

TIRE PRICES SLASHED

Tires and Tubes at Wholesale,

FOR THE Next Ten Days

You can Buy Tires and Tubes at Dealers' confidential list

BARNUM & WILSON

117 North Jackson Street.

"IT'S A FRIEND IN NEED," SAYS LITTLE WOMAN

PORTLAND RESIDENT IS ASTONISHED AT WAY TANLAC RID HER OF DYSPEPSIA AND RESTORED HER HEALTH.

"I am certainly grateful to the friend who urged me to try Tanlac as it has certainly been a friend in need," said Mrs. C. A. Luren, 332 East 50th St., Portland, Oregon.

"Two years ago I began to suffer from indigestion and a very bad form of stomach trouble. My appetite was very poor, what I ate distressed me terribly and would blow me up so bad I just had to gasp for breath and my heart would palpitate so it frightened me. I suffered awfully with constipation, dizzy spells and sick headaches. My arms ached badly, and the muscles of my legs hurt so I could hardly get about. Nothing I tried seemed to do me any good.

"It's astonishing the way Tanlac helped me. My appetite is now splendid, I sleep well and my nerves are steady. In fact, all my troubles have disappeared and I feel just fine. Tanlac is certainly a good medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. Children's white pumps and oxfords at cost Saturday at the Stephens' Shoe Store where you save money.

County Commissioner Here—

Edwin Weaver, county commissioner, was in Roseburg today attending to official duties. Mr. Weaver says that it would be a good thing if about half of the prunes in the Myrtle Creek district would fall off the trees. The trees are so heavily loaded that they are breaking themselves to pieces and the growers are unable to obtain laborers enough to tie up the heavy branches. The fruit will also be small in size, he says.

MOTHER IS DEAD

W. M. Pemberton, of this city, today received the sad news that his mother passed away very suddenly yesterday at the family home in Geneseo, Illinois. Mrs. Pemberton, who was 77 years of age, was quite well known by a number of people here who are grieved to learn of her sudden death.

AROUND THE TOWN

Marriage License Issued—

A marriage license was issued today to A. B. Krieger of Dallas and Flora E. Steinman of this county.

Attorney Watson Home—

Attorney J. O. Watson returned home this morning after spending a few days in Portland attending to legal matters.

Back From Portland—

Attorney A. N. Greut, who has been spending a few days in Portland on legal matters, returned home this morning.

Have your water works drilled early. Deep or shallow wells drilled. Prices reasonable. Albert Graham, Looking Glass, Oregon.

To Bandon—

W. E. Ott and family left by auto today for Bandon and other coast points where they will stay several weeks enjoying their annual outing.

Elks' Dance Postponed—

The Elks' dance, scheduled for Thursday, July 20, has been postponed until Thursday, July 27, at which time a most enjoyable dance will be given.

Fined $10 for Speeding—

L. L. Roberts, local agent for the Jewett car, was fined $10 in the city court today for exceeding the speed limit while "coursing" one of his new machines on Douglas street last evening.

To Enjoy Outing—

Miss Gertrude Dolan will leave tomorrow for Prospect, near Crater lake, where she will enjoy her annual vacation. Miss Dolan expects to be away for several weeks, and will be joined later by Miss Myra Henderson.

Guests at Hotel—

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Stewart, of San Francisco, spent last evening in this city as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Weaver, at the Empress hotel. Mr. Stewart is owner of the large Stewart hotel, in San Francisco. He speaks most favorably of the highway and the scenic beauty of Oregon.

Loyal Boreas Class Meets—

The regular monthly meeting of the Loyal Boreas class was held at the home of Mrs. Steinhauser, of Happy Valley, Saturday, July 8. Following the regular order of business, a lengthy discussion was held in regard to the class supporting some worthy cause such as foreign missions. It was finally agreed that "Charity begins at home," and the class should help the church organization by providing funds for two preachers each month to conduct services at the Green Union Sunday school. As a means to raise funds for this worthy cause, the class decided to sponsor an ice-cream social at the school house on the evening of July 26. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Chances as it is a well-known fact that Americans spend their money freely while traveling abroad, although Uncle Sam is a fairly thrifty housekeeper at home.

