When Winter grips your oil

An overworked starter and exhausted batteries are only a part of the price you pay for using an oil which congeals in cold weather.

While the starter is grinding away and before the heat of the engine is sufficient to melt the congealed oil, serious damage may result from lack of lubrication to cylinder walls and bearing surfaces.

Zerolene Flows Freely at Zero

Zerolene No. 1, No. 3 and No. 5, which are good cold test oils, remain fluid and meet winter conditions perfectly. They move freely about the pistons and bearings, and offer a minimum of resistance in the engine, thereby relieving the battery.

Lubricate exclusively with Zerolene, adopting the cold weather recommendations in the Zerolene chart at garages and service stations, and you will avoid cold weather troubles.

COLONIAL PIPELESS FURNACE

Many homes in Roseburg are being heated by this Oregon-made furnace, and every user is a booster. Burns coal or wood. Takes 24-inch wood, which fits oblong fire box, covers the complete grate, and will not hang up in fire pot, which means cheaper fuel and less trips to the basement to attend furnace. Will burn wood more economically with less attention and more satisfaction to user than any round fire pot made. We locate, install and guarantee these furnaces. Let us look at your house and give you an estimate. We can install pipe furnaces in houses where arrangement makes a pipeless one impractical.
