DEMONSTRATION OF PRUNING METHODS

A very enthusiastic meeting of prune growers was held at the City Hall this morning followed by a pruning demonstration at the Clay Smith orchard at Winston. Prof. Long of the Oregon Agricultural College was present and gave an interesting talk on pruning, fertility cover crops and other matters of much interest to the prune growers. His talk was illustrated by black-board diagrams showing various methods of pruning and disclosing faults as well as the proper ways of pruning. A great deal of interest was shown in this part of the meeting and Mr. Long was asked many questions by interested growers who are anxious to apply the methods to their own orchards to increase production. Prof. Long gave particularly good information on the planting of trees many of which are now being set out in the county. He advised that all trees should be in the ground before the last of March and it is much better to plant them now he says.

BROCCOLI CROP COMING ON EARLY IN JANUARY

According to Foster Butler, of the Umpqua Broccoli Exchange, the work of harvesting the crop will begin early in January, provided the weather continues favorable. He made it plain, however that much depends upon conditions, because if a hard freeze should come it might delay the heading out process considerably. Present indications are very favorable for a big crop, and several car loads of crates have been received at the warehouse here and are being distributed to growers. Crates for the Riddle and Edenbrow sections are also being delivered this week, and everything will be in readiness for taking care of the crop early in the month. Members of the Umpqua Broccoli Exchange have between 400 and 500 car loads of the product. Indications are that the price will be satisfactory to the growers. The Exchange has leased a portion of the old brewery property, which faces on the tracks, affording loading facilities, and also plenty of warehouse room.

JOB HUNTERS ARE BUSY

SALEM, Or., Dec. 19.—State officials and employees were on their toes tonight in anticipation of the visit here tomorrow of Governor-elect Pierce and his private secretary. Fifty or more job-seekers were in the city tonight, and it is likely that Mr. Pierce will be sought out by many of these persons tomorrow. Twenty or more telephone calls were received at the executive offices today asking when the governor-elect would arrive. In most instances the inquiries were said to be in search of jobs. Mr. Pierce and his secretary will inspect the state institutions and state departments while in Salem.

PIERCE STUDYING GOVERNOR'S JOB

SALEM, Dec. 20.—Governor-elect Walter M. Pierce accompanied by his private secretary, Ward Irvine of Portland, arrived in the capital city this morning to give the state departments and state institutions the "once over" and familiarize themselves with the duties which they will assume on January 8. The governor-elect plans to spend today and Thursday in Salem going to Lebanon Friday and then returning to his home at La Grande to close up his private affairs, there preparatory to moving to the capital shortly after the first of the year. Definite announcement by Pierce this morning that no consideration would be given to appointments at least until after the legislative session, will not doubt serve to ease the tension under which some of the appointive officials have been laboring since the election returns became known. "Of course if there should occur a vacancy I would have to fill it, I suppose," the governor-elect declared, "but I do not propose to give the matter of appointments any consideration until after I have had time to familiarize myself with the situation and become settled in my office. More than 200 office seekers have already made formal application for the six or eight positions which he will have to fill. Pierce explained this morning. More than 50 applicants are out for a position on the industrial accident commissioner alone, with only three positions thereon available. The insurance commissioner's position seems to be the second most popular plum, Pierce stated. While in Portland, Pierce stated, he was continuously besieged by job hunters and half a dozen or more applicants for a place on the state payroll met him at the depot when his train arrived here this morning.

BUDGET SLASHED EIGHT THOUSAND

The amount for stationery and printing in the county court was left at $800 instead of $400 as advised. The proposed cut of $150 in the health office was accepted, and also the cut of $500 in the juvenile court. The school supervisor presented an itemized statement of traveling expenses, showing that the expense during the past year went far over the amount appropriated and has been paid from the salary, and the court allowed the appropriation of $600 to stand.

FUEL SAVING PLANS UNDER DISCUSSION

A meeting of Southern Pacific employees was held at the city hall yesterday afternoon for the purpose of studying methods of fuel saving. Since the inauguration of a campaign started a few years ago to reduce the waste of fuel, the Southern Pacific Company has saved many thousands of dollars as a result of these meetings which are now held at frequent intervals. Specialists in this line were present at the meeting yesterday and gave interesting talks. The discussions which followed were of much benefit and suggestions of various kinds were considered. The meeting was arranged by L. B. Moore, local agent. Following the session a photograph was taken of the group.
