BIG PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR PENDELTON ROUND-UP

PENDELTON, Ore., Aug. 21.—Wild Mexican steers which have never felt the yoke, bucking bronks who have yet to know the novelty of the touch of the saddle, and fast running, sleek horses—these will be the co-stars with the human performers at the Pendleton Round-Up, September 21, 22 and 23.

A bunch of livestock unequalled in the history of the great outdoor drama is being assembled for the events of track and arena and promises some lively work for the cowboys who will match their wits against those of the animals in the bulldozing, steer roping and broncho busting.

The pauseless thrill for which the Round-Up is noted will be as usual, be paramount. The association permits not a moment's delay in the starting of the drama and event follows event in quick succession.

Among the stars who will participate will be Tom Mix, motion picture actor, and his 50 cowboys; Yakima Canutt, Ray Bell and Hugh Strickland, all former champions; Mabel Strickland, clever trick rider; Lorena Trickey, winner of the McAlpin trophy awarded the champion woman rider of the world; and scores of other cowboys and cowgirls whose lives have been spent in the saddle.

Entertainment for the evening hours will be ample. Happy Canyon, that untamed village of the west of the old days when man was untrammelled by law or convention, will be "wide open" and will offer games of faro and roulette for those who would stake their Round-Up bucks. Like the Round-Up, Happy Canyon is a community show sponsored by Pendleton people.

Special railroad rates have been arranged for and the Oregon Journal special from Portland will be a feature. The Round-Up association is daily receiving out-of-town orders for tickets.

HOOT OWL KEEPER OF KEYS
SALEM, Aug. 18.—Hoot owls like chicken meat, and a hoot owl has the key to the hen house at the state hospital for the insane. Also the owl has the key that unlocks the switch on the automobile of A. D. Zinser, superintendent of the poultry yards.

It happened like this: Zinser heard the owl hooting. He feared for the chicks. Not having a gun or a rock at hand he took a heavy bunch of keys from his pocket, crept within throwing distance of the owl and let drive.

The keys went wild and dropped into the grass. The owl flitted from the tree, picked up the keys and disappeared.

VISIT OREGON CAVES.
O. C. Baker and wife, Heskett Baker and wife, and Clarence Baker made a trip to the Oregon Caves yesterday. They report the roads in good condition and much interest being shown in the caves. There were a great number of people visiting the caves yesterday. They report. Guides take parties through every half hour, two hours being required to go entirely through the caves. A charge of forty cents apiece is made for guides and lights.

GRAVEL TRUCK BURNED.
A five-ton Mack truck, belonging to George Lockwood of Portland, was wrecked on the highway near Canyonville Saturday evening. The truck was hauling gravel for the highway work in the canyon, and while attempting to pass a Ford car parked in the highway, slid over the side and caught fire. The truck was damaged somewhat by the fire but can be repaired.

WARNING.
All persons are warned not to hunt, camp or otherwise trespass upon the lands of the Booth Ranch near Dole. J. H. BOOTH.

Hunter Is Shot—
H. O. Parzetter and family spent yesterday at Grants Pass and Provolt, enjoying a brief outing. Mr. Parzetter reports that upon his arrival at Provolt, he found considerable excitement prevailing there, a doctor having just been called to attend to Professor King, of Monmouth, who was shot through the left shoulder by a fellow faculty member, who mistook him for a deer.

Dave Shambrook Police Judge—
During the absence of City Recorder R. L. Whipple, who has gone up the North Umpqua river on a hunting trip, D. R. Shambrook has been deputized by Mayor Hamilton to serve as police judge. Mr. Shambrook having served on the police department for a number of years, is well able to fill this position in a competent manner. The work of writing the minutes of tonight's council meeting will be handled by Attorney Guy Gordon.

Back From Auto Tour—
Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lindsay, who have been touring the coast for a few weeks, returned home Sunday evening. They visited Crater Lake, the big caves near Grants Pass, and all points of interest in the southern part of the state, then they went by way of Crescent City into California. Traveling as far south as San Jose and central California, visiting intermediate points enroute, not omitting San Francisco. Speaking of the trip, Mr. Lindsay says that for beauty, Oregon has the famous Golden State backed off the boards, and in the matter of highways this state has California outspiced for well-made roads.

