Giving the Dollar Its Just Due

You are interested, of course, in seeing that your dollars are spent where they will bring the greatest returns in quality, quantity and satisfaction.

The J. C. Penney Company does not underestimate the value of the American dollar. We believe in giving it its just due.

That's why every dollar you spend here will bring you a full 100 cents worth of value, and more, frequently, if based upon what others charge for the same quality of merchandise.

Buying for our hundreds of stores, combined with efficient, economical business methods, assures you quality merchandise at lowest possible prices.

challenges the attention of the citizenry of Oregon. Its magnitude as an endowment for education will create discussion. Those in charge of the campaign, and it really will be neither a campaign or a drive in any sense, desire the discussion. For it, in turn, will assist in the continued effort to be undertaken to establish a favorable psychological frame of mind toward the institution.—Oregon Voter.

MR. EDISON MAKES A STAB AT IT

There are people who believe that before the present world crisis is over, it may be necessary for mankind to evolve a new system of money, based on commodities instead of gold. Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, advocates a new dollar standard, Mr. Ford has some such idea, and Mr. Edison has gone so far as to work out the preliminary plan on which such a system might be founded. Anyway, the great inventor sees the need of improvement, and, to use his own words, thought he "might as well make a stab at it." It is interesting and while it is not likely to meet with the approval of the great financiers, it is worth considering as a possibility. The world has made many changes in its systems of government, in its social habits, and in its religious attitudes, and we suppose it can even change its money standard in case of extreme necessity. If the gold cure is to leave civilization with a hopeless case of financial dropsy, we might as well consider Mr. Edison's prescription, even if we do not use it.—Farm Life.

WHY THEY WERE ACQUITTED

Many Oregonians have been puzzled to know why the participants in the Inglewood raid were acquitted, as the case against them as reported in the newspaper dispatches appeared to be a strong one. Acquittal would indicate that the dispatches overstated the facts. An interesting explanation is set forth by the Medford Clarion, a Ku Klux paper. Innocently enough, the Clarion admits the klansmen's part in taking the law into their own hands instead of endeavoring to obtain enforcement through the constituted authorities. The explanation sounds reasonable, and if the facts are as stated, it is easy to see how a jury would have acquitted. It recites:

In a nutshell, this report mentions a dirty brothel and booze dive kept by a Mexican family who bootlegged poisonous liquor. They sold it even to high-school boys and girls, one boy, 19 years of age, dying from the effects of this poisonous Mexican compound. The Mexicans, it seems, were protected by the law enforcement officers, so that the mother of the dead boy could not bring about even an investigation of the Mexican premises by the lawfully constituted authorities.

"She appealed to a kleagle of the Ku Klux Klan, who with numerous other citizens listened to the bereaved mother's story, and bethought a method of breaking up this illicit dive.

"Two klansmen, according to the report, were subordinate peace officers, but were by their chiefs refused authority to raid this house of ill fame, so they organized a body of men, 19 only of whom were klansmen, and raided it on their own authority. These officials led the raid and while the rest of the 'mob' remained outside, went into the house and bought liquor and then by showing official deputy badges seized more of it to provide ample evidence in the courts.

"A Jap who lived near observed the 'mob' and phoned the town officials who refused deputy officers' authority to search the Mexican dive were quick enough to send a deputy to apprehend any interference, overt or otherwise, with these protected bootleggers

"This deputy shot and killed one of the officers leading the raid and seriously wounded two other members of the raiding party. And the murdered officer did not resist arrest, but was shot down after disclosing his name and while holding up his hands. The two wounded men, one of them a son of the decedent, fired at the deputy when he saw the murdered officer fall, and were in turn themselves shot down."—Oregon Voter.

DOES IT PAY TO WORRY ABOUT APPENDICITIS?

Can appendicitis be guarded against? Yes, by preventing intestinal infection. The intestinal antiseptic, Adler-i-ka, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels removing ALL foul, decaying matter which might start infection. EXCELLENT for gas on stomach or chronic constipation. It removes matter which you never thought was in your system and which nothing else can dislodge. One man reports it is unbelievable the awful impurities Adler-i-ka brought out. THE SEXES AT MIDDLE AGE

Woman Invariably Remains Younger Than the Man, Declares Writer in Eastern Magazine.

"If we consider the average middle-aged woman," writes W. L. George, "her faculty for adopting new ideas, for being converted to new religions, however incredible, for packing her day with occupations such as social intercourse, dress, causes, occupations which may be entirely imbecile, it surely must be agreed that she retains more characteristics of childhood, or, if you like, savagery, than does her solid husband, plodding away at his office, making money with dull enthusiasm, and going to sleep after a day devoid of phantasms.

"It is likely that the middle-aged woman is younger than the middle-aged man. She thinks herself very clever, but as a rule she is the baby of the pair, and if it comes to a struggle where one must outwit the other, the man will usually prevail if he puts his mind to anything so futile. If women often beat men at the game of intrigue, it is mainly because men can't be bothered; they're generally thinking of something else.

