IT'S GRAND, SAYS MRS. B. STENDEL

Declares Tanlac Ended Every Ache and Pain Due to Years of Stomach Trouble

"Tanlac has benefited me so wonderfully that anything good I could say for the medicine would not be praising it too highly," said Mrs. B. Stengel of 1528 East 49th St., Los Angeles, Cal., recently. "I suffered from stomach trouble and was in a general run-down condition for several years. I had awful neuralgia pains in the back of my head and was so nervous I would roll and toss most of the night. Then when morning came I got up tired and worn-out and feeling as if I couldn't retain anything on the stomach. Indigestion, pains and dizziness kept me in misery and I was getting worse all the time. Tanlac has not only relieved me of every ache and pain but has given me such an appetite that I have gained several pounds, and I am sleeping fine every night, getting up mornings thoroughly rested and feeling like a different person. I am perfectly delighted with Tanlac."

TAXPAYERS WILL MEET SATURDAY

estate and will eventually be forthcoming. The rate of loss is very low he says, and comes chiefly in the case of farmers who take up a small piece of land, have a few horses and cows and farm machinery at the time the assessment is made and then before the taxes are due load all their possessions into a wagon or truck and leave for new fields. An effort to bring about a better system for this has been proposed. A great saving to the county and a much more satisfactory means of assessment is believed to have been devised by Assessor Calkins and will be presented to the league at its meeting for discussion. Assessor Calkins has written letters to all of the assessors of the state against house bill 141 which would place the task of making assessments under the direction and supervision of the State Tax Commission and added expense and a duplication of work. Mr. Calkins proposes to have all farm lands and city property appraised by competent men once in every ten years, and the assessors would use the appraisement as a basis of assessment for each period of time. In Douglas county, for instance, three of four teams of three experienced men in each, would inspect every piece of taxable property in the county and would estimate its true valuation. While the appraisement was underway men would be switched from one team to another so that all appraisements would be made on an equal basis. When this work was completed the assessor would have a record of the actual value of each piece of land in the county. These records would give all an equal basis of valuation and would be fair to all concerned. As property increased in value as proven by sales prices the relations between farm and city property could be varied on a percentage basis, increasing or decreasing the value of either class as considered just and equitable. Assessor Calkins is also in favor of having every man be his own assessor in personal property. Every man would prepare a statement of his personal property and would swear to the statement before a notary public. This statement would then be filed with the assessor by a certain date which would enable the assessor to do away with fifteen field deputies and a large clerical force in the office, saving to the county, it is estimated, approximately $3,500 each year. The statements would be published in a newspaper of general circulation and also be posted at the polling place in each precinct. A severe penalty would be imposed for making a false statement and by publishing the statements of all personal property owners any error would be quickly uncovered. This system, Mr. Calkins, states in suggesting it to other assessors in the state, would result in a savings in every county except Multnomah where a special system could be provided. It is expected that the taxpayers will consider this plan in detail and will discuss it from every angle together with other measures of importance. It is also expected that some consideration will give the appropriation of $17,500 for the purpose of starting the North Umpqua road project.

TEMPERATURE WAS 28 DEG. REPORT SHOWS

Twenty-eight degrees above zero was the coldest temperature recorded during the storm Saturday and Sunday, according to Weather Observer Wm. Bell. Mr. Bell states that records show that 4 1/2 inches of snow fell, but as it was a very wet snow only a small amount stuck. The precipitation for the season now shows a very small excess instead of a deficiency as has been the case until the present time. The forecast for today and tomorrow is "cloudy," but the weatherwise claim that the snow storm is not yet over.