What God Says About Reverent Worship

"Then went King David in and sat before the Lord."—II. Samuel 7-8. Did you ever do that? Ever sit reverently, worshipfully, meditatively before God?

And David the King did more. He said, "Who am I, Lord, and what is my house that Thou hast brought me hitherto?"

That's a good way to begin—"Who am I, Lord." Suppose he was King, what did that fact amount to? Suppose you are respected by all your friends—a prince of good fellows, perhaps, but when you sit before God and let Him show you over so little of who He is—well, old Job put it still stronger; he said as he sat before God—"I have heard of Thee by the hearing of the ear, but now mine eye seeth Thee; wherefore, I abhor myself and repent in dust and ashes."

"Don't want to feel that way?" "Destroys your self-respect?" Well, that's the reason there is so little true worship. Men want to justify themselves. "Oh, I am not so bad!" No, you are not, so long as you look at yourself and compare yourself with other folks. Do you think that God would have allowed His Son to die the death He did for you if your case hadn't been desperate? Did you know that it was black-hearted religious men that murdered their Saviour? Oh, my friend, go in and sit before that God who hangs on the cross and let His love shine down into your soul and you, too, will say—"Who am I, Lord?"

(Copyright, 1921—J. A. R.)

First Methodist Church, on South Main at Lane, W. S. Gordon, pastor. Sunday will be "Old People's Day" at our church. Old songs will be sung and the sermon will be on "The Path that Shinneth More and More unto the Perfect Day"—Proverbs 4:18. Is it not true that during this beautiful summer weather many elderly people who are not regular attendants at church, would go if their relatives and friends made a special effort to take them? It succeeds other places. Let's try it next Sunday. The Sunday school meets at 9:45, and the Epworth league at 7. The basement is always cool. If not a member elsewhere, come and enjoy it. A union service will be held here in the evening, and Brother Caldwell will preach the sermon. Mrs. Ruth Covert will have charge of the music. F. C. Curran will lead the Wednesday evening meeting. The lesson is the tenth chapter of Romans.

First Baptist Church, corner Rose and Lane streets, Rev. H. L. Caldwell, minister. 9:45. The church school, O. P. Coshaw, superintendent. Good interest is being maintained this summer. Spiritual needs are constant. It would not be because Christian people to be inconstant in ministering to these needs. Be among those who study to do the will of God. 11 a. m., morning worship. Message by the pastor. It will be good for you to be in the house of the Lord. 7 p. m., Young People's meeting. Andy Caraway, president; Miss Bertha Pentney, leader. Some of the best meetings of the year have been held this summer. To be among live, thoughtful, and devout young people is a real inspiration. All young people are invited. 8 p. m., union service at the First Methodist church. The pastor of the Baptist church will be the preacher. All the people of the community are cordially welcome to these union services.

Salvation Army services for the week-end: Saturday evening, 8. Young People's meeting, led by V. P. S. M. Hulda Dietz. Sunday: Holiness meeting, 11 a. m., Sunday school, 2:30 p. m., V. P. L., 6:15 especially interesting to young people. Evening service, 8. We welcome you to worship with us. Mr. and Mrs. Redifer in charge.

First Presbyterian Church, Lane and Jackson streets, Rev. L. Bowring, minister. 9:45. Bible school, 11, morning worship, special music by Mrs. F. Strand. 7 p. m., senior Christian Endeavor; leader, Miss Florence Kohlhauser; topic, "Earnest or Triflers." 8 p. m., Union service at the Methodist Episcopal Church, North.

