Portland Caravan Visits Roseburg

those who make the leading talks. It will be set up in Eugene tonight, Sergeant Meyers states and will work on 250 meters. The set uses 5 watts and should be easily picked up by Roseburg operators who may desire to listen in on the program Eugene gives the caravan.

A few of the members of the party are Mayor George Baker, of Portland; Otto Hartwig, president of the Oregon Federation of Labor, who is one of the most effective speakers of the party; A. H. Lea, secretary of the state fair; A. R. Ritter, president of the Portland Realty Board; William P. Merry, chief caravan officer; Arthur H. Johnston, of the Coffee Cup; Photographer Sandy; and many others.

The arrival of the caravan was heralded by Photographer Sandy, who reached the city several minutes ahead of the main party and set up his motion picture camera in front of the Umpqua hotel. Boy Scouts cleared Jackson street of automobiles to make room for the visiting cars to park and when the main party arrived in a din of noise, they found ample room in which to leave their machines while they ate lunch.

Immediately following the luncheon, Mayor Baker and Otto Hartwig made short talks to the people who gathered at the Umpqua hotel to greet the caravan. They expressed the desire of Portland to have the cooperation of the entire state in the exposition and displayed vividly the advantages of the great event to the state at large.

The speakers were introduced by A. R. Ritter, of the Portland Realty Board, who is acting as chairman of the day. The speaking was preceded by a community sing led by Jack Henderson, with Walter Jenkins putting in the jazz notes on a trombone.

Mayor Baker called to the attention of the people of this city the great resources of Oregon. The possibilities of the country are beyond imagination he says and the only way to really develop Oregon is to get the people here that they may see for themselves what the state has to offer. Three million dollars spent in this manner is worth ten times as much spent in other forms of advertising. Portland is asking only that she be allowed to tax herself for the exposition and will ask nothing from the state at large except what may be voluntarily given thru the stock sale which will raise the funds over those coming from the taxation of Portland property.

JULY FOOD PRICES TAKE A SUBSTANTIAL JUMP

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 17.—Wholesale and retail costs of food and other commodities took an upward jump in July, retail prices averaging a 1 per cent increase, while wholesale prices gained about 3 1-3 per cent, as compared with June, the department of labor announced today.

Comparison of wholesale prices in June with those of a year ago indicated, the department said, that the price level advanced about 10 per cent, with fuel and lighting materials registering an increase of 36 1/2 per cent.

The average retail price level was determined, the department stated, by analysis of prices charged for 43 food articles by dealers in 51 cities. The largest increases were noted in the sale of granulated sugar, 7 per cent; fresh eggs, 6 per cent; navy beans, 5 per cent; potatoes, 3 per cent, while a 1 per cent increase was registered against certain kinds of meats, cheese, baked beans and prunes.

Thirteen food staples decreased, onions dropping 13 per cent, cabbage 10, hens 3, lamb and flour 2, while canned goods showed but slight decrease.

In the upward trend of wholesale basic prices of 404 commodities increases were reported for 146 commodities and decreases for 100, while in the case of 158 no change was reported. Based on these figures the department computed a general average increase of 3 1-3 per cent. The increase from May to June was 1 1-2 per cent.

Fuel and lighting materials registered a 13 per cent increase, farm products 2 per cent, foodstuffs 1 1/2 per cent, building materials 1 1/4 per cent, while clothing and metals increased 1 per cent.

Decreases were registered in chemicals and drugs, but no change was reported for the group of miscellaneous commodities, including cattle, feed, leather, paper and pulp.

Flapperism Is Defended by Colorado's Superintendent of Public Instruction

Common Sense Tutors Aid In Progress of Nation, Says Miss Catherine Craig.

By MICHAEL F. DACEY, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

DENVER, Aug. 19.—"I would rather a teacher would enter the school room with progressive ideas and present-day customs and dress than one who is as wise as Solomon, as patient as Job and as strong and persistent as Caesar."

Thus Miss Katherine L. Craig, superintendent of public instruction in Colorado, answered the question: "Do you endorse 'flapperism' among school teachers?"

Miss Craig expressed the belief that the early criticism of "flapperism" and the objections to "flapper" manners were changing, and that approval of bobbed hair, short dresses and a gay personality is becoming wide-spread.