"That is the central point. Most men, when they reach the shadow line, are infinitely more interested in their ambitions, in their career, in the making of money, than in the quest for love. They have passed through all that, if they are lucky, and if they have not passed through it, love encounters formidable rivals. I am sure that this day many lonely women are bitterly saying, 'What's a woman by the side of a career?'"—Harper's Magazine.

Attention, Prune Growers

Are You a Member of the Oregon Growers Cooperative Association?

If Not, Consider:

1. Members are receiving 2½c per pound on door weights at the packing house, and
2. Another advance of approximately same amount per pound later on grader weights.
3. Sales of Mistland Prunes are continuing so that further advances are assured within reasonable period.
4. Are you going to pay storage on your prunes and speculate on an uncertain future, or
5. Are you going to join with many hundred other prune growers to place the prune business on a firm, safe basis NOW.

Why Sacrifice for a Low Cash Price?

The Constructive sales policy of the Oregon Growers Cooperative Association is building up a splendid market for MISTLAND PRUNES. Advertising, distribution, quality pack and volume of business are necessary in formulating a program to keep the Oregon prunes on the world's markets.

The Association's function and policy is to widen markets for Oregon Prunes. This season it has increased its carload markets to 81 markets. It has also reached 22 additional, less than carload markets. Sales connections have been made and carload sales made in many European Countries. Over four million pounds of Mistland Prunes are going to English markets; over one million pounds to France; over two million pounds to Canada; five million pounds to New York. Per capita sale of Association's prunes in New York over one pound per person, and in some places in Canada over 2½ per person.

Does this work appeal to you as worthy of your cooperation.

The Association is still selling at or a little above its opening prices, and will continue to take in new members as long as it can continue to sell on this basis. If the market lowers, the first pool will be closed.

See field men, local plant foreman, or write to Salem office. DO YOUR PART. Sign up today and commence delivering your dried prunes.

RECORDS FOR SWIFT TRAVEL

Projectile From Gun Has Greatest Velocity, but Light and Electricity Are Easily First.

What are the slowest and speediest things on earth? Scientists believe light and electricity, which travel 186,000 feet a second, are the fastest, and the human thumb, which grows two one-millionths of a yard a second, is probably the slowest.

The fastest material thing on earth is thought to be the projectile from a gun, the velocity from which is 2,000 miles an hour. According to sporting records a man can walk a mile in 6½ minutes, and run it in 4½ minutes.

Probably the fastest speed at which a steam engine and train ever ran over the rails was in 1901, when an engine and train reached a speed of 120 miles an hour, or two miles a minute.

Tommy Milton traveled in an auto at the rate of one mile in little more than 23 seconds. An electric train between Berlin and Zossen attains a speed of 130 miles an hour, which is the highest ever attained by a railroad train.

The highest speed attained by an aviator is that of De Romanet, the French aviator, who reached 193 miles an hour. It has been reported, however, that this speed has been exceeded in this country.

Hair Dressing.

In France women are dressing the hair to make the head look as small as possible. The locks are pulled straight back and coiled at the neck with the greatest simplicity. There is a tendency over there to keep the outline of the head small, but the hair is arranged softly about the face. This is much more flattering to the average woman.

Disqualified.

A teacher asked, as reported by a London comic paper, "What would King Alfred, if he were alive now, think of the home rule bill?" and the boy answered, "If King Alfred were alive now he would be too old to be interested in politics."—Outlook.

Train Insects to Eat Insects.

An ingenious scheme for ridding our gardens of insect pests has been suggested by a Richmond entomologist. His plan is to train harmless insects to kill and eat injurious grubs and flies. Experiments which have been made met with considerable success. It is well known that certain insects are the enemies of other creatures which are garden pests. They lay their eggs in convenient spots, often in the actual nesting places of their enemies, and when the young come to life they feed on the eggs. Scientists are attempting to train these insects to feed upon harmful creatures which at present they do not regard as enemies.—London Tit-Bits.

Any Girl Can Make This Simple and Smart Winter Coat At a Low Cost

Marion Davies Has Designed and Made One.

By MARION DAVIES,

Screen Star of "The Restless Sex," "Buried Treasure," "Enchantment," etc.

The smart, straight lines are so good in coats this year that I designed this one for street and afternoon wear from an idea of my own that I have long wanted to carry out. Roomy and comfortable, it is at the same time attractive and original. It is a coat that will wear well and last for several seasons, a point which is very important these days.

It can be trimmed in real fur (and nearly every girl has some fur from an outworn coat or wrap) or it can be finished off with the new fur fabric which is so popular and so effective now. As to the color—that is always a matter of personal taste and becomingness. I made mine in plum and bought a narrow leather belt of a light tan shade.

The pattern I have drawn is explicit and easy to follow and even the most inexpert with scissors and needle ought to have very little difficulty.

The front is cut on the lengthwise fold of the double material. The back is cut in the same manner. The line marked with the letter P indicates where the pocket should be placed. The cape is cut on the fold of the material. Goods required is 4¼ yards of 56 inch material.

If there are any questions that arise in the making of this coat I shall be glad to supply any information or advice. Address me at Cosmopolitan Productions, 127th Street, New York City.
