Entered as second class matter May 17, 1920, at the post office at Roseburg, Oregon, under the Act of March 2, 1879.

WOMEN AND CLASS FEELING.

A woman from another state where her sex was granted the suffrage two years ago, says it seems to her that class feeling in politics and the community has increased since the woman got the vote. She was a believer in female suffrage, and she thinks that in many ways woman suffrage has done good, so this is not the view of any disgruntled "anti." Her feeling is that women take social slights more keenly than men. The men do not worry if they are not included in social circles. If they are not invited into the parties given in certain sets, they care little, and think these parties would be a bore anyway. Women on the contrary enjoy society life much better, and have secret longings to enter circles and cliques that may be closed to them. Hence they may entertain to a larger extent the un-American idea that the community is divided into social groups and feel some bitterness against those who are more popular or wealthy than they are, and this feeling may react in politics. A person who entertains that feeling might think that the ballot at least was one weapon with which she could revenge herself for social slights. Whether or not there is anything in this theory, a lot of class feeling has developed lately in politics, and it is doing no good. Some politicians get office by claiming to be special defenders of the workingman, when they may be wholly unfit for office, and may run public business so poorly that government costs more, taxes are high, business is impeded by this heavy burden, workers are thrown out of a job, and rents are made high. The workingman suffers more from poor government than any one. It is for his interest to see to it that men are put in office who not merely mean well and are friendly to him, but will run the office in such an efficient way that high taxes will not upset the business of the community.

Evasion of the Eighteenth Amendment is looked upon as something to be proud of by very many people, and moonshine stills in various parts of the country attest to the fact. These law violators are frequently apprehended and fined, and in some cases short jail sentences added. The law was made to enforce, and every loyal citizen should add his or her mite in maintaining the statute. Those people who aid and abet the manufacturer of illicit liquor by buying it, or perhaps finding a market for the stuff, can morally only be classed with the man who brews the concoction. One is morally just as guilty as the other, although the law does not so look upon the matter. The country has gone "dry" for all time, despite all straw votes to the contrary, and just so soon as the man who helps to keep bootleggers going finds himself in bad with the law abiding element, he will then begin to see a great light on a subject that heretofore he has viewed through the bottom of a dark bottle. He will then become a better man and citizen.

One of these days when Umpqua Valley people arouse to the point of thorough appreciation of the wonderful climate and boundless resources here, and the facts are heralded to the world, there will be an influx of easterners that will rival the annual exodus from sections east of the Missouri river to the Golden State. In addition to climatic assets this county has big game hunting, fishing, mountain, coast and river resorts, scenic attractions that rival a world field, and a class of people who are mostly American born, and in whose hearts lies a real welcome, and not merely a greed for the gold the traveler may bring with him. Nature has lavished her blessings in the Umpqua Valley, and these good things the people now here will gladly share with others who may come.

Civil war in Italy, the very latest in that line, is evidence that something is radically wrong in that country. The disturbance appears to be gaining some headway, involving thousands of troops and some vicious fighting. Small wonder that the premiers of European countries are, with so much strife on every side, driven to the verge of distraction in an effort to hold their government together.

It is rumored that J. E. McClintock made a motion that spittoons be provided for the street corner loafers.

And that Bill Powell wanted to feed the city horses shredded wheat instead of hay.

But the rest of the Dads got sleepy and adjourned.

We don't blame 'em.

City Recorder Bill (hard cue) Whipple was too busy scribbling down the moments of the council meeting last eve, to render a decision concerning ye ed.'s recount on the Heicaity contest, but Bill says he'll hand us down his mandate tomorroy sure.

Gosh, we hope they don't discover any frauds.

THE CUB REPORTER.

The cub reporter ground out the announcement of an engagement and laid it on the editor's desk.

"Mr. and Mrs. Blank announce today the marriage of their daughter next Monday," it started out.

"Huh," grunted the editor. "You can't say they announced a marriage yet to take place. Fix that."

The cub jabbed away at the typewriter for a few minutes and then returned with this:

"Mr. and Mrs. Blank predicted today the marriage of their daughter Monday."

A coward is a man who's afraid to go ahead when he knows he's right.

In lovers' parlance blue means constancy, and the way the blue laws stay right with us seems to prove it.

HIS MASTER'S VOICE.

The burglar had entered the house as quietly as possible, but his shoes were not padded and they made some noise. He had just reached the bedroom door when something caused him to pause.

The sound of a woman's voice floated to his ears.

"If you don't take off your boots when you come into this house," it said, "there's going to be trouble and a lot of it. Here it's been raining for three hours and you have the audacity to tramp over my carpets with your muddy boots on. Go downstairs and take them off this minute."