Free Methodist church, corner of Harvard and Campden avenue in West Roseburg. Miss Rhoda Burnett, pastor. Sunday school at 10 a. m. Preaching service at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Prayer meeting Thursday, 7:45 p. m. The district quarterly meeting of the Roseburg district will be held at our church July 20-23. Preaching each evening on these dates at 7:45. Three services on Sunday. Our district elder, D. D. Dodge, will be present and have charge of these services. All are invited.

International Bible Students, 2:30 every Sunday at Moose hall. Subject of study, "What Blessings Will Eventually Result Through the Permission of Hell?" In view of the great plan of redemption, and the consequent "restoration of all things" through Christ, we can see that blessings result through the permission of evil which, probably, could not otherwise have been so fully realized. Any persons interested in Jehovah's wonderful plan for the human race are welcome to meet with us.

M. E. Church, South, Main and Lane streets, J. D. Neudham, pastor. The church school will meet at the new hour, 9:45; W. C. Cobb, superintendent in charge. At 11 a. m., the pastor will discuss the present industrial situation, and will use as a basis of what he shall say. The Social Creed of the Church. A cordial invitation is extended to all and especially to organized labor. There will Roseburg Service Station, Inc.

LANE & STEPHENS STREETS

BLANC & SMITH, Props.

Beginning Saturday, July 15th.

WE WILL BE OPEN

DAY AND NIGHT

OUR COMFORT STATIONS ARE AT THE PUBLIC DISPOSAL. SEE US FOR

Kelly-Springfield Tires

A COMPLETE STOCK PNEUMATIC AND SOLID TIRES. OUR MOTTO—QUICK, EFFICIENT SERVICE. PHONE 66

Grip Essential to New Golfer; Both Styles Are Discussed

By ALEC HERD (Written for the United Press.) CHAPTER II.

Editor's Note: In this second of his series of instructions to golf beginners, the noted British golf expert enlarges on the importance of learning the proper grip.

In this article I want to amplify my remarks on the grip. After all, the way in which you grasp the club is the very first essential in golf. It comes even before the swing, because, before you learn to swing, you have to make up your mind how you are going to hold the club.

There are two choices—the overlapping or the natural "V." or palm grip, as it is called. In the overlapping grip the left thumb lies down the shaft of the club, and the little finger of the right hand rests on the forefinger of the left hand. Both hands come together in the palm grip but there is no overlapping. The thumb of the left hand goes round the shaft of the club, the right hand gripping the shaft just below the top joint of the left thumb.

Be Natural.

Both styles have produced champions, but so much has been written about the overlapping grip that beginners think either that it is the only effective method or that the adoption of any other is rank bad form.

Nothing of the kind. I may be accused of prejudice in favor of the palm grip because it happens to be the one which I have always used, but my contention is that it is the natural way of holding a club. A be some good music under the leadership of T. H. Olsen. The Epworth league meets at 7 p. m. Union services in the M. E. church.

Hear Budde McCoppen's California Sextette of real jazz boys at the Armory Monday night, July 17th. The best in dance music.

Leave for Oting— Mrs. J. B. Howard, of Looking Glass, left today for Bandon, where she will spend a month or six weeks enjoying her summer's outing.

Bellyview Club Meets—

The Bellyview club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. J. K. Tester. There was a good attendance and a pleasant afternoon was spent in study and social conversation. A district luncheon was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held August 19 at the home of Mrs. M. P. Dawson.

Ladies habili suits using at cost at Stephens.

The Meyer-Roth illustrations for advertisements are free to News-Review advertisers. Phone 133 and ask for Mr. Roberts. He'll be glad to show you this month's advertising illustrations. They are really good.

Every night the Roseburg News-Review is read by 28,000 people. You can't beat it for an advertising medium.

woodman does not seize an ax with an overlapping grip, in order to cut down a tree. He holds the implement as Nature teaches him to hold it, otherwise he could not get the full force of strength into the blow. Every movement in golf should, first, last, and all the time, be natural.

I have noticed that beginners who adopt the overlapping grip experience some difficulty in completing the upward swing. It becomes complicated because the left thumb being down the shaft, hampers the player in getting the wrists in position at the top of the swing.