What Happened When Sheila Elliston Refused Love

By Idah McGlone Gibson

WALTER JONES' PARENTS
"When Dr. Thornton turned back into the room there was a look of disgust upon his face."

"What message did you send to Walter's home, Sheila?" he asked. "I told them that the crisis had come; that we were about to administer oxygen, as the moment was critical," I responded questioningly.

"And I," replied the doctor, with feelings, "received word from Mr. Jones, Sr., that he knew we were doing all that was possible and that he would be over by 9 in the morning. Then this remarkable father aided that Mrs. Jones had just gotten to sleep and he thought it best not to wake her; while his daughter, Susanne, had not yet returned from a party at the Country club."

I looked at Dr. Thornton in horror. "Doesn't any one of them love Walter?" I asked tearfully.

"They think they do. At least Mr. Jones, Sr., told me when I first was called that if his son died all his hopes and ambitions would come to naught. He is the only one to carry on my name," he said.

"Mrs. Jones, you know, Sheila," the doctor continued, "is not the mother of Walter. She is his father's second wife and Susanne is Walter's half-sister."

"Then it is only Mr. Jones' hopes and ambitions that are to be disturbed if the boy dies?" I asked venomously.

"Some day, perhaps, Sheila," observed Dr. Thornton, "you will find that money and the struggle to accumulate it, is apt to dull every other emotion in the human breast."

"Do you think that is true, Mrs. Wilmington? You seem to have a great deal of money and yet I have never had anything from you but sympathy and love—and unselfish interest."

"Perhaps, Sheila," I answered, "it is because I have always had money. Phil's and my parents, grandparents and great-grandparents were wealthy for the times in which they lived. We have never known the struggle that the self-made man must go through to slowly pile dollar upon dollar. I do not know, Sheila, what I would do without money, because I have never felt the need of it. My husband's people were wealthier than mine, and I sometimes think I have been very selfish not to help more people to be happy than I have."

"You could not be selfish if you tried, Mrs. Wilmington," Sheila answered, feelingly. Had Walter Jones, Jr., been your brother you would have been with him every moment."

"As I watched Walter through the long, terrible night I had a chance to think over the unbelievable selfishness of his people."

"About 10 o'clock the next day the whole family came in. The crisis had passed and we knew that with care Walter would live."

"Only one of you can go into the room," I heard Dr. Thornton say. In a moment Walter's father stepped in, a set smile upon his face.

"Walter never opened his eyes."

FEW BOOTLEGGERS TRIED IN COURTS AT ATLANTA
(International News Service.)
ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 21.—Only a few bootleggers in Atlanta are ever caught and of these few 85 per cent get off with a "small license fee," according to a report prepared by the commission on civics of the Christian Council of Atlanta and submitted to the Evangelical Ministers' Association.

The average monthly fine for the month of June in the city criminal court, where misdemeanor cases are tried, was $2.85, according to the report, which characterized this sum as a "license fee."

"What are we coming to?" the report asks, reciting that in a total of 167 liquor cases disposed of in the court during June fines were imposed on 101 and chain gang sentences on fifteen.

Presuming those forfeiting their bonds to be guilty, the report continues, there was only 15 per cent of those found guilty who were punished other than by license fees averaging $2.85.

EATING HOUSE SIGN IS TANTALIZING TO GUESTS
(International News Service.)
KEY WEST, Fla., Aug. 21.—Evidently they believe down here that advertising is advertising, just as some people believe that pigs is pigs. In one of the local restaurants located less than a block from the main street there is a large poster with the words: "Prepare to Meet Thy God." No matter where one sits in the restaurant he cannot help but see this poster with its cherry message. And no matter how good the soup tastes or how tantalizing is the aroma from the roast, the diner cannot help but sit and eat and wonder. Possibly the proprietor believes that forewarned is forearmed.

JACK LONDON'S PLAY AT LIBERTY THEATER
A wild, rough, snow-covered country where night makes right and day is not slow to use their fists furnishes a striking background for Norman Dawn's stirring picturization of Jack London's famous novel, "The Son of the Wolf," which had its initial presentation at the Liberty theater last night. It will be shown again tonight.

The story of "The Son of the Wolf" has to do with the adventures of one Seruff Mackenzie, a stout-hearted young man, amid the vast snows of
