ROSEBURG NEWS-REVIEW, AUGUST 17, 1922.

GUIDING THE YOUNG FOLKS.

The modern girl who has got up to the age of high school graduation, is to a large extent a finished product. Many parents complain bitterly of their young people's unrestrained ways, when the fault is their own, through many years of easy going parenthood. These girls have developed the habit of independent thought. They can be reasoned with, just as any element of people can be. Their purpose and acts can be shaped and influenced by those who know how to appeal to them. But they have to be treated as essentially mature people. The time to shape the coming generation of young people is when they are still young boys and girls who look to their parents for guidance. Too frequently the fathers and mothers lack patience and firmness at this critical period. The wise parent at such a time gives his whole thought to the effort to give his young people a correct point of view. He shows them what would be the general result if young people cultivate rough and coarse habits. Still more can be done by throwing young people under uplifting influences. If they seek undesirable companionships, they can not always be shown by argument the harm done by such associations. The thing to do is to organize better comradeships. Girls that have been induced to take up some form of achievement, some athletic sport or study of some art like music, under helpful and ennobling associations, soon find their minds full of the desire for attainment. They naturally become tired of rough and coarse associates, and soon see that their former ideals were crude and unsatisfying. Girls who grow up with such broader interests, will never constitute any flapper problem. They will have charm and initiative of the modern generation, but their better associations will give them a touch of refinement that will protect them from coarse manners and contaminating associations.

People familiar with the ways of the young women who have gone away from home to enter business or the professions, speak of the large number who are keeping house all alone in two or more rooms, often in one. They seem to prefer to prepare one or two meals a day for themselves and get the others in restaurants, rather than give up their independent life and enter some home as a boarder. It will seem a cheerless and solitary life to some. Yet the modern young woman is so bright and resourceful that she makes friends quickly, and can make her own little apartment the center of a circle of friendship. Parents whose girls leave home at an early age may think this a Bohemian and sometimes exposed sort of life. But the modern girl knows the ways of the world, and if brought up in a good home is usually able to take care of herself.

One of the best schemes ever devised to obviate automobile accidents, is the idea of painting a strip along the center line of the highway when the same is twisting around curves. Many accidents occur on these road turns. Drivers will tear around these crooks at a high rate of speed without regard to the center line. Many try to pass cars on such curves and come to grief by getting over on the left side at the same time that another car is coming. These reckless ways are not premeditated, and people who do such things would condemn them if they saw other people indulging in the same habits. The stripe painted down the center of a road recalls an impatient driver to his common sense, and reminds him of the peril of his heedless ways. It is a powerful suggestion that he must keep where he belongs. Curved roads in Oregon should be so marked as far as possible.

The live stock industry of Douglas county has always been a big asset to the community, and many years ago greater numbers of sheep and cattle were raised than at present. With the passing of the big stock ranges, demands on the farmer for livestock are constantly increasing. This also is true partly because population is growing year by year, so that consumption for meat products is bound to grow. Livestock pays the farmer well, and where pasture is available ranchers will do well to keep a few head of sheep and cattle for market. The demand is good, and by sowing sweet clover and other forage crops, pastures may be brought up to that point where they will support from two to four times the number of animals that can be maintained on lands where native grass only is afforded. Douglas county is an attractive field for stock raising, and the industry here will bear fostering.

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—
Red hats are on display for hunters and judging from former seasons They make an excellent target.

Quite a few of the local celebrities are returning from their annual vacations.

And quite a few are wondering how they overdraw their bank account.

The st. cleaning dept. last night flushed the sts., washing the dirt up on the sidewalks which the merchants today shoveled back into the sts.

The young fry of the village are beginning to get nervous as school time approaches and so are the parents who vision the purchase of new shoes, books, etc.

Ben Oilcloth who won the recount from one Charley Hall hasn't made an airplane flight for a dog's age and we're beginning to think that times are becoming abnormal.

There's a big difference between merit and notoriety. A five-dollar bouquet of roses hardly attracts attention to the wearer, but if she eats a nickel's worth of onions, she can break up the dance.

