WORKMEN ON HIGHER PLANE SAY EXPERTS

PITTSBURG, Nov. 9.—Moral standards of American workmen have risen since the war, levels of workmanship are higher and appreciation of practical education has increased, according to a report read today at the second session of the National Personnel Association in annual convention here.

The report was rendered by the Committee on Shop Training, R. L. Sackett, dean of engineering, Pennsylvania State College and a leader in the educational work of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, is chairman of the committee.

"The resumption of production is proving again that we have a shortage of skilled workmen," declares the report. "Industries are picking the men whom they employ with more discrimination than was possible during the war."

"At no previous time has there been the same appreciation by wage-earners of the value of practical education which pertains more or less directly to their jobs. There are continuation schools for those under the statutory age limit; there are trade schools, Y. M. C. A. schools and correspondence courses. All of these are being utilized and are contributing to the training of the industrial classes, principally the younger portion."

The vestibule school, affording group training and largely an outgrowth of the war, may or may not have come to stay, said the report, which found that opinion differs widely as to whether it is only an emergency expedient or not.

"With industry," continued the report, "thinking more and more along the lines of education and training, it would appear that the time is not far off when many of them will have in many departments at least, an instructor as well as a foreman, probably not giving full time to instruction, but devoting whatever time is necessary to preparing new employes for the particular tasks they are to perform."

"Many training leaders, particularly those working outside of production, have been decidedly opposed to utilizing the foreman as a teacher. There is a vast amount of difference between 'knowing how' and 'teaching how.'"

That systematic training of workers to promote efficiency is gaining ground was the outstanding statement of the Committee on Psychological Tests and Rating Scales which reported at yesterday's session. The report dealt with results of a nationwide survey and indicated that seventy out of every 102 companies questioned give some kind of instruction to their employes. Thirty-one of these companies, the report showed, employ psychological tests to measure intelligence, aptitude and progress.

IRISH COLLEENS ARE LOSING BEAUTY, SAYS DUBLIN "SPECIALIST"

By DANIEL O'CONNELL,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

DUBLIN, Nov. 9.—Irish Colleen are losing their beauty. This was the view expressed by a famous beauty specialist in Dublin.

"The girls of Dublin and other cities in Ireland are not nearly so pretty as they were eight or ten years ago," he told me in an interview. "Their eyes have not the

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CAR

The evenness of performance so often remarked in Dodge Brothers Motor Cars is due, in no small part, to the thoroughness with which each unit is inspected during the process of manufacture and assembly.

A trained staff of 800 experts is employed in this work alone, and approximately 5285 individual inspections are made on each car.

So exacting and rigid are the standards applied to these inspections that the slightest variation either in workmanship or material is instantly discovered and rejected.

Dodge Brothers are almost over-scrupulous in their constant aim to make each car as sound and perfect as is humanly possible.

same lustre, and their cheeks have lost that wonderful Irish complexion, and their carriage is not nearly so attractive as it used to be. However, the outline of the features is just as good as ever it was.

"The reason of this change is the abnormal time that Ireland has passed through. The excitement and amount of nervousness through which the people have passed have had their effects, more on the women than on the men. Another thing is that girls do not take so much outdoor exercise owing to the street dangers."

"I can forecast with absolute certainty, however, that with the return of normal times Irish colleen again will become the most beautiful in the world."

SHANNEL ISLANDERS WRATHY: OBJECT TO PLANS OF NEW LORD

(International News Service)
LONDON, Nov. 9.—Inhabitants of two tiny Channel Islands—Herm, area 320 acres, and Jethou, area, 44 acres—rose up in arms against the conduct of their new laird—Compton Mackenzie, famous novelist.

They have been believing that he intends to close the islands to their ordinary summer visitors and instead erect a casino for his own private use.

Mackenzie says they are laboring under false impressions.

"I have leased the islands from the Crown," he says. "Under the lease visitors have a privilege—not a right,—to land in Herm and Jethou on two days a week, paying a toll of twelve cents each, of which the Crown receives four cents and I the other eight. It would be neither to my interest nor to that of the 500 inhabitants to keep out visitors."

"It is untrue that I intend to convert the islands into a casino. What I am doing is converting the Mermaid Tavern into the Mermaid Inn, where a dozen 'revving' guests can enjoy the air, shooting, fishing and in the future a game of golf."

"What I am aiming at is the establishment of a little country club on American lines. I only want the islanders to rely on my personal good will."

The inhabitants of the little Channel Islands still regard themselves as independent of Great Britain. They still have their own government, laws and curious language, atook 'langab Poom' is 'lealab'.

NOW is the time to have us adjust the generator if it isn't delivering its full rated capacity—for your battery will need all the "juice" obtainable to keep up with the demands of cold stiff motors and long nights.

Let us examine the whole system NOW and be sure of A-1 starting, lighting and ignition this winter.

VITALITY

The Cave Man had no looks, no education, few efforts and knew nothing of hygiene. But in spite of limitations he had one thing which some of his civilized descendants lack and that is sound teeth.

The reason for that was because he had a properly balanced diet.

It is today a recognized fact that a great percentage of human ills are transmitted directly or indirectly to poor teeth.
