FAITH IN THE YOUNG PEOPLE.

Many persons feel today that the young people have become rough and almost degenerate. They are supposed to be loose in personal conduct, and charges that drunkenness and other vices are increasing among them are freely made.

This pessimistic view is frequently entertained by a type of parents who have lost control over their children. Those whose young people at an early age get in the habit of managing their own affairs altogether, observe them committing many follies.

It is perhaps natural for such ones to feel that the young crowd of today are running loose and wild. There comes a time in the life of a boy or girl, along from 12 to 15 years of age, when the youngster begins to look with some contempt on his parents, and feels a desire to do whatever else is done in his crowd.

He does not usually pick out the worst examples for emulation. If he is allowed to have his own way a few times, he is confirmed in his rebellious habits, and pretty soon is obeying his ill-regulated impulses. The blame is really on the parents for failure to assert their authority with some force.

Teachers as a rule are disposed to have faith in their young people. They find there is less disorder in schools than there used to be, more of a realization that the work must be done. They find the young crowd spending less time in mere idleness.

They deplore the fact that many young people dissipate their energy by ill-regulated social life. But as a whole the teachers believe in the younger generation and feel that it is acquiring better standards of citizenship. There is such a thing as finding too much fault with the young crowd. The pessimists and croakers spread the idea that many young people are loose and vicious, which must have some tendency to make such ways popular among them.

Rotary is the spirit of unselfish service applied to the practical affairs of every-day life in personal, business, professional and community development. The sole objects of the organization are: First, to promote the recognition of the worthiness of all legitimate occupations, and to dignify each member's occupation as affording him an opportunity to serve society; second, to encourage high ethical standards in business and professions; third, to increase the efficiency of each member by the exchange of ideas and business methods; fourth, to promote the scientizing of acquaintance as an opportunity for serving as an aid to success; fifth, to quicken the interest of each member in the public welfare and to co-operate with others in civic development.

Teachers who go into the more remote and backward districts of the country often remark on the intense desire for education manifested by the young people of these sections. They will often deny themselves many of the necessities of life, they often go short of food, to scrape together the money for book learning. And you go into a prosperous town and you will find many boys and girls of prosperous families who work barely enough in their schools to get by, but whose whole heart is on their pleasures. Prosperous circumstances often dull ambition. There are in every city boys who are struggling to get their heads above the current, who 20 years from now will be the foremost men of the community. And there are others, who have every advantage, who will in the future count for nothing.

The Portland Journal says to pass the income bill now before the legislature and modify the measure afterwards. If the bill happens to go over it will be modified all right by the people of the state, and in a way that will not leave any doubt in the minds of those legislators responsible for the act what the people really demand, unless the law is so modified that it can be taken as a just and equitable method of taxation. Otherwise a referendum vote will be taken and there is nothing surer of defeat than a measure creating higher taxes.

If there is anything that makes a fellow stand up and take notice it is to have a friend lean up against you and tell you his family history through a screen thrown over a moonshine breath. It's terrible punishment for the innocent party.

TAKE A WALK You feel run down and a taste dark brown lingers twist your tongue and palate; when your bones are sore clear into the core, as the pounded with a mallet; when you've taken large and tiny and still you feel like a paged cel and swear like old Geeminy; I've a word to say, so listen pray, of the cure to you I'm bringing. If a mile you'll walk before six o'clock where the clear pure air is winning, it will chase those ills that won't yield to pills or to physic or to powder so far away that you'll feel right gay and fill up on chicken chowder. It is true, I swear, for I once I was there—'er potent drugs a filler—with my frame a wreck and a spavined neck and my stomach out of kilter. And then a friend told me if I'd wend eighty rods and back each morning all my ills would scoot and around I'd shoot with a smile my face adorning. I was in doubt but I tried it out and it worked right to perfection; I'm hale and well, you can hear me yell, as I prance around a section. So, ditch the dope and go take a lone in the early morning weather; in a week or two you'll be fit to chew thirty pounds of harness leather.

It doesn't take a great deal of brains to be popular. Almost anyone can have a lot of friends if they just want to "side in" with what everybody says. Its the bird with brains enough to have an opinion of his own once in a while who becomes unpopular on short notice. At that, we'd rather spend two hours in conversation with a fellow who doesn't agree with everything we say than spend two minutes with some gazabo who nods his head off agreeing with us on all points.

"Do you know," he remarked, "I wasn't an old and hardened billiard drinker I'd swear that was dish-water."

TUITION BILLS MEET DEFEAT IN HOUSE

SALEM, Feb. 20.—A quartette of bills introduced by Representative MaMahan of Salem, relating to tuition fees at the state institutions of higher education, was voted down by the house Monday in one, two three order.

