PIKE SEIZES TOE OF BAREFOOT FISHERMAN

(International News Service.)
NILES, Mich., Oct. 6.—Arthur Gregg, youthful fisherman of Niles, accounted for four deeply lacerated toes by explaining that a 5-foot pike seized them as they dangled in the water from a boat in which he was fishing. He was pulling a bluegill in past by his bare foot when the pike lunged at the smaller fish, seized Gregg's toes, and clung to them until they were jerked out of the water, he said.

What Happened When Sheila Elliston Refused Love

By Idah McGilene Gibson

A Fiendish Plan.
"Soon after, dear," continued Sheila, reading Walter's letter, "I received from you the sweetest letter that man ever read. It gave me back hope and wish to live. Oh, Sheila, why did you not wait for me if you cared for me as much as you said you did in that letter."

"I wonder if you know that that was the first time in all my life that I had looked upon your handwriting. It seemed a part of yourself. I determined to go back to you immediately. I determined to stop all narcotics."

"The man who looked me up at Susanne's request had given me some money and Sue's letter enclosing yours contained a generous check telling me that as soon as possible I had better come home."

"With hope renewed, with good food, which I had for the first time in many months, with decent clothing, I regained much of my self-respect and I started for Paris on my way to the homeland and you."

"I broke in upon the letter reading impulsively."

"I cannot understand, Sheila, how any woman could be so fiendish. She must have written a love letter to her own brother purporting to come from you."

"Yes, Kay, but there is worse to come."

"I would think that impossible. I can imagine a woman wanting to hurt and ruin another woman or perhaps another man, but a woman to deliberately sacrifice not only her own brother's happiness but his life to what she might call her love for another man is beyond me."

"Listen, dear," said Sheila going back to Walter's letter.

"At Paris there was no letter no word from either you or Sue. My money soon ran out. Frankly I used the last to cable Susanne but received no answer."

"I managed to make enough to keep body and soul together as a guide about Paris to some of the many Americans who were rushing there at the close of the war. In a round-about way I learned that a Mr. Philip Spencer had been very devoted to my sister and that she had followed him back to the states, presumably to be married."

"Of course I understood from this that Sue had learned of her mistake about you when she returned and had tried to rectify it, but I could not understand why I received no answer to my letters and cablegrams."

"What had changed everything, I can't understand," said Sheila to me. "I can, Sheila," I interrupted. "Don't you understand that Susanne Jones thought when she first arrived home that if she could bring Walter on the scene, she might possibly awaken the old romance in your heart and that you would marry her brother leaving the field clear to marriage with Phil for herself. There is only one thing that I cannot understand, Sheila. This is just what made my brother insist upon that hasty marriage with you. It was not at all like him. Every Spencer who has ever been married has walked up the aisle of St. Thomas or the older chapel which stood in its place with all his world looking on from the pews."

"However, as soon as Susanne found that you and Phil were really married, she did not want her brother to come home. That would spoil her plan to eventually separate you and Phil. Consequently she stopped communication with Walter thinking that he would never be able to shake off the clutch of despondency and hope and return to America if she did not send him the money to come."

"I think you are right, Kay, for listen to the rest of this letter."

"As far as I was concerned, Sheila, America might have dropped into the Atlantic ocean. I tried to keep out of the way of people I knew over home and devoted myself as guide to those people who had never seen or heard of me. However, I determined to go home and see for myself what had happened. By the utmost self-sacrifice I managed to get a little money ahead and took passage on the steamer and returned—to find that my sister would have nothing to do with me. By the terms of my father's will I am dependent upon Sue and upon my step-mother. The lawyers tell me that only by my returning abroad immediately and remaining away will I receive one cent to keep body and soul together."

"Of course, I tried to find out about you and at last succeeded in learning that after your trial you had been paroled to some woman whose name I could not learn and dropped out of everyone's ken."

"Oh, Sheila, Sheila, can you ever forgive me or my family for the terrible thing that was done to you. I have come to the conclusion that whether you loved me or not at the time, you have not been guilty of any wrong doing and that you intended to marry me and be a good wife to me. Tell me that is true, dear, and keep me from going mad."

LIVELY ITEMS FROM GREEN.

Miss Lucile Woodruff, former teacher of the Gleggery school paid our school a pleasant visit on Thursday. Miss Woodruff has a position in the consolidated school at Days Creek where she will begin work Oct. 2nd.

Mrs. George Winston presented the school with two baskets of luscious grapes last week. Needless to say that they were greatly appreciated and we are very grateful to Mrs. Winston.

Wanda Rose, one of our fourth grade pupils, attended the state fair last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rose.