SPONTANEOUS INSPIRATION.
At Wichita recently I saw for the first time a discarded auto tire tied to a tree by a long rope making a sort of swing. In a couple of weeks this type of boy-made swing had spread all over the country. Did some one boy think of it first and pass the word along, or did the boys all think of it at the same time? Personally I subscribe to the theory of spontaneous inspiration.—Victor Murdock in Wichita Eagle.

Howdy friends! You can't always judge folks by the dogs they keep because maybe the dogs can't help it.

The only way to attain perfection is to follow all the advice you give other people.

Colored Bootlegger (three jumps ahead of the officers)—"Gimme a ticket on de speedin'est train what runs. I craves direction—an' ne' mind where to."

Ticket Man—"But the fast train has just gone."

C. B.—"Ne' mind. Jus' show me de track it left on."

It used to be time enough for a man to marry when he owned his own home. Now the time for a man to marry is as soon as he can roll his own cigarettes.

PROBABLY MEANS BETWEEN 30 AND 50.
The kiss of a pretty girl is always highly regarded among men, but as the rule, after a man passes 50 he would rather have a mess of young turnip greens.

Remember the night your girl's mother called her in off from the front porch at 11 o'clock, which was pretty late in those days, and you got mad and swore you'd get even with the old lady if it took a thousand years? Well, the point is, did you ever get even, and if you did, how?

We hope every gardener planted plenty of beans this year and then there will be plenty to spill.

"Haven't seen you for a long time. Still working for the same people?"
"Sure. Wife and four kids."

The prune pickers who work in the orchards make a durned sight more cash than the prune picker that pounds this typewriter.

This is the season of the year that the flies hang around close.

The "li," a weekly paper, informs us, is the Chinese mile. How many lies an hour does your Ford do?"

SMART ANIMAL.
"What makes your dog howl when he hears jazz?"
"Intelligence, I suppose," replied Mr. Grumpton.

Another drawback to city life will be heard when all the neighborhood radios start receiving the evening concerts at once, and the windows are open.

CAUSE FOR THANKS.
"What do you think of the two candidates?" asked one elector of another.
"What do I think of them?" was the reply. "Well, when I look at them I'm thankful only one of them can get in."

LAFE PERKINS SEZ:
"It's about the time of the year when the young boy gets his ears washed."

Street department last night washed the city streets. The flushing of the pavements greatly improved their appearance, and the new method is decidedly an improvement over the old way of cleaning.

Return Home Soon
Mrs. E. S. Heinline, who has been enjoying the last two months in the east, visiting old friends, will leave New York city on her return trip home, August 19. Mrs. Heinline will take the last trip from New York to New Orleans, and then the southern route home.

CHICKEN DINNER FRIDAY.
The W. R. C. will give a chicken dinner in the banquet room of the Armory Friday from 11:30 to 1 p. m. Price 50c. Each W. R. C. lady is requested to bring a pie.

In Ye Olden Days

(From the Roseburg Review, March 19, 1891.)

George W. Kimball returned yesterday from his six-months' tour of the States. He visited all the principal points of interest and returned looking well, although he has suffered considerably with neuralgia during his absence.

Douglas Wolfe, who has been attending the State university at Eugene, came home last week. He has been forced to give up his studies on account of weak eyes.

Tom Williams, Milton Olfivant and William Irwin and several other citizens of Ten Mile are courted this week.

The masquerade ball given by the Roseburg Fire department last Tuesday night was a success. The attendance was large and all present seemed to enjoy the occasion. Many elegant costumes were exhibited, and the characters were generally well sustained. Langenberg's orchestra furnished excellent music. Mrs. T. B. Foster, Mrs. A. T. Thompson, Mrs. D. Clements, E. McBroome and S. D. Evans were chosen judges. The prizes awarded were as follows: Handsomest dressed lady, "Egyptian Queen," Mrs. Lillian Winston, silver pot pourri bar; handsomest dressed gentleman, "Earl of Leicester," Dr. N. J. Ozing, gold fountain pen; best sustained female character, "Old Woman," Miss Flora Protzman, silver napkin ring; best sustained male character, "Dutch Policeman," Sam Sykes, gold tin pin.

Oakland News: E. H. Pinkston who has been on the sick list, is able to be attending to business again.

