Passengers Were Picked Up

(By United Press.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The rescued passengers of the fire-gutted City of Honolulu, taken aboard the freighter, Shawnee, were enroute to the scene yesterday, were transferred to the transport Thomas today and the Thomas was steaming shoreward with 39 women and 31 men passengers and 187 members of the crew, according to radio messages received here. Private radiograms from the rescued passengers and crew to relatives at home briefly described the fire, the confusion and subsequent escape and reported no hardships other than the discomfort and loss of baggage. The sea was calm today and the transfer from the West Farralon to the Thomas was made without mishap. The location of the burned vessel was given as 600 miles southwest of Los Angeles. The tug Sea Lion and coast guard cutter Shawnee were enroute to the scene today to tow the burned hulk to port. This appeared to be a hopeless task, as messages said the vessel was a glowing mass of steel and likely to plunge to the bottom at any moment. The loss is estimated at two millions.

WILMINGTON, CALIF., OCT. 13.—A radiogram from Captain Lester, commander of the Clay of Honolulu to the officers of the Los Angeles steamship company, told in detail of the burnings of the vessel. He paid a high tribute to the behavior of the passengers, especially composed and brave. He said the fire was first discovered in the second cabin at 4 o'clock, Thursday morning. They pumped water until the engine room got too hot. The passengers entered the lifeboats at 7 o'clock and were picked up by the West Farralon at 3 o'clock. The Thomas took on the passengers this morning.

JESSE WINBURN WANTS PIERCE TO "GET BUSY"

PORTLAND, Oct. 13.—Who is going to manage Walter M. Pierce's campaign for governor on the democratic ticket? And who is boss, anyhow? There is a difference of opinion among the democrats.

Discord has burst out with a big "D" and it apparently is traced to the doors of Jesse Winburn, at the Benson. Mr. Winburn, late of New York and more recently of Ashland, Oregon, is developing into a problem with the democrats. He is ruffling the feelings of some of the boys and he has been saying things critical of the life-long friends of Mr. Pierce and their efforts to plant him in Governor Olcott's chair at Salem.

Having donated $5,000 to the Pierce campaign, Mr. Winburn is said to want to be the whole works. The boys received their first shock when they discovered that the $5,000 was not to be turned over, but that T. M. Crawford, president of the Pierce-for-Governor club, was only to handle $1,000. The balance of the money Mr. Winburn intends disposing of himself.

Winburn Issue? Hardly. There was no objection when the man from New York informed the Pierce people that he would move into Portland and assume charge of the publicity campaign. Someone had to do it and Mr. Winburn, having made his money in streetcar advertising, was considered qualified for the task.

But—and here's the rub—Mr. Winburn's propensity to run things did not end with his contribution, his "for-partisan" dinner or his announcement that he would do more territory—more than the old-time democratic friends of Pierce want him to have.

It was rumored yesterday that Mr. Winburn is of the opinion that he is an issue in the campaign. When Mr. Pierce says that taxation is the issue and many of Pierce's supporters insist that the school bill is the issue, it is not clear how Mr. Winburn develops into an issue. And that isn't all.

Awful Hole Is Hurled. The millionaire contributor doesn't hesitate to insinuate that the whole democratic management is incompetent. He is said to have small use for the political satirist of Dr. C. J. Smith, democratic state chairman, and even less for that veteran democratic warhorse, Judge Crawford, the personal manager for Pierce.

What Mr. Winburn would like, according to reports, is to have Mr. Pierce get down to brass tacks and tell the people what his program for tax reduction is—if he has any. Mr. Winburn was seen over to Pierce by a speech of the latter in which he promised to reduce taxes. The speech sounded good and the $5,000 contribution came later, but since then Mr. Winburn has been patiently waiting for the democratic candidate to be specific. Mr. Winburn has been waiting even more patiently than taxpayers who are familiar with the Pierce legislative record of tax extravagance.

