

Turkeys Wanted!

Thursday, November 23rd

If you will all bring your turkeys on the same day it will cost less to handle them and we will have a better chance to get you the top price. We asked one man to receive turkeys for the pool, and he said, "No, I can make more money buying for outside buyers." Well, perhaps he can, but if he does he will have to make it off you. We are not working to make more money for the buyer, we are working to make more money for the folks who do the work. Every turkey that goes to an outside buyer is a club to beat down the price. Take your turkeys to one of these places and help us get you the best possible price: J. M. Cornutt, Riddle, T. M. Tomilson, Myrtle Creek, Farm Bureau Exchange, Roseburg, Farm Bureau Exchange, Oakland, C. S. Henninger, Wilbur, R. W. Davis, Yoncalla, N. D. Cool, Drain, Bert Adams, Elkton.

HARDING AGREEABLE TO CABINET SPEECHMAKING; WON'T "STUMP" HIMSELF.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES, International News Service Staff Correspondent.
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—While President Harding is not taking much personal part in the campaign members of his Cabinet are "digging in" all over the country with speeches to aid the return of a Republican Congress in November. Much of the aid being given candidates by Cabinet officers is of a personal rather than political nature; at least the political angle is secondary.
 Secretary of War, John W. Weeks is much in demand for political speechmaking. The amiable Secretary was in the Senate for six years before becoming a member of Mr. Harding's official family, and his old friends there are quick to call upon him when they need help.
 Another in considerable demand is Secretary of Labor, James J. Davis. Before he became a Cabinet member, Secretary Davis was known as a "jiner." It is commonly said that he is a member of more fraternal organizations than any man in public life, and he has acquaintances from coast to coast. He once said he could call ten thousand men by their first names.
 Senators and Representatives trade speeches in much the same manner that small boys trade marbles.
 "You come over and help me, and then I'll come over and help you next week!" is a common expression. Also: "Jim Hoozis owes me a couple of speeches, doggone him, and he's got to pay me back the last of this month!"
 President Harding himself is entirely willing that his Cabinet shall make all the speeches it desires to aid the party, but he doesn't think it is "becoming" for a President of the United States to go on the stump and exhort the voters to return him a Congress of his own particular liking.
 "Frankly," he said some time ago to a Tennessean who had asked him to make a speech in that State, "I don't think it's good ethics for the President of the United States to go stumping around the country on a partisan mission. After all, the President of the United States is President of the Democrats, too."

 What Mr. Harding did not recall publicly, but what probably was in his mind, too, was the resentment that sprang up throughout the country over the famous appeal Woodrow Wilson made in 1918 for the return of a Democratic Congress. The country promptly responded with a Republican Congress that did considerable wrecking to the last two years of Mr. Wilson's administration.

President Harding thinks that one of the greatest trials and tribulations that enter into the daily life of a Chief Executive is the frequent misrepresentation of his views that find their way into the newspapers.
 Reporters obviously cannot see Mr. Harding after every caller has left executive offices in order to find out what the call was about.
 They must rely, therefore, on what the caller chooses to say. Sometimes the caller will "spill a big story." More often not, but in any event the reporters are necessarily forced to rely to a great degree on the facts as stated by him who has just conferred with the President. Usually it is safe enough; occasionally not.
 Some not overly ethical persons will call at the White House and talk with Mr. Harding for a while about a matter in which they both are interested. When he emerges from the conference room he is surrounded by reporters, and in some instances the President is known to have been badly misrepresented.
 A few days ago, following a particularly flagrant case of this sort, Mr. Harding asked newspaper men who cover the White House for remedial suggestions.
 "The President is placed in an embarrassing position by such incidents. He cannot set the matter right after it has gotten into the newspapers, except by an official denial, which is tantamount to calling his visitor a liar—a rather harsh proceeding.

 The National Woman's party, a thorn in the side of many a politician, is nothing if not thorough. In obtaining title a few days ago to its new party formally and legally agreed to have no men around the place in any official or salary-receiving capacity and that everyone, from the chairman to the furnace-tender, must be of the sometimes gentle sex.