Dr. K. L. Miller and S. I. Thornton are now having platted into town lots the property purchased by them from Judge Gaddis. It lies west of the railroad track near the Masonic cemetery, and its streets will correspond with those of Riverside, of which it will be a continuation.

Walter Hamilton is confined to the house with sickness. He is now improving, and will be able to attend to business again.

Judge Riddle has had the court house yard broken and set out to ornamental trees. He has made a varied selection, including the American horse chestnut, beach, soft and hard shell almonds, white and English elm, Russian mulberry, two varieties of birch, mountain ash, blue ash, sugar maple, red bud or Judas and yellow poplar. In a few years the square will present a handsome appearance.

VISITORS AT THE AUTO CAMP GROUNDS

Short Stories of the Strangers Who Stop in Their Journey Along the Highway.

Walter Maxson and wife and two little ones, of Walla Walla, arrived in Roseburg yesterday afternoon after a tour which has taken them through the Yellowstone park, across Utah and Arizona into southern California, and north to this city, where they camped at the auto tourist park. They have been on the road for about two months, and are now on the way home. They left today, after enjoying Roseburg's hospitality, expressing themselves delighted with the town.

Among Californians camping here last night were F. Plalsted and wife, of Crescent City, who are enroute home from a trip to Portland. They will go by way of Sacramento.

F. A. Brennel and wife, of Taft, California, stopped here last night enroute to Portland and Willamette Valley points.

R. J. Nelson and wife, of Los Angeles, who have been visiting friends at Portland, camped here last night enroute south.

Another party from California consisted of D. M. Todd and wife, of Anaheim, who have been touring in Oregon. They are on the way home, but were caught in the rain at Portland, which was the first experience of the kind they have encountered on the trip.

C. H. Stowers and wife, of Crescent City, enroute home following a trip through Oregon, were camped here last night, and have a good impression of Roseburg and Douglas county to take home with them.

Other visitors were E. Nash and family, Pullman, Washington; A. Hershburger and wife, Los Angeles; S. C. Frank and wife, Portland; R. H. Swenson and wife, Monmouth; H. J. Nelson and wife, Los Angeles; F. Freeman and family, Canas, Washington; J. W. Brown and wife, Yakima, Washington; H. A. Young and wife, Yakima, Washington; G. A. Casper and wife, Portland; W. Baines and family, Victoria, B. C.; H. A. McKinnon and family, Vancouver, B. C.; R. J. Snider and wife, Orenco, Oregon; A. E. Herman and family, Eureka; E. D. Strom and family, Eureka; H. A. Stackhill and wife, Lone Beach; U. P. Buttes and wife, Portland; E. L. Thomas and wife, Tart, California; R. W. Guthrie and wife, Oregon City; L. J. Ingalls and wife, Revere, Los Angeles; Walter Mand and wife, Salem; J. H. Boggar and family, Seattle; J. Daly and wife, Eugene; W. A. Elitzka, Minneapolis; Al Risevick and wife, Astoria; D. A. Hunsnerman and wife, Vallejo; N. W. Wittesler and family, Los Angeles; W. Brettreich and family, Los Angeles; Dr. J. R. Woolley and family, Portland; R. E. Lasher and wife, Santa Rosa; J. H. Keehl and family, Pittsburg; M. F. Dealy and wife, Portland; H. E. Popeltore and family, Portland.

LONGEST INTERURBAN TRAVELS 360 MILES

(International News Service.)
VAN WERT, Ohio, Aug. 17.—What is claimed to be the longest interurban line in the world is operated between Cleveland, Ohio, and Indianapolis, Ind., via Fort Wayne, Van Wert and Lima, a distance of 360 miles.

One through car a day travels from Indianapolis to Cleveland. On the return trip, however, the car runs only to Fort Wayne, a distance of 224 miles. Direct connection is made at Fort Wayne on the return to Indianapolis.

Several roads are utilized in the operation of this through car, which is under the management of the Lake Shore Electric Railway.

C. A. Lockwood, of the Lockwood Motor company, left for Portland this morning, where he will spend several days transacting business matters. Mr. Lockwood was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Art Thompson, of Portland, who have been here during the last few days enjoying a camping trip. Mrs. Lockwood, who is in the metropolis at the present time, will motor back with her husband Sunday.
