Recorder of the City of Roseburg, Oregon.

Burden of Official Duty Causes Harding to Stick At Desk During Hot Spell

By WEBSTER K. NOLAN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.— President Harding plans to spend the summer in Washington "at work." All vacation plans for the presidential family have been tucked away, it having been definitely determined upon that the president and Mrs. Harding will do their "hibernating" in the summer.

The economic chaos in which the country threatens to find itself by the time winter comes, coupled with the recurrent labor troubles and other highly important matters before the president, not to mention the strain that congress is exerting upon him, and to cast aside altogether the worries attendant upon watching the political mercury bob up and down its greased keel, has served to literally nail the president to the White House.

There is the vague prospect that the president may spend a week-end at the Bar Harbor (Maine) country estate of Edward B. McLean, publisher friend of the president. It would be a midsummer jaunt aboard the yacht Mayflower and would last no longer than the week-end. No arrangements are being made for the trip, however.

May Go to Mooseheart.

In the latter part of August, however, the president has earnest hopes of being able to keep his promise to go to Mooseheart, Illinois, the home of the Loyal Order of Moose. The president long ago promised his secretary of labor, James J. Davis, who is president of the Loyal Order of Moose, that he would attend the annual Moose show at Mooseheart. The president, it was made known at the White House, will bend every effort to keep that engagement. The affair is scheduled to be something between the nature of a convention and a barbecue. At any rate, it will have a strong juvenile strain, for Mooseheart is the home of the orphanage maintained by the Loyal Order of Moose, as well as the site where that order has established great technical foundations and manual training schools.

The trip to Mooseheart is scheduled for August 26. The president would leave Washington on the night of August 24, arriving in Chicago on the 25th. He would be taken by automobile to Mooseheart, which is not far from Chicago. On the night of the 26th the president, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Harding, will be a house guest of either Brigadier-General Charles G. Dawes at Evanston, Illionis, or a house guest of Frederic W. Upham, treasurer of the republican national committee, whose country estate is also at Evanston. On the 27th the president would return to Chicago, where he is not scheduled, as yet, to deliver any speeches, leaving Chicago for Washington that night and arriving back in Washington late on the night of August 28.

May Take Boat Trip.

The president and Mrs. Harding may seek respite from the excessive heat of Washington even during their long stay in the capital during the summer months by making brief trips aboard the Mayflower down the Potomac river to Chesapeake bay and back. It is not even thought likely that the president will take two-day week-end trips aboard the presidential yacht, contenting himself with all-day Sunday voyages.

All hope that the president would be able to make a flying trip to the west coast late in October has also simmered down to but the faintest gleam. The indications are that the White House will remain the presidential abode until the summer of 1923.

Detroit Woman Eats Pistol With Which She Scared Car Passengers

(International News Service.)

DETROIT, Aug. 10.— Patrolman Joseph Higgins was swinging dutifully along Mount Elliott avenue about 10 o'clock at night when suddenly a Grand Belt street car came to a jarring stop at Harper avenue.

Higgins was diverted by seeing the conductor come leaping through a window. His diversion changed to downright interest when the passengers began following the conductor, surging through windows and doors, screaming as they emerged.

The patrolman sensed immediately that something was happening. He approached. A woman stood in the center of the car menacing the fleeing passengers—and one gentleman in particular—with a black gun.

Higgins drew his own weapon and huskily commanded her to "drop that there gun!"

"You may have it if you wish," the young woman giggled.

She tossed it to him. He examined it and then blushed furiously. He arrested the woman and her male companion.

When taken into court the "gun-toter" informed Judge Jeffries she was Grace Lubin, forty. The man identified himself as James Atkinson, forty-seven.

Miss Lubin said he had been courting her for a month and that she grew tired of the wooing. She drew her revolver in the street car to scare him, she testified, when he insisted on marrying her then and there. Judge Jeffries turned the gun over on his desk.

"Will you eat this if I let you go?" he asked Miss Lubin.

"I'll try to," she said.

It was a candy gun, fashioned deftly of nice brown chocolate.

Freight Rates Are Revised

Revised freight rates on certain items are announced in a letter received by L. B. Moore, local freight and passenger agent. The letter is self-explanatory and is as follows:

"In response to several requests, we have decided to establish the following rates on carriers (not new packages) empty; namely, Tin Can crates, fruit and vegetable boxes and crates, cider or vinegar barrels, when returned to original point of shipment from which forwarded loaded, or when shipped for a return paying load over the same line or route as the outbound movement empty.

