work for fun.

Representative Morgan, of Ohio, states that such distribution of costs is not justified, and that only cost justified would be the cost of financing the added value resulting from the tariff. The Wool Growers defend the 33 cents duty on imported wool as being in the interest of the general public. The Growers have nothing to conceal, nor do they make apologies for. They are glad to have the public voice its opinion on their position.

A Suit of Clothes by the Wool Tariff.

As growers, we justify this cost on the basis that the duty is necessary for a greater home production of wool, for greater military security in time of stress, and for the general benefit of a wholesome wool business for the western states, because it is only through wool growing that the vast ranges of the west can be put to economic use. The duty means further, that there can be maintained American wages and an American standard of living among a considerable proportion of the population of the wool growing states.

A settled fair tariff policy for wool over a period of years, would make for the independence of this country from foreign supplies of wool a commodity essential to the welfare of a nation.

The clothiers cannot make this added dollar of legitimate cost of a raw material the basis of $4 in additional profits. The clothiers in their opposition to the wool schedule do not mention that the new tariff provides for duties on clothing and articles of apparel, wholly or in chief value of wool, amounting to from $2 a pound or 40 per cent ad valorem to $4 a pound or 55 per cent ad valorem. That schedule seems to suit them.

ONLY $1.50.

NINE MEASURES ON COMING BALLOT

Voters to Consider Special Measures at Election Next November.

TAX LAWS PREDOMINATE

Two Income Tax Measures Are to Be Voted Upon, One Being Sponsored by Taxpayers' League, and the Other by the State Grange.

SALEM, July 10.—Nine measures will be on the ballot for action by the voters of Oregon next November—seven initiated measures and constitutional amendments and two proposed constitutional amendments which were referred to the people by the legislature of 1921. Eight of the 15 proposed initiative measures for which petitions were placed in circulation failed to make the grade of popular approval and were not completed in time to qualify for a place on the ballot.

Of the seven initiative measures, two provide for taxes on incomes. Both are designed to lift, in part, at least, the burden of direct tax now levied on real and personal property for state expenses. One is sponsored by the Taxpayers' League of Oregon. The other is sponsored by the state grange. The first provides for a flat income tax sufficient to raise one half of the state taxes, the rate of the income tax to be fixed annually as the needs of the state demand. The other provides for a graduated income tax on all net incomes with a proviso that the total tax raised for state purposes by both the income tax and the direct tax shall not exceed that raised by the 1921 levy. Both provide for exemptions and deductions from gross incomes.

The other five initiative measures for which petitions were completed and filed are as follows: Compulsory education bill, sponsored by Ira D. Sturges, Dr. Robert C. Ellsworth and others, under the terms of which all children between the ages of 8 and 16 years would be compelled to attend public schools. This measure which is aimed at the elimination of all private schools, would become effective September 1, 1926.

Interest rate amendment sponsored by J. H. Albright, of Oregon City, limiting the legal rate of interest to 6 per cent with 8 per cent on contracts.

Single tax amendment, sponsored by the Oregon Single Tax league, providing for the taxation of real estate only.

Salmon fishing and propagation amendment, sponsored by G. G. Green, of West Linn, prohibiting the use of seines, traps or fish wheels for catching salmon and requiring that 50 per cent of salmon spawn must be planted in streams from which taken.

Atlantic-Pacific Highway & Electrical exposition amendment, sponsored by the exposition committee, under the terms of which the city of Portland would be permitted to levy a special tax of $1,000,000 a year for three years for financing the world's fair.

In addition to these initiated measures, two constitutional amendments have been referred to the voters by the state legislature. One of these would permit Linn county to levy a special tax with which to pay outstanding warrants. The other would permit Linn and Benton counties to levy special taxes to pay outstanding warrants.

Men Wanted

For service as railroad machinists, boilermakers, blacksmiths, electricians, sheet metal workers, pipe fitters, cooperers, tinners, car inspectors, car repairers, helpers—all classes under strike conditions best explained by Chairman Ben W. Hooper of the United States Railroad Board, in his statement of July 1st reading as follows: "In this case the conflict is not between the employer and the oppressed employees. The people of this country, through an act of congress, signed by President Wilson, established a tribunal to decide such disputes over wages and working conditions which are submitted to it in a proper manner. It is the decision of this tribunal against which the shop crafts are striking. Regardless of any question of the right of the men to strike the men who take the strikers' places are merely accepting the wages and working conditions prescribed by a government tribunal and are performing a public service. They are not accepting the wages and working conditions which an employer is trying to impose. For this reason, public sentiment and full government power will protect the men who remain in their position and new men who may come in." Adequate provisions have been made for the full protection of all new employees, the same as old employees who have remained loyally at work.

Applicants should apply to the office of the superintendent at Portland (Union Station), or to the assistant superintendent at Roseburg.