Showdown Is Desired. Gossip has it that Mr. Winburn says he has sent for Pierce to return to Portland Sunday for a conference and a showdown, said showdown to consist of tying the can to Judge Crawford and George L. Smith of Pierce headquarters, and out loose from State Chairman Smith and issue a clean-cut statement as to how, if elected governor, Pierce intends reducing taxes 50 percent. And gossip also says that Judge Crawford has also sent word to Pierce to be in Portland Sunday for a conference so that a lot of things can be ironed out which need ironing. Before the ironing process, however, the rumors say there will be considerable washing of soiled linen in the conference.

And all these developments have been breaking since Mr. Pierce headed for central Oregon to lament over the taxes and announce that "something must be done." That's also what Jesse Winburn says—something must be done—and pronto.

Football Game This Afternoon

Great interest was shown today in the football game between the Roseburg high-school and Cottage Grove high-school. Both teams are out for blood as this is the opening game of the season. The Cottage Grove team is heavier than the Roseburg aggregation and is composed of veterans in the game. Roseburg, on the other hand, has a lighter team, but one that is exceedingly fast, and the coach has been endeavoring to give the boys as much experience as possible by hard scrimmages against heavy opponents so that the local team is able to put up a good scrap even against football for a number of years.

Interest in the game has been brought to a high pitch by pep meetings and rallies at the high-school and a rally was held last night on the streets. As a result of this and the advertiser's large crowd was out when the game was started at Laurwood park this afternoon. The weather was ideal from the standpoint of the spectators, although it was slightly warm and dry for the players, but the field was in good shape for fast playing, and the teams got away for a good start with every prospect of one of the most interesting games the city has seen in a number of years.

The funeral services of the late Richard E. Parzeter were held today at 2 o'clock at the Ritter parlors, with Rev. L. B. Quick, of the Presbyterian church, officiating. A large number of friends gathered to pay their last tribute to the deceased and the floral offerings were beautiful. Interment followed at the Odd Fellows cemetery.

Milton L. Meyers of Ashland, formerly deputy grand commander of the Knights Templar of Oregon, was elected to the position of grand commander in the concluding hours of the conclave of the Grand Commandery yesterday evening. Fred A. Van Kirk of Portland, formerly grand captain general, was elected to the position of deputy grand commander. A great deal of interest was taken in the election and much time was given over to the selection of the proper officers to head the Grand Commandery during the ensuing year.

Pendleton was chosen for the 1923 meeting place, the large delegation from that city exerting a strong influence to draw the meeting to that city. Other matters of business were also given careful attention.

The other officers elected were E. E. Masee, Klamath Falls, grand generalissimo; George T. Cochran, La Grande, grand captain-general; Clyde McKay, Portland, grand senior warden; Andrew Paul Davis, Portland, grand junior warden; John P. Cleland, Portland, grand treasurer; Jas. P. Robinson, Portland, grand recorder; William W. Youngson, Portland, grand standard bearer; George W. Dunn, Ashland, grand sword bearer; Wilson G. Brock, Portland, grand warden; Norman L. Fighters Pay Light Fines

Glenn Allen and L. R. McDonald, the former an employee of the California-Oregon Power company until recently, were arrested last night and fined this morning in the city court on charges of disorderly conduct. According to the story told to City Recorder Whipple, Allen and McDonald went out for a ride in an automobile yesterday evening with a party of friends. Allen says that he had a wallet containing $200 in his hip pocket when they started on the ride, but on returning to the room he found that he had lost the wallet. He went back to the lobby of the Grand hotel where they were staying and started to ask McDonald to watch for the wallet, and that the latter immediately got insulting and said that Allen never had $200, and made other remarks which finally led to a fist fight.

County Appoints Budget Committee

The county court yesterday evening appointed the county budget committee which is to form the budget of county expenditures for the coming year. The same committee that served last year was re-appointed, the members being G. R. Bates, a banker at Myrtle Creek; Barton Bellwell, Roseburg merchant, and J. H. Lawwell, banker at Oakland. These men formed a very good budget last year, and having experience in this work, it was thought best to appoint them for another term. They will meet in the near future and go over the data which is now being prepared by the various county officers, and will prepare a tentative budget which will then be published for a short period of time and an opportunity given for persons interested to speak regarding its adoption or rejection.