COMMUNITY CHEST DRIVE TO OPEN IN PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 21. (United Press)—The Portland Community Chest Drive for 1922 is scheduled to open here November 25. The organization of the "army" which will head the drive, with the list of officers to handle the various working divisions has been perfected and announced, the amount needed proclaimed, and the institutions and charitable organizations which are to benefit listed.
 The drive this year, which will be for funds to be used during the year of 1923, will be for a total of $648,320, or $200,000 less than the amount asked last year.
 Forty-one beneficiary organizations and institutions enjoy allocations of substantial sums from the fund. The budget committee, their chief support from the chest, was headed by J. C. Almsworth, Portland banker.
 Among those who benefit from the drive are the Z. I. C. A., $79,000; American Jewish Relief, $45,000; Public Welfare bureau, $1,500; Salvation Army, $30,000; Y. W. C. A. home work, $35,000; emergency fund, $38,000; Near East Relief, $55,000; and the Catholic Charitable Societies, $38,000. Numerous others come in for smaller sums ranging from $500 to $25,000.

An advertisement in the News-Review will reach 20,000 readers quicker and cheaper than 20,000 circular letters.

Canyonville to Be Scene of Movies

Edward J. Taylor, purchasing agent and assistant technical director for the Kiser Studios of Portland arrived here today and is making preparations for the filming of several scenes at an old abandoned gold mine near Canyonville. The company of the Kiser Studios will probably arrive here Thursday night according to the present plans. Mr. Taylor is purchasing secondhand furniture and equipment here today for the cabin which the company has constructed on the side of a bluff near the mine. The cabin will be smashed in the picture by a large tree which will be cut down. Mr. Taylor states that the company of 15 actors are completing one two-reel feature each month and the productions are being released through Pathé.
 "We will enlist the aid of several Canyonville residents to act as extras," Mr. Taylor stated this morning. "We are sparing no expense to make the scene as realistic as possible and by including some type characters we are sure we will be successful."

CAMAS VALLEY SCHOOL NEWS.

Monday morning the seniors and juniors entertained the rest of the school with the following program:
 Song—"Just Before the Battle, Mother," by the school.
 "The Life of Edgar Guest," by Mrs. Brown.
 Recitation—"The Pup," Alberta Wiley.
 Reading—"A Boy's Tribute," Bernard Denn.
 Recitation—"The Flag, on the Farm," Nelly Dahl.
 Recitation—"Bread and Jam," Ella Church.
 Recitation—"The Mother Watch," Helen Parrot.
 Recitation—"When Mother Made An Angel Cake," Blanch Croy.
 Reading—"The Blue Flannel Shirt," Harold Siegel.
 Recitation—"The Prince of Riches," Flossie Coon.
 Mrs. Croy and Mrs. W. S. Martindale and small son came to hear the program.
 Mrs. Ralph Fichter was elected president, Mrs. Robert Martindale, vice president, and Professor Bannebrake, secretary-treasurer of the P. T. A. for the year at the meeting Friday.
 Friday evening after the business meeting two sets of slides were shown, "The Prehistoric Man and the Racial Types." Everyone enjoyed the evening very much.
 Thursday the sophomore class added their pennant to the decoration on the wall.
 The high school and teachers motored to Wilbur Saturday for a basketball game. The game was a fast, clean battle from start to finish. Although our boys were defeated a good number of points, we have nothing but kindly feelings for the Wilburites. Mr. Clyde Henniker refereed the game with absolute fairness. After a delicious dinner which the Wilbur girls served, the girls from the two schools played a practice game which resulted in favor of Camas. We reached home soon after dark. All voted the day a success and the Wilbur students and teachers delightful hosts.
 Agnes Edmonds and Edward Wilson, former students of the high school, were united in marriage Saturday. We understand Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are to make their home at Bend, Oregon.

MURDER PROBE MONDAY.
 NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 18.—The first official step in the roundup of witnesses to appear before the grand jury on Monday to testify in the Hall-Mullis murder case was taken today, when a writ of habeas corpus for Raymond Schneider, who found the bodies of the minister and the sexton's wife, was given to the sheriff of Middlesex county.
 Schneider is in the local jail on charges of perjury in connection with his pseudo confession several weeks ago, and also on a charge of impairing the morals of Pearl Bahmer, who was with him when the bodies were found. A writ demanding Schneider's appearance before the grand jury, observers see an indication of a change in the plans of the indictments, "Testimony against John Doe, Richard Roe and Thomas Roe," is the phrase used.

FINE TROUT CATCH
 Roy Huffman was down on the North Umpqua this morning and in a short time had caught more than 20 salmon trout, the fish measuring from about 8 inches to 20 inches in length. They were on exhibition at the Bagley-Zieler Hardware store this forenoon, and attracted a great deal of attention from those passing.