Rev. and Mrs. F. A. Groves of Gen. Kansas, are visiting at the home of C. C. Groves for a couple of weeks.

Mr. Austin and his son Meryl, attended the state fair at Salem last week.

Rally Day will be observed in the Green Sunday school on Sunday Oct. 15, with an all day meeting and picnic dinner at noon. Preaching in the morning and the afternoon. Gleggery Sunday school will also be present. A splendid program is being arranged, and will be of interest to all ages of the school.

Rev. and Mrs. Needham were present at the Green church services on Sunday. Rev. Needham brought a very interesting message, and we are glad to know he is to remain in Roseburg, and will come to us sometimes.

The recent rain has been very refreshing and has not as yet damaged the prunes very much. The ground is getting into shape for plowing and some have already started this necessary fall work. Apple picking continues steadily.

Abraham's Home To Be Uncovered

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—When work begins October 15 in exploring the dust buried ruins of the city of Ur, ancestral home of the Patriarch Abraham, by a joint expedition of the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania, the archaeological world will have no content with few of the extraordinary difficulties which hitherto have hampered work of the sort in southern Mesopotamia.

That country is now under a British mandate. It sees the first difficulty—that of clearing the best of the ruins with the museum in Constantinople is removed. Then, before the war, virtually everything had to be done by hand. The expedition now on its way will be the first to utilize a complete modern mechanical equipment. Streets are thronged with men and women, ancient and modern, and a magnificent headpiece of jewelry and ornaments. The barbaric splendor of the costume is accentuated by the glittering arm bands and ankle bracelets.

office gave the utmost co-operation. A military railway and motor service have been provided to maintain communication with headquarters of the expedition, which will be at Baghdad.

Dr. C. L. Wolley, who has been at work recently on a Hittite site on the Upper Euphrates river, has been selected by Dr. Gordon to head the expedition. The British Museum having asked him to name a chief. Colonel T. W. Lawrence, a war hero and explorer of international reputation, will be second in command. Colonel Lawrence is credited with winning the Arab tribesmen over to the allies in the World War. He was captured by the Turks and spent two years in a prison camp.

Sidney Smith, a young archaeologist of the British Museum staff, will go along to decipher cuneiform texts. John Newton will accompany the expedition as an architectural expert, and Paul Hunter as a representative of the University Museum.

Delegates Will Go to State Convention

All local W. C. T. U. organizations should send at least one delegate to the State convention to be held in McMinnville October 11, 12, and 13. Those planning on going from Roseburg are Mrs. A. C. Marsters, county president; Mrs. C. L. Sealing, local president; Mrs. Florence Bodie, county treasurer; Mrs. W. L. Metzger, recording secretary; Mrs. Philip Hohl, Mrs. J. Bettes, Mrs. Wheeler, and Miss Agnes Pitchford; Mrs. C. T. Brown and Mrs. V. R. Har will attend from the Deer Creek W. C. T. U. Mrs. French from Sutherlin, and Mrs. E. T. Cummings from Oakland. Anyone wishing to go by auto phone Mrs. C. T. Brown.

O. A. C. TO BROADCAST FOOTBALL SCORES

CORVALLIS, Oct. 6.—News of the football games at O. A. Six Per Cent Authorized Loans

Taking all things into consideration this is the only loan for the farmer. It encourages, helps and assists him in getting out of debt, improving his home, or purchasing additional property.

Our loan is, therefore, the most scientific, comprehensive and liberal proposition that is being offered to the western farmer today and the only plan of farm loan under which the ordinarily successful farmer can or ever will work himself out of debt without the sale of his farm or the sacrifice or something to do so.

Following is a comparison of the ordinary plan of loan and our plan of loan, on a loan of $1000.00:

Ordinary Plan, at 6%
Interest for 20 years — $1200.00
Principal still unpaid at end of 20 years — 1000.00
Total Principal and Interest — $2200.00

Our Plan,
Total cost our plan 20 years and loan paid in full — $1867.55
Savings to you under our plan — $332.45

COLONIAL PIPELESS FURNACE

Many homes in Roseburg are being heated by this Oregon-made furnace, and every user is a booster. Burns coal or wood. Takes 24-inch wood, which fits oblong fire box, covers the complete grate, and will not hang up in fire pot, which means cheaper fuel and less trips to the basement to attend furnace. Will burn wood more economically with less attention and more satisfaction to user than any round fire pot made. We locate, install and guarantee these furnaces. Let us look at your house and give you an estimate. We can install pipe furnaces in houses where arrangement makes a pipeless one impractical.