Invaded Their Game.

I have had to make the change with some pupils because the knuckle of the left forefinger has become sore and the skin is broken. How many players do you see with a piece of adhesive tape round the knuckle of the left forefinger? This is a sure and certain sign of overlapping. I say definitely that a great many players have permanently injured their game by resorting to this method.

If you have become used to overlapping and like it, then stick to it. It is obviously the grip for you. I do say, however, that the champions and ex-champions who are regarded as shining examples of the new method—for it is new by comparison—would probably have had just as much success with the palm grip. I believe that up to the present the American amateur championship has never been won by a player who uses the overlapping grip. This is a fact which should hearten those beginners who, wrongly, I think, bother themselves about its complicated finger work.

(END CHAPTER II.)

NOTICE. We have purchased the grocery stock of J. M. Raby, located on the camp grounds. Will not be responsible for accounts contracted by the said J. M. Raby.

GRIMM BROS., Props.

NOTICE. All parties are hereby notified not to trespass on my premises.

P. SINNOTT.

CHRISTIANS WIN GAME

The Christian team at the Twilight league stepped into first position for the first time last evening, when by timely hitting and better team work in the field, coupled with Main's excellent pitching, they easily defeated the Presbyterians, winning by 8 to 3. Somehow sadder than most games, last evening's game went seven innings and was played in record time of an hour and thirty minutes. Louis Althaus contributed largely to the swiftness of the exhibition, by steering the players clear of any disputes and umpired very satisfactorily. This game marks the success so far of the Christian's final sport for the pennant as in the last few games they have defeated all the other contenders, giving themselves an advantage of one game over the Baptists and with only three or four more games yet to be played. Main was easily the master of Randolph in the pitching department last evening while behind him were only a few or four. One game's play, Malcom to Whipple, see this Presbyterians was one of the features.

Woman Commits Horrible Crime

(Continued from page one.)

way to get the victim to the scene of the murder; the fight between the two women evenly matched in size and age; the blows with the hammer; a scuffle of the slain girl's automobile; a flight home; a confession to the husband; his efforts to aid her in leaving the state; the disposal of the automobile; the departure on the train and the arrest at Tucson.

Mrs. Meadows as the sheriff said Phillips had told him, had been a few several months, her husband had been killed by electricity here several months ago. The widow, employed as a bookkeeper at a bank, at that institution about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. She had a small automobile, parked at Ninth and Main streets.

When she reached the parking place, she was accosted by Mrs. Phillips.

"Are you going home?" Mrs. Phillips was said to have asked.

"Yes."

"Have you time to take me home?"

"Yes, I've nothing to do the rest of the afternoon."

"Then I wish you'd take me to my sister's home," Mrs. Phillips was alleged to have requested.

Widow Denies Improper Conduct.

They entered the runabout and Mrs. Phillips was said to have directed Mrs. Meadows to the lonely Montecito drive. When they reached the spot where the body of Mrs. Meadows was later found, according to the sheriff, Mrs. Phillips said:

"Let's get out. I want to talk something over with you."

Both left the machine.

Then, according to the version of events given by the sheriff, Mrs. Phillips demanded:

"I want to know your relations with my husband."

The young widow denied anything improper and the wife, according to the sheriff's story, countered with the recital of a number of alleged incidents to which she attached importance, but which Phillips told the sheriff were only idle gossip by neighbors.

The wife and the widow, quarreling over the man; grew angry, the sheriff asserted.

Hot words passed. Then, it is alleged, Mrs. Phillips struck the widow with her recently purchased hammer.

A struggle followed, lasting several minutes.

Struck Her Again and Again.

"Mrs. Phillips told her husband that she struck Mrs. Meadows' head again and again with the hammer," said Sheriff Traeger. "When all life was gone and the head crashed in several places, the body was left where it had fallen, less than a yard from the roadside."