He went downstairs without a word, but he didn't take off his boots. Instead he went straight out into the night, and the pal who was waiting for him saw a tear glisten in his eye.

"I can't rob that house," he said, "it reminds me of home."

No matter where we're ready to go we're always waiting for some one slow.

Poky-hontas, Poky-hontas. Ready to go to the club house at noon. It's wait for her, who'll come along pretty soon.

Poky-hontas, Poky-hontas. Ready to catch the five o'clock car. "Hold it for me," we hear from afar.

Poky-hontas, Poky-hontas. I hope by now you know whom we mean.

Mery's the slowest person we've seen. Poky-hontas, Poky-hontas.

The city paters last eve, ordered the st. cleaning dept. to clean up the main stem once or twice a month during the hot summer months. "I don't see how we're going to stand all of this cleanliness at once."

Famous Actor Is Chicken Fancier

Petaluma, Cal., Aug. 8. (United Press.)—A Petaluma chicken raucher has come home, not to roost, but to take the old place over.

He is Frank McEllyn, who has made an international reputation playing the role of Lincoln in John Steinwater's play about the great martyr.

McEllyn once conducted a little chicken ranch near Petaluma. McEllyn admits he wasn't a very successful rancher, but isn't sorry. If he had made more of a success as a chicken rancher, he probably would not have become one of the foremost stars of the American stage.

McEllyn is spending his vacation in this district, re-visiting many of the old scenes familiar during his residence here.

Roseburg to Aid 1925 Fair Caravan

PORTLAND, Aug. — Applications to join the 1925 Exposition caravan have been flooding into the caravan headquarters in the Electric building in such numbers that the required forty cars will be reached either this afternoon or tomorrow, according to W. P. Strandborg, chairman of the committee.

Many civic clubs have promised two or more machines for the caravan. Only cars which represent some organization will be allowed in the caravan. Even with this limitation, it is expected that over 150 persons will make the pilgrimage.

A. E. Shearer, secretary of the Oregon State Automobile association, has been designated as official pilot. J. C. Henderson, of the Portland Community Service, will be song leader. He will take an organ along with him, and will be accompanied by the Rev. Carl S. Dunn.

Roseburg to Aid

A whole day's stop will be made at Crater lake. Fishing enthusiasts will go well to take along their tackle and bait for the lake trout. Strandborg intimates.

Roseburg is the first city along the way to send in an offer of co-operation in response to letters sent to the caravan committee. The mayor and the biggest band will be on hand to greet the fair boosters, says the message.

A forest patrol plane may be obtained for the trip to announce the approach of the caravan at the different towns. Strandborg is now communicating with Governor Ocott on the matter.

Many to Join.

Clubs which have announced their intention of entering, so far, are: Portland Chamber of Commerce (two machines), State Chamber of Commerce, Portland Ad club (four cars), State Federation of Labor, Rotary club, Port and Realty board, Progressive Business Men's Club, East Side Business men's club, Kiwanis, Lions' club, State Fair board, Community Service association, Port, and Rose Festival association.

CLEVER DORIS PAWN WITH DUSTIN FARNUM

Doris Pawn, who is Dustin Farnum's leading woman in the Fox production, "Strange Idols," which comes to the Antler theater tonight, like so many young actresses who have become conspicuous in motion pictures, is a product of the west. She was born in Norfolk, Nebraska, 25 years ago, and took to the screen after a business college education.

Miss Pawn is a charming actress, and has appeared in many screen successes for Universal, Paramount, Goldwyn, and Robertson-Cole. She also has figured in a number of Fox pictures previous to "Strange Idols"—notably in "Blue Blood and Red."

Increased Deaths from Booze Shown

ALBANY, Aug. 8.—Figures tabulated by the State Department of Health show deaths from acute and chronic alcoholism in all parts of New York state for the first five months of 1922 are increasing at an alarming rate over the corresponding period of a year ago.

The figures, based on reports from cities and rural districts, show the death toll from alcohol to be 122. The total deaths for 1921 were 145.

Members of the State Hospital commission say there is no doubt that insanity resulting from alcoholism will show an increase this year. In 1921 there was an increase of 71 cases of alcoholic insanity over the previous year.

Reports from rural sections show that persons there are drinking more liquor than ever before. For 23 deaths from alcohol reported from the rural sections in 1921, the first five months of 1922 already have rolled up 15. In the cities outside of New York city, 20 deaths so far have been reported in comparison with 38 in 1921.

Month by month for the first five months of the present year, with the exception of May, there has been a steady increase of acute alcoholism deaths throughout the state, the Health department finds. The monthly liquor death roster is: January, 17; February, 21; March, 27; April, 33; May, 26.

The increase in these deaths is