The bills would have provided for the imposition of a tuition fee on resident students at the University of Oregon and Oregon Agricultural college amounting to $50 each and a tuition fee of approximately $200 on non-resident students at these schools.

Unfavorable reports were submitted by the committee to which the bills were referred on the theory that a tax on resident students was not in line with the theory of free educational institutions and that a tax on non-resident students, greater than that imposed by adjoining states, would drive away from the state valuably trained young men and women.

TOURIST FUND BILL IS GIVEN APPROVAL

SALEM, Feb. 20.—Kubll deserted his speaker's chair today to defend against attacks his bill to appropriate $40,000 for the Pacific Northwest Tourist association. When the smoke of battle cleared away the bill was carried safely and on its way to the senate. The appropriation is dependent on Washington and British Columbia providing equal amounts.

Cowall, whose name appeared on the bill, said his name appeared on the bill as one of the introducers but he could not support the measure unless a provision was put in it that the other states might raise their share of the fund by popular subscription.

"That is put there," said Kubll "in the event the governors of other states should happen to veto similar bills in their states."

ANNIVERSARY OF LODGE OBSERVED

The fifty-ninth anniversary program given by Alpha Lodge, No. 47 Knights of Pythias, last night, was one of the best lodge programs held in this city for many months, according to the large number present. The program started with a banquet at 6:30 at the K. P. hall. Following the banquet, Prof. E. R. Roise, local violin instructor, played, accompanied by Mrs. L. B. Moore at the piano. After the roll call of members, J. E. McClintock made the address of the evening, giving an interesting history of the order together with an exegesis of the ideals and aims of the order. The talk was very interesting and developed the origin and history of the lodge in a very enjoyable manner.

Captain C. B. Hutton entertained those present for a few minutes.

singing a humorous song, "In the Days of '49."

Other interesting numbers were "Mulligan at the Piano," C. G. Fittcroft; piano solo, Helen Bergh; song and recital, Maxine Smith; and a hypnotic act, by the Dokies. The latter act was exceedingly humorous and was one of the enjoyable events of the evening.

Three clever boxing bouts were then staged, the first being a preliminary between two lively youngsters who engaged in a slapfest of much interest but little science.

A fast and hard three-round bout was staged by Cocklecrease and Hamlin, who hit hard and fast and put up an exciting exhibition of the art of self defense.

This was followed by another three-round sparring exhibition between Carpenter and Orr. Both of these boys are exceptionally fast and clever and were hitting rather hard jolts for a sparring match.

After the bouts dancing and a social time was enjoyed until midnight.

Karo Fudge recipe: 3 cups Granulated Sugar, 2 cups Light Brown Sugar, 1/2 cup Karo, Red Label, 1 1/2 cups Milk, 1 tablespoon Maple Syrup, 1/2 teaspoon Salt, 1/2 pound Nuts. Mix brown and white sugar thoroughly, add Karo, milk, Maizola and salt. Cook until it forms a soft ball when dropped in cold water. Remove from fire, add flavoring, and let stand until cool. Beat until creamy, add nuts, pour into pan oiled with Maizola and cut in squares.

CHURCH AND LABOR SHOULD COOPERATE

CLEVELAND, O. Feb. 21.—The attitude of the church toward labor should be friendly because the aims of labor are in harmony with the aims of the church, Edmund B. Chaffee, of New York, told the meeting of the Council of Cities of the Methodist Episcopal church here today.

"Of the 46 million Protestants and 27 million Catholics in this country, the majority are workers," said Mr. Chaffee. "They go to make up the 40,000,000 or more gainfully employed. As the labor movement has to do with their economic well being they must be interested in it."

"Labor must be interested in the church because to win the American people it must win a population of which the vast majority are church members. Labor needs the moral idealism which the church possesses."

"The attitude of labor in Russia has been hostile to the church; in England, much hostility prevails but it is moderated by some leaders; in the United States, where the labor movement is relatively small we have something of the same hostility as in England and a large amount of indifference; here some of the strongest unions are Jewish."

"The attitude of the church toward labor in Russia has been hostile; on the continent hostile; in England a mixture and in the United States a spirit of hostility prevails."

"But about 15 years ago a change set in. The church is meeting the situations shown by the work of the Federal Council; the awakening of the Y. M. C. A. to the industrial problem; the publication of the steel strike report; the church league for Industrial Democracy; the awakening of the Theological students; the more friendly attitude of the church press; the awakening of the ministry and the work of the labor temple in New York."

Mr. Chaffee concluded his address with a plea for greater cooperation between the labor movement and the church.