Mrs. Phillips is an expert driver of automobiles. She climbed into Mrs. Meadows' car and drove home. Her clothing was bloodsoaked. Her hair was disheveled. She was on the verge of a collapse. She rushed into her husband's presence, crying:

"Don't leave, don't leave! I've killed the one you love best! You'll never see her again! Oh, I can't live without you!"

You are in a horrible condition," her husband replied. And while she sobbed out her story, he helped her wash her clothing in the bath tub.

Drives Car to Pomona.

They decided her sister and mother, living in the same house, must not know, so they left the house as quickly as possible. The very first problem was the disposal of the widow's automobile. They solved it by Mrs. Phillips driving it to Pomona, 30 miles east of Los Angeles, while her husband followed in his own car. They left the Meadows' machine at the old Greek theater and returned to Los Angeles in their car.

Here Mrs. Phillips registered at a downtown hotel and remained there overnight, while her husband walked the streets, trying to decide what to do. Early in the morning, he joined her and they decided she would leave for El Paso, Texas. He borrowed $50 from a friend as the banks were not yet open, and giving her what money he had about him, they bought a ticket and she boarded the train which left at 8:30 o'clock in the morning.

Decides to Tell Whole Story.

Phillips watched her walk toward the train. Then, for hours, debated with himself what he should do. He decided to consult his attorney; it was after that he came to me and told his story."

Checks were made on Phillips' story. The Meadows' automobile was located at Pomona. Mrs. Phillips' sister, Miss Olla Weaver, was questioned, but her mother was not told of the suspicious against her other daughter.

The dead woman's sister, Miss Genora Tremain, is employed at the same bank but she had not missed Mrs. Meadows, as she did not live together, and she had not reported for work herself today. Their parents, Fred A. and Mrs. Anna Tremain, were located. They helped in the identification.

Convinced that the story of Phillips was correct, Sheriff Traeger telegraphed to the chief of police at Tucson:

"Arrest Mrs. Clara Phillips, alias Mrs. R. S. Jackson, wanted for brutal murder. We have wired conductor. Search her thoroughly to prevent suicide. Wire when under arrest. Will send officer."

He gave also the woman's description, the train she was on and the time it was due at Tucson.

Phillips was permitted to leave the sheriff's office in the custody of a deputy.

The wife and the widow, quarreling over the man; grew angry, the sheriff asserted.

Hot words passed. Then, it is alleged, Mrs. Phillips struck the widow with her recently purchased hammer.

A struggle followed, lasting several minutes.

Struck Her Again and Again.

"Mrs. Phillips told her husband that she struck Mrs. Meadows' head again and again with the hammer," said Sheriff Traeger. "When all life was gone and the head crashed in several places, the body was left where it had fallen, less than a yard from the roadside."

Mrs. Phillips is an expert driver of automobiles. She climbed into Mrs. Meadows' car and drove home. Her clothing was bloodsoaked. Her hair was disheveled. She was on the verge of a collapse. She rushed into her husband's presence, crying:

"Don't leave, don't leave! I've killed the one you love best! You'll never see her again! Oh, I can't live without you!"

You are in a horrible condition," her husband replied. And while she sobbed out her story, he helped her wash her clothing in the bath tub.

Drives Car to Pomona.

They decided her sister and mother, living in the same house, must not know, so they left the house as quickly as possible. The very first problem was the disposal of the widow's automobile. They solved it by Mrs. Phillips driving it to Pomona, 30 miles east of Los Angeles, while her husband followed in his own car. They left the Meadows' machine at the old Greek theater and returned to Los Angeles in their car.

Here Mrs. Phillips registered at a downtown hotel and remained there overnight, while her husband walked the streets, trying to decide what to do. Early in the morning, he joined her and they decided she would leave for El Paso, Texas. He borrowed $50 from a friend as the banks were not yet open, and giving her what money he had about him, they bought a ticket and she boarded the train which left at 8:30 o'clock in the morning.

Decides to Tell Whole Story.

Phillips watched her walk toward the train. Then, for hours, debated with himself what he should do. He decided to consult his attorney; it was after that he came to me and told his story."