She declared that the "up-to-date teacher, modern in thought, modern in accomplishments and modern in dress" was best fitted for the duty of influencing the child mind.

Miss Craig's statement, given to the International News Service, said: "I do endorse 'flapperism' among teachers."

"Your question is one that is of general concern to the public at large because of the word 'flapperism,' which has been coined in recent years carrying with it the opprobrium of reproach, mingled with contempt, and reflecting upon the morals of the individual who adopted a form of dress, short hair and an attitude of free thinking and gay personality.

"His idea, as connected with the dress of the present age, is fast assuming a different attitude toward the first opinion. Short dresses, short sleeves, low-cut necks and bobbed hair, should not carry the same strong impression or convey wrong ideas as in the beginning of the adoption of a new form of dress and custom, but now, if not carried to the extreme, it should be regarded as sensible, reasonable and comfortable, because it lends grace, daintiness and does not destroy dignity.

"As for teachers adopting the new styles or fads, I take the premise that teachers are human beings and being human beings, they are liable to all the frailties of other human beings and have the same desires, ambitions and inclinations as other human beings.

Teachers Should Be Up-to-Date.

This being the case, there is no reason why a teacher should not adopt a present up-to-date style of wearing her hair and the custom of using cosmetics, rouge, et cetera; provided, however, that with it all is combined good judgment, common sense and limitation. I would rather a teacher would enter the schoolroom with progressive ideas and present-day custom and dress than one who is as wise as Solomon, as patient as Job and as strong and persistent as Caesar. The up-to-date teacher will have a better influence upon the child mind and the thinking public than one who is ancient in customs, ancient in dress and ancient in ideas.

"Give me the up-to-date teacher—progressive, one who lives in the present age, one who can see through the public eye, one who can distinguish between extremes, good and bad habits, and accepts reasonableness in styles and customs.

Young People Unreasonable.

"Young people are prone to go beyond reason, therefore the need of curb, but the trained individual who announces to the world that she is qualified to determine all things within reason need make no mistake along the line of dress.

"Give me the up-to-date teacher, modern in dress, modern in thought, modern in accomplishments and modern in doing the things as required in the teaching world. Give me the teacher with a pleasing personality, one who desires admiration from pupils and patrons alike and she will exert a lasting influence upon the coming generation for the good of civilization, morally, intellectually, socially and religiously."

OIL TESTS BOOST LAND.

ALBANY, Aug. 18.—Oil tests being made in the Sweet Home country are boosting the value of the land there, and even in some cases persons owning property adjacent to the scenes of operation are asking prohibitive prices or refusing to sell. This is the information given out here by S. B. Barr, who lives in the neighborhood where oil is expected to be found.

The tests were begun four months ago. The first well was sunk to 300 feet, when a second one was begun. The test drill is now at the 800-foot mark and drilling is going ahead with all speed. The Nease Timber company of Portland is backing the work.

Cannibals Inventors of Turkish Bath, Says Singer

Frances Arms, Thru English Melody Traces Witch Doctor Ritual to Present Day Institution

New York, City.—The well-known Turkish bath, dear to the heart of the over-plump, isn't really Turkish but African if you trace it back to its origin, Frances Arms, peppy ballad singer, surprisingly announces.

Miss Arms, who is strong on history and also the owner of a remarkable collection of ancient and priceless parchments, got interested in the Turkish bath discussion through "Coal Black Mammy," a ragtime song, which she sings and declares to be the dancing, shuffling melody she has never heard.

English Cousin. The composer of "Coal Black Mammy," contrary to all tradition is not American, but an Englishman, Laddie Cox. Mr. Cox, also a historian, went back for the theme of his song to three original African strains as played on the national mambo.

"And in the haunting, rousing syncopation of 'Coal Black Mammy,' that, danced by the natives, shows the whole tribe into a frenzy of peering, staving ecstasy, we have the very first Turkish bath ever invented," Miss Arms relates gleefully. "In this new song for the woman bent on hunting are the very strains that the African witch doctors use to cure patients of all ills, see:

"These seemingly miraculous cures are worked by the Turkish bath theory of getting the patients wrought up and over-heated so that they perspire freely, eliminating poisons and extra pounds simultaneously."
