Religious Zealot Burns Parents Home

(International News Review)

PEKING, Oct. 18.—"Help grandmother get along in hell," thought little Chun Li, aged six, and burned the house down in his zeal. Thus the Buddhist festival of the dead ended. When his father and mother came home late after their worship, they found that their son had even been more pious—that he was solemnly watching the smoldering ruins of their home while a curious crowd looked on in sympathy.

It was the day when people pray for the dead, especially for those dead whose life on this earth was scarred with evil deeds and who are forced to atone in the Buddhist hell. The latter refers particularly to women. The rites are celebrated by burning special prayer papers and packages of rice and also by setting out imitation lotus flowers on floats and letting them drift down the river in flames.

Chun Li's grandmother had died the year before. He had loved her dearly, for she had always brought him little candied apricots to eat, and once she had given him money to buy a kite. But he had heard people say that she had been a wicked woman and that she would now pay for it in hell. And therefore he was particularly anxious to do all he could for her on the day of offerings for those in hell, and he was bitterly disappointed when his mother and father would not let him come with them to the canal, where they were going to light some paper lotus flowers.

With tears in his eyes he saw other people also going to the canal, and next door in the street he saw bags of rice being burned. Thereupon he had an inspiration. He hunted about

Caliphate Lost BY TURKISH SULTAN

(By Associated Press)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 18.—The Sultan's wives and ladies of the harem are overwhelmed with grief and dismay over the Sultan's flight. Ruffet Pasha, nationalist governor of Constantinople said that the Turkish Nationalists consider that the Sultan by his flight surrendered the caliphate, as according to Moslem law when the Sultan leaves Turkish soil and enters Christian territory his places himself under Christian protection and thereby loses the caliphate.

Mr. and Mrs. Chun Li took their loss philosophically. They accepted it as a heavenly intervention. Thus must the dead be feasted.

The origin of the ceremony is said to extend back to Ma Lien, one of Buddha's disciples. Ma Lien's mother was a wicked woman and upon her death went the way of all evil doers. Wishing to alleviate her sufferings, he brought food to her grave, but this immediately turned to fire and, much frightened, he fled to Buddha for advice.

But Buddha said: "She has been a wicked woman and what you do is of no avail. Still if you wish to soften some of her sufferings, burn offerings to her on the fifteenth day of the seventh moon."

Thus on the anniversary of this day all those who may have had wicked parents burn offerings to some extent relieved of the evils who are torturing them.

That night Pekin is girdled by a serpent of fire as the thousands of lotus flowers drift down the canal.

Deer Poacher Pays Heavy Fine

(By Associated Press)

Fred Kizer, of Albany, today paid a fine of $150 for killing a doe and fawn at Deer Park Inn on the night of September 6, of this year. Kizer, and a companion, A. W. Duppe, were apprehended by Mrs. Winn, owner of the private game reserve, after they had killed the doe and fawn after night, using a flashlight and shooting at the shining eyes of the animals. They had fired all of the shells from their guns and were killing the fawn with rocks when apprehended. Mrs. Winn took the venison and reported the matter to the game warden, who arrested Duppe, who entered a plea of guilty and was fined $100 and costs, which he paid.

Kizer went to Albany and his father, J. A. Kizer is alleged to have agreed to have his son come to Roseburg on Oct. 2, to enter his plea but put up the claim that the boy was 17 years of age, and consequently should be tried in the juvenile court. After teaching the school records, the game warden found Kizer to be 20 years of age. He today entered a plea of guilty over the long distance telephone and a fine of $150 and costs was imposed by Justice of the Peace, George Jones.

The game commission is endeavoring to stop poaching and is following up such cases to the limit. The law provides that if the violator is not apprehended in the violation, that a charge may be made against them at any time within two years after the crime is committed. Chief Warden Brown, and deputies McDaniels and Walker have been working on this case since the crime was committed.

SAYS LIBERTY BELL ALREADY "RANG AGAIN"

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 17.—Women of America should arouse public sentiment "that America shall never definitely answer Armenia's cry," said Miss Anna Adams Gordon, president of the national W. C. T. U., in an address here today before the convention of the union. "Let us earnestly ask our government speedily to devise a way by which Christian America can cooperate," she continued, "with the allied powers in putting a stop to atrocities and in giving protection to Armenian lives and homes."

Miss Gordon flung back to the wets their rallying cry, "The Liberty Bell must ring again," saying, "We hereby remind the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment that the Liberty Bell did ring again on January 16, 1919, when the proclamation for constitutional prohibition was written. In your independence Hall liberty has its birth. How eminently appropriate it is that in Philadelphia the voice of representative motherhood of the world should interpret to the farthest corner of this alcohol-sick world the true liberty, the real freedom that yet shall come to all the world—a freedom from the subtle, scheming enemies of home and childhood, of health and business prosperity."

"The health commissioner of New York, Royal S. Copeland, declares: Prohibition has no doubt played a very important and no uncertain part in the health condition. In a broad way, anything that is generally helpful to groups of people is specifically helpful to public health."

"Woods Hutchinson, M. D., enthusiastically supports prohibition. 'It has been my own estimate,' he says, 'that the actual amount of liquor consumed by the whole community has been cut down 50 per cent to 45 per cent. To my surprise, however, the lowest estimate of reduction, advanced by medical men of 30 to 50 years of experience, attending a meeting of a national medical association, was 80 per cent, and some ran as high as 95 per cent. A statement that can now be made with absolute certitude is that all over the country there has occurred a most unmistakable and striking decline in the general death rate from all causes, until it has now reached its most triumphant low-water mark in all recorded history.'

"Labor leaders, including Miss Mary Anderson, director woman's bureau, United States department of labor, Washington; Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; J. H. McIlvenny of Newcastle, Pa., secretary and treasurer of division No. 565, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and James A. Duncan, secretary of Central Labor Council, Seattle, Wash., are outspoken for prohibition.

"John G. Cooper, a member of congress representing the labor interests, affirms: 'It is not the working people of our country who are clamoring for the return of the liquor traffic, and it is far from the facts when anyone makes the statement that organized labor as a whole favors the return of wine and beer. Some time ago I wrote letters to many leaders of organized labor throughout the country. The response to my canvass indicated that a large number of them were strongly in favor of prohibition.'

"Dr. Harvey W. Wiley asserts, 'I think beer is probably the most dangerous to health of all the ordinary alcoholic liquors.'