"Rates to apply on carloads with a minimum of 12,000 pounds, subject to minimum charge of $10 per car, and according to the distance between points of movement:

"Fifteen miles or less.....5c
Over 15 miles, not over 25 miles 6c, Over 25 miles, not over 35 miles 7c, Over 35 miles, not over 50 miles, 8½c. Over 50 miles, not over 65 miles, 10½c. Over 65 miles, not over 80 miles, 11½c; Over 80 miles, not over 90 miles 13c; Over 90 miles, not over 105 miles, 14c; Over 105 miles, not over 125 miles, 16c; Over 125 miles, not over 150 miles, 17c; Over 150 miles, not over 175 miles, 18½c; Over 175 miles, not over 200 miles, 20c; Over 200 miles, not over 225 miles, 21½c; Over 225 miles, not over 250 miles, 22½c; Over 250 miles, not over 275 miles, 24½c; Over 275 miles, not over 300 miles, 25c; Over 300 miles, not over 325 miles, 27c; Over 325 miles, not over 350 miles, 28½c.

"Agents will be required to police the movements and rates will be applied only where satisfactory evidence has been furnished: First, that the packages were originally forwarded full via our line and are being returned empty to the shipper of the original filled package, and, Second, that when the packages are forwarded for return paying load, satisfactory evidence that they are to be used for filling with fruits or vegetables, etc., and returned under load over the same line or route to the shipper of the original empty package.

"If these conditions are not complied with, it is to be understood that the rates will not apply, for reasons which I am sure you will readily appreciate.

"The reduction in rates will run from $4 to $15 a car, and which, when taken into consideration with the recent 10 per cent reduction, effective July 1, results in a very heavy decrease in the transportation charges for packages of the character mentioned. It is made in the sole interest of the farmer or fruit and vegetable grower, and to assist in the development of the canning industry along our lines.

"In the negotiations and working out of this reduction, E. M. Burns, secretary of the Oregon Canners' league, has been most helpful and I wish to take this opportunity of extending to you an acknowledgement of his services.

"Yours truly,
"J. H. MULCHAY."

Prune Growers to Receive Cash

Liberal payments to prune growers are to be made by the Oregon Growers' Co-Operative association this fall, according to an official announcement, upon delivery of the fruit to the packing plants. These payments will be of sufficient amount to cover the costs of harvesting, and will be followed shortly by other advances based upon the grade report. With 75 to 80 per cent of the 1922 crop sold, officials believe it possible to make earlier payments than heretofore.

The market situation is reported dull, with practically no buying, and the trade waiting for the California association to announce prices. The extent to which the trade has supplied itself with the Oregon prune will be indicated after the California prices are announced, it is said.

Grants Pass Will Market Fruit Crop

The Grants Pass district of the Oregon Growers' Co-Operative association, which has been selling its fruit through Medford, is to market its fruit hereafter directly through the association proper, according to a recent report. The estimated tonnage which this district will produce is 14,000 boxes of apples; 5400 boxes of winter pears; 10 to 20 cars of peaches, and two to three cars of grapes.

The association, it is said, will not handle the Bartlett pear tonnage this year due to a previous arrangement of this district with its agents.

Forest Examiner Assigned Here

Walter Leve, forest examiner, of Portland, has arrived in Roseburg and will be located here permanently. This is the first time a forest examiner has been assigned to the Umpqua forest for a number of years, R. S. Wallace having been the last examiner regularly appointed to this forest. The forest examiner is a technical man who does both field and office work, and the presence of Mr. Leve will take considerable work off the other members of the force.

"Hiking Nell" Is Heading South

"Hiking Nell," woman hobo who was taken into custody at the Southern Pacific yards Tuesday on suspicion of being demented, was released by the county court yesterday following an examination of her mental condition by a physician. While it was the court's opinion that her mind is not normal, it was decided that she is harmless. She declared that she would not remain at the home for the feeble-minded, but admitted she had been for three years and a half in an Illinois asylum. She said, however, that she had been placed there following an injury to her head, inflicted by a fellow transient, and had recovered. With her belongings in a sack, "Hiking Nell" continued southward last evening.—Albany Democrat.
