SAVING CRIPPLED CHILDREN.

Rotary clubs in the United States and Canada are working out plans to "save a billion dollars worth of crippled children." Ohio, New York, Tennessee, Kentucky, Michigan and Ontario are already organized and in operation. Albert Sidney Gregg tells about the undertaking in Success Magazine for December. The Rotarians propose to provide hospital treatment and educate the little cripples for self support. It is estimated that there are over 300,000 children outside of state and private institutions who will thus be given a fighting chance.

Edgar F. Allen, of Elyria, O., is instigator of the movement. He retired from a million dollar business so he could help unfortunates. He had lost a son of 18 in an interurban disaster. After selling his business Allen raised a hundred thousand dollars in two weeks for a new hospital at Elyria, and has since developed a group of buildings valued at a million dollars, among them being the Gates hospital for crippled children. He has served without salary for sixteen years. A big organization is being perfected to obtain legislation where needed in order to make the county responsible for hospital bills and the education of the little cripples, while the Rotarians will gather up the children and look after them. This is what Allen calls "giving a human touch to charity," which is so often lacking in undertakings of this kind. The Rotarians locate the cripples and bring them to a clinic, where they are examined and assigned to a hospital. An important feature is the development of district hospitals in places of big central institutions.

What would you think of a factory of a department store that was open only one-half the year? "Poor business," you would say, but do you know that the public schools of America are open for instruction less than one-half the entire year? That the average length of the public school year is only 162 days? If we exclude all Sundays and holidays on which schools are usually closed there still remains approximately one-half of the year during which these schools are not open. Do you know that the average number of days attended by each pupil enrolled in only 121? In 10 of the states the average number of days attended by each person enrolled is less than 100 each year, while in four of the states this average falls below 80 days. Think of it, the average child enrolled loses one-fourth of the school term through irregular attendance. In 13 of the states practically one-third of the school term is lost in this way.

Albert G. Burns is the new president of the International Association of Specialty Salesmen with headquarters at 509 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill. He is a Californian and is showing easterners how to sell his proposition. Local assemblies are being formed all over the country. Any salesman is eligible to membership. The purpose of the association is to unite the honest reliable salesmen so they can drive out crooked peddlers, and discourage dishonest manufacturers who rob both the agents and the public. Robert E. Hicks, of South Whitley, Ind., who makes a specialty of exposing misleading advertisers, is the instigator of this organization. Hicks and Burns are now on a tour of the middle states rounding up salesmen.

In an effort to protect girls from white slavers, the American Civic Reform Union, with national headquarters in Cleveland, is calling for 10,000 women to serve as volunteer leaders of Girls Welfare Circles, all over the country. Each leader will be loaned a set of books exposing the methods of white slavers and giving sex instruction, for circulation among girls and women. This plan has the approval of leading social workers, church leaders, several governors and other public officials. The object of the Reform Union is to make girls familiar with the tricks and traps of white slavers so they can take care of themselves. Over 600 women are now enrolled as Welfare Circle leaders.

Make Offering to Orphan's Home

On next Sunday morning the local Baptist church will make a special offering to the Children's Farm home for orphan children that is being established at Corvallis. The home is being established by the W. C. T. U., but the Baptists here and elsewhere in the state are anxious to see a good Protestant home for the orphan children of Oregon. There can be no better supervision of the children than from Christian women from all denominations. Any friends of the local church who want to see the orphan children of Oregon under Protestant influence may bring their offering to the church next Sunday morning or may hand it to Mr. Caldwell within the next few days.

The offering next Sunday is but a small part of the beautiful work of the local Baptist church. About $8,000 has been spent the last year within and without the community. About $5,000 has been sent the last year for missionary work at home and abroad. This money goes for medical, educational and evangelistic work, for the building of hospitals, schools and church buildings. Several boxes of clothes have been recently sent by the ladies to the suffering children of Russia. An offering of over $400 was made to the near east relief a few months ago. This year next relief is not under Baptist control, but it is a cause that the church supports. An offering is made each month for the local poor and unfortunate. The church considers its largest work as preventive, instead of relief. That is, the establishment of character, the culture of the God-consciousness, and the stabilizing of the mind and soul.

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—

We read today where an Iowa college gets a gift of 17,000 insects and it recalls to our mind The fact that on Armistice Day we could have endowed Harvard And a couple business colleges And still had enough On our undershirt To read.

The fire at Astoria today is nothing to just about but we can't help remarking what the supply of baked salmon will probably exceed the demand.

A negro was up before the judge on a traffic charge. The judge asked him how fast he was traveling. He replied: "Wahh, judge, I was runnin' seventy-foh miles an hour." The judge said: "Nigger, what kind of a car do you drive?" The reply was, "A Ford." The judge then said: "Nigger, you know no Ford can go that fast." Now here's the negro's reply: "Judge, you jess don't understan'; this Ford am different—it's got Packard glands."

IT MUST BE AWFULLY LONESOME FOR HIM NOW.

My old pal Jack, who, with his sweetie has been seeing America First, is driving back home alone. One evening while he and "sweetie" were strolling in the moonlight near the precipitous edges of the Grand Canyon he became very eloquent. "Dear-est," he said, "when I compare the greatest work of man with the hand-craft of Nature and the beauties that God hath wrought, it makes me feel like a heathenish pagan." Before he could give further expression to his feelings, the sweet young thing piped up with, "Why, Jack, you're always pagan away at something anyway, ain't you?" —Skeet.

When the morning sun rose o'er the towering cliffs, its beams fell on a mangled form on the rocks hundreds of feet below.

Nap Rice, who now wears the mayor's toga, yesterday issued an appeal to the paws and maws of the village to take care of their young fry and thus give the local cops a chance to get their daily snooze.

We suggest that Xmas trees be placed at the street intersections instead of the gigantic cement monuments which now stand there as impediments to our rapid progress.

"The Gold Diggers" appeared in our village last eve and we understand that gold digging is more lucrative than pearl diving.

Quite a few of the local sheiks were brousing around the town last night in search of women who had the price of two tickets to the show.

It's much easier to impress the neighbors than it is to impress the man who makes the loans at the bank.

BOOST, YOU SUCKER, BOOST. Don't sit supinely on your roost. But come along and help us boost. For better things of every kind. And leave your kicking clothes behind.

Oh, let us boost for better streets, And softer beds and longer sheets. For smoother lawns and better lights. And shorter winded blatherskites. For finer homes and larger trees. For bats and hoots and humble bees. For shorter hours and longer pay. For fewer thistles in our hay. For better grub and bigger pie. For two more moons to light the skies. And let the wolves of war be loosed. On every guy who doesn't boost.

First Fellow—"I told my wife I would be home at ten, and here it is two, and I don't know what to say to her."

Second Fellow—"Don't worry. You won't have to say anything. All you will have to do is to listen."

"Ah wants a quawt of sanctified milk." "What you-all means is pacified milk."

"Look heah, little feller, when Ah needs infla'mation, Ah'll specify."

We have noticed that the chap who knocks civic effort the most is the one who keeps his efforts to himself as a rule. If things are not going the way you want them, why not turn in and take a hand yourself and show the people the right way to run things. It seems to be easy enough to hear some talk about it.

Garment makers say that forty-five out of every one hundred women are classed as "out." There are more fat women than fat men. This is due, of course, to the fact that men work the hardest.

This being education week we will try and keep this column down as short as possible.
