Booze Law Violation Results In Fine

Lealie Farmer, who was arrested in a drunken condition on the highway yesterday evening by Sheriff Starnes, was arraigned today on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor and upon entering a plea of guilty, was fined $100. He told a story of having seen two men hide something in a haystack near Drain. He said he investigated and found a gallon-jug of liquor, which he appropriated. The hearing.

Jug was found in his car when he was arrested, and was used as evidence against him in court. As he is crippled, the sentence was made light, and he was permitted time in which to raise the amount of the fine, his automobile being left in the hands of the officers as security for the amount.

Engineer Hodgeman Resigns Position

K. E. Hodgeman, one of the best-known of the district highway engineers employed by the State Highway department, has tendered his resignation, and will accept a more remunerative position. Mr. Hodgeman is well-known here, having had charge of the Roseburg district for some time. He is now in charge of the district between Roseburg and Medford, and has proven himself to be a very efficient state employee, and his many friends here will deeply regret his departure. As yet no successor has been announced.

Mrs. Jack Allison Jury Forewoman

To Mrs. Jack Allison, a former resident of Roseburg, has come the distinction of being called as a grand juror, and that is not all—Mrs. Allison has been made the forewoman of the jury just convened in Josephine county, Oregon. It is believed that Mrs. Allison is the first forewoman to serve as foreman of an Oregon grand jury, and the lady may well be gratified for the honor bestowed upon her.

Mrs. Allison is the wife of Jack Allison, an S. P. company engineer, who formerly had a run out of Roseburg, but later was transferred to Grants Pass, where they now reside. The lady has many friends in Roseburg, where she lived for some years, and her many acquaintances here will be interested in her experiences as a grand jury forewoman.

Guards to Start Drilling Friday

The local National guard company will resume drill Friday evening after a vacation during the hot summer months, according to an announcement made this morning by Captain Avery L. Roser. Several needed improvements have been made at the armory which is in much better condition for the company's work this winter. The main floor has been sanded and polished, the roof repaired and painted, new light fixtures installed and other improvements made. Captain Roser is planning on a number of interesting and entertaining features this winter. The company expects to put out a first-class boxing and wrestling squad in anticipation of the contests which mark each annual encampment and hope to be able to clean up all contenders in the meet at Camp Lewis next year.

Rev. Needham Is Reassigned Here

The Rev. J. B. Needham will remain as pastor of the South Methodist church here, having been re-appointed to the local church by the conference which ended at Milton, Oregon, last night. The five-day Pacific northwest conference was brot to a close yesterday with a very successful meeting in which the appointments for the year were ratified. The Rev. Mr. Needham, who has given such good service here for the last year will return to Roseburg, this decision bringing great pleasure to the members of his congregation and to his many friends in this city. The Rev. Mr. Woods, who has filled the pulpit at the Myrtle Creek church, has also been re-appointed.

Howard Church Back From East

Howard B. Church and his three sons, who have been on a long trip which carried them as far east as Ohio, returned to Roseburg last night after a very enjoyable vacation. They went east over the Canadian Pacific, stopping at many points of interest enroute. In Ohio they visited Mr. Church's parents at Danville, and visited relatives at Brinkhaven and Centerburg. On the way back they took the central route, stopping at St. Louis, and then making a short visit at Colorado Springs, where they went to the summit of Pike's peak. They then came back by way of Salt

Prohibition Foreseen By Three Former Presidents, Medal Shows

(International News Service.)
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 29.—If Presidents Andrew Jackson, James Madison and John Quincy Adams did not foresee many years ago that the United States was destined to become a prohibition nation they at least placed their names on a medal bearing a prohibition message that was almost prophetic of what was to come. The medal is owned by Andrew Jackson, a great-grandson of the former president, who resides here.
Made of silver and about two inches in diameter, the medal displays on one side a symbolic figure and the signatures of the three chief executives. On the reverse side is the temperance message, dated 1834, which reads:
"Being satisfied from our observations and experience, as well as from medical testimony, that ardent spirits as a drink is not only needless but hurtful and that the entire disuse of it would tend to promote the health, virtue and happiness of this community, we hereby express our conviction that should the citizens of the United States, and especially all men, discontinue entirely the use of it they not only would promote their own personal benefit, but the good of our country as well."
The medal was exhibited publicly for the first time recently by Mrs. Ida Belle Mulford at a W. C. T. U. convention in Glendale.

CO. D. ATTENTION.

All members of Co. D. will report at the Armory at Roseburg Friday, Sept. 1, 1922, at 7:30 for regular Armory drill. By order of CAPT. AVERY L. ROSER,
Commanding.

Lake. Mr. Church states that railroads in the middle-west are completely disorganized by the railroad strike. All trains are running late, and equipment seems to be in very bad condition.

SHAH JEHAN'S PEARL MOSQUE

Beautiful Temple at Agra Is Lined With White and Blue-Veined Marble.

Among the most beautiful of Shah Jehan's sculptured monuments is the pearl mosque at Agra. The entrance gateway of red sandstone contrasts effectively with the interior of white and blue-veined marble, says a writer in Asia. An inscription in letters of black marble states that this mosque may be likened to a precious pearl, for no other mosque is similarly lined with marble. The Indian influence upon Mohammedan architecture of this period is evidenced in the lotus petal cap decorating the domes and in the purely Hindu finials, legitimate Mohammedan mosques bearing instead the simple spire with the star and crescent. The foliated arches come from a Buddhist source, symbolizing the lotus-leaf shaped aura around the body of Gautama. The pointed upper foliage is derived from the shape of the leaf of the bodhi or pipal tree, under which Gautama attained to enlightenment and Buddhahood, and is commonly used in Buddhist idolatry to indicate the nimbus around the head. The master builders of Mogul days were chiefly Indians from Bengal, and since they were artists and artisans rather than mechanical workmen, much of the inspiration of the architecture of this period must be accredited to them.

Time Called on the Mayor.
Most people who meet Mayor Ora Davis of Terre Haute are impressed by his kindness. He is proud of his strength, and tells stories galore of the tests to which it was put back in the days when people used stoves instead of furnaces.

Then Davis was a popular man in his home neighborhood. In early spring and late fall he received first invitations to the raising and lowering of stoves, even to the one he attended one morning on a day labeled "April the First." After having been told a neighbor wished him to help take down a stove, Ora Davis rushed there and was beginning to take down the pipe preparatory to removing the stove, when some one happened to remind him of the date.
"But I would have had that stove down in a few minutes if they hadn't called time," he laughs at the end of the story.
