What God Says about - THE WAY TO BE WISE

"If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this age, let him become a fool that he may be wise."

It is true that the above saying of God is limited to Christian believers, for it says, "any man among you." But if a believer credits himself foolishly with wisdom, how much more foolish is it for an unbeliever to do so.

How, then, shall any man become wise? God says become a fool first.

How shall a man become a fool? Is there anything more foolish, according to world standards, than for a man to believe that the blood of Jesus Christ, shed on Calvary two thousand years ago, cleanseth him now from all sin? That certainly is a fool's job, and God says become that sort of a fool and you will be wise, and continue that sort of fool, believing every day, and you will be wiser.

For God says elsewhere that the foolishness of God is wiser than men. If God tells a man to be the kind of a fool that I have just outlined, he will find, if he obeys, that what he had thought was God's foolishness was really the beginning of true wisdom.

International Bible Students 929 W. First St. 10:30 p. m. We are now studying the chart representing the plan of the ages, and find from the Divine plan, that it is divided into three great dispensations, the first of these lasting from man's creation to the flood, the second from the flood to the commencement of the Millennial reign of Christ, at his second Advent; and the third, "dispensation of the fullness of times" lasting from the beginning of Christ's reign for "ages to come" (Eph. 1:10:2-7.) For the study Sunday we take up the first dispensation, all interested ones are welcome.

City he found a lone merchant patrol and thus roused authorities. He was bitter in condemnation of Sheriff Wilson. "Instead of trying to do something he kept asking me why I didn't attract attention along the route and seemed to hint that it was a fake.

"Let him drive with a gun in his back and see if he wouldn't do just as I did. Salem and Albany were absolutely deserted when we went through, and I couldn't have called anyone if I had tried."

His assailants he described as Greeks or Italians. Throughout the trip they talked brokenly in English to him on occasions and kept up a running conversation in their own language. When they first appeared they wore masks, he said.

Portland police gave full credence to the story told by the Smiths, but believed the capture of their assailants improbable without further identification. That the pair were section hands or perhaps truck drivers, they deduced from their familiarity with the roads, as pointed out by Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith stopped last night at 323 Gilsan street with Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Collier, old friends. They are on their way to their home in Sumner from Redlands, Cal., where Mr. Smith was manager, until a month ago, of the Adamson Co-operation ranches.

"They overlooked enough money to get us home," Smith said. "It was in my wife's vanity box."

Mrs. Smith, a good looking woman of perhaps 30 years, seemed considerably shaken by the experience. The long drive with the fear of the uncouth pair in the seat behind did not begin to tell, her husband said, until late yesterday afternoon, when lack of sleep and nervousness took their toll.

Smith is the son of Charles H. Smith, a former resident of Portland. He was born here.

The trees are being set out at uniform distances so that the spaces between will be the same in every case. Where trees are already growing in the parkings they have been left. The trees obtained by the city are quite large and will make a rapid growth. They will be watered during the summer months by the city, in places where the property owners fail to take care of the trees.