Checks were made on Phillips' story. The Meadows' automobile was located at Pomona. Mrs. Phillips' sister, Miss Olla Weaver, was questioned, but her mother was not told of the suspicious against her other daughter.

The dead woman's sister, Miss Genora Tremain, is employed at the same bank but she had not missed Mrs. Meadows, as she did not live together, and she had not reported for work herself today. Their parents, Fred A. and Mrs. Anna Tremain, were located. They helped in the identification.

Convinced that the story of Phillips was correct, Sheriff Traeger telegraphed to the chief of police at Tucson:

"Arrest Mrs. Clara Phillips, alias Mrs. R. S. Jackson, wanted for brutal murder. We have wired conductor. Search her thoroughly to prevent suicide. Wire when under arrest. Will send officer."

He gave also the woman's description, the train she was on and the time it was due at Tucson.

Phillips was permitted to leave the sheriff's office in the custody of a deputy.

The wife and the widow, quarreling over the man; grew angry, the sheriff asserted.

Hot words passed. Then, it is alleged, Mrs. Phillips struck the widow with her recently purchased hammer.

A struggle followed, lasting several minutes.

Struck Her Again and Again.

"Mrs. Phillips told her husband that she struck Mrs. Meadows' head again and again with the hammer," said Sheriff Traeger. "When all life was gone and the head crashed in several places, the body was left where it had fallen, less than a yard from the roadside."

Mrs. Phillips is an expert driver of automobiles. She climbed into Mrs. Meadows' car and drove home. Her clothing was bloodsoaked. Her hair was disheveled. She was on the verge of a collapse. She rushed into her husband's presence, crying:

"Don't leave, don't leave! I've killed the one you love best! You'll never see her again! Oh, I can't live without you!"

You are in a horrible condition," her husband replied. And while she sobbed out her story, he helped her wash her clothing in the bath tub.

Drives Car to Pomona.

They decided her sister and mother, living in the same house, must not know, so they left the house as quickly as possible. The very first problem was the disposal of the widow's automobile. They solved it by Mrs. Phillips driving it to Pomona, 30 miles east of Los Angeles, while her husband followed in his own car. They left the Meadows' machine at the old Greek theater and returned to Los Angeles in their car.

Here Mrs. Phillips registered at a downtown hotel and remained there overnight, while her husband walked the streets, trying to decide what to do. Early in the morning, he joined her and they decided she would leave for El Paso, Texas. He borrowed $50 from a friend as the banks were not yet open, and giving her what money he had about him, they bought a ticket and she boarded the train which left at 8:30 o'clock in the morning.

Decides to Tell Whole Story.

Phillips watched her walk toward the train. Then, for hours, debated with himself what he should do. He decided to consult his attorney; it was after that he came to me and told his story."

Checks were made on Phillips' story. The Meadows' automobile was located at Pomona. Mrs. Phillips' sister, Miss Olla Weaver, was questioned, but her mother was not told of the suspicious against her other daughter.

The dead woman's sister, Miss Genora Tremain, is employed at the same bank but she had not missed Mrs. Meadows, as she did not live together, and she had not reported for work herself today. Their parents, Fred A. and Mrs. Anna Tremain, were located. They helped in the identification.

Convinced that the story of Phillips was correct, Sheriff Traeger telegraphed to the chief of police at Tucson:

"Arrest Mrs. Clara Phillips, alias Mrs. R. S. Jackson, wanted for brutal murder. We have wired conductor. Search her thoroughly to prevent suicide. Wire when under arrest. Will send officer."

He gave also the woman's description, the train she was on and the time it was due at Tucson.

Phillips was permitted to leave the sheriff's office in the custody of a deputy.

The wife and the widow, quarreling over the man; grew angry, the sheriff asserted.

Hot words passed. Then, it is alleged, Mrs. Phillips struck the widow with her recently purchased hammer.

A struggle followed, lasting several minutes.