Entered as second class matter May 17, 1920, at the post office at Roseburg, Oregon, under the Act of March 2, 1879.

ROSEBURG, OREGON, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1923.

CANNED GOODS WEEK

Canned foods week will be observed all over the United States beginning March 3 and ending March 10. During that time a special effort will be made to acquaint the public with the fact that American enterprise has made it possible for the housewife to have pretty nearly every sort of human food supplied in glass or tins, and that it is really fresh—just as much so as though the peas or beans, or whatever may be used, were just picked from the garden and cooked for dinner.

FINE TRIBUTE TO OUR THUGS

Acting Governor Roy Ritner, who steered the helm of this old state during the absence of ex-Governor Olcott last December, in collusion with the state parole board, perfected arrangements whereby Jack Larose, the gas pipe thug who killed a Portland second hand dealer and was sentenced to the penitentiary in 1909 for life, will pack his grip on the 17th of March next and walk out into this old world a free man.

The passing of Judge Henry E. McGinn, prominent Portland jurist, takes away one of the outstanding figures of the state and a man who was deeply loved and respected by all. His 64 years residence at Portland and large acquaintance throughout the state endeared him to all and his departure from this life is mourned by a multitude of people.

Two Portland cops of the morals squad who were put on watch to "preserve" eight cases of whisky concealed in an automobile in a Portland garage went to sleep at the job and some alert individual lifted the entire eight cases right out from under their noses and made a clean getaway.

Under the new law passed by the legislature dispensers of booze who transport their product in automobiles will have their machines confiscated by the state. This ought to have a wholesome effect, for automobiles are prized almost as highly as moonshine, even by the dispensers.

We ought to feel thankful that Acting Governor Ritner was not in charge of state affairs during the confinement of the late R. M. Brumfield, the Douglas county murderer. Otherwise the once famous dentist might now be following the popular pastime of globetrotting.

A Chicago judge has ruled that a wife can rifle her husband's pockets. Many of us can attest to this fact and readily agree with the distinguished judge. Why dispute their authority?

Job hunters are flocking to Salem and Governor Pierce will find it a mighty hard matter to spread enough salve to keep all applicants from chafing.

February is a short, and many of us are in the same category.

Dear Folks:

Tommy Bowles lives in a city that is known from coast to coast for its beauty and objects that are worthy of a boast. There are buildings, schools and churches, and a thousand other sights that are filled with much of interest, and their history delights all the visitors who marvel at the things so rich and rare, and who feel a thrill of pleasure as they walk around and stare.

So when Tommy's aunt from Lisbon came to look around a bit, she relied on Tommy's guidance, who was forced to then admit that he knew but very little of the town where he was raised, tho' he'd heard it had some relics that most everybody praised.

When they made the trip together, Tommy's eyes were opened wide. Then came a look of wonder, of amazement and of pride on his face as he discovered that for years he'd missed many things that he had dream of, but had thought could not exist. Tho' they'd always been about him, he had simply passed them all by 'til a stranger to his city brought them closer to his eye.

All about us there are treasures, opportunities and joys that are shouting for attention, but because we hear their noise every day, we do not see them 'til a stranger comes around and imparts the startling knowledge that we walk on golden ground.

PRUNE PICKIN'S BY BERT G. BATES

Dick Price, of the Metrop And Jim Ormandy, Espee feller, Dropped into our village Today for the purpose Of trimmin' up two of our Champen gawfers— Jim Watson and Bill Weaver.

The still night was pierced last eve when the concertino band rehearsed in the woodshed of the Lawrence real estate office.

MARVELOUS

The little New Jersey town was all agog as the Great Detective surveyed the scene of the tragedy.

The bodies lay side by side, riddled with bullets, slashed, with knives beaten with blunt instruments.

Blood was everywhere. Grimson gore was splattered on the grass, the fallen leaves, the bushes and the tree trunks. Underfoot the turf was torn with marks of a terrific struggle.

Taking a magnifying glass and a tape measure from his hip pocket, the Great Detective inspected every inch of the surrounding territory. Not a single detail escaped his practiced eye.

"Aha!" An exclamation burst from his lips. A light of discovery gleamed from his steel gray eyes, and the gaping throng gathered near to learn the solution of the mystery.

The Great Detective was not one to waste words. His voice rang clear and distinct in the crisp air. "There has been foul play!" he said.

DUMBELL DORA THINKS

A Hardshell Baptist is one who likes his eggs ten minutes.

The whole world seems at peace when a feller stops and listens to a bunch of frogs croaking.

A LIMIT TO HER FAITH During the progress of a big "protracted meeting" for which the south is famous, an ardent sister of the church, who usually came in an old-fashioned buckboard drawn by the family horse, was late for a particularly important service and was being severely censured by the pastor.

Explaining the reason for being late the good sister said that the horse had taken fright at a passing train and bolted and that the wreck of the rig had prevented her from being on time.

"My dear, sister, such little things should not make you late for divine services. You should trust in the Lord."

"Well, brother," she replied, and there was a look of calm peacefulness on her face. "I did trust in the Lord 'til the bellyband busted and then I had to jump."

W. H. Canoe is a reg'lar harbinger of spring. He startled the natives today by appearing on the main drag with a bright checkered cap.

Ike Ketch, chief of the village cops, organized a Cockey's Army at the depot this a. m. and led the brigade to the city hall.

GOOD ENOUGH Grocers are accustomed to answering penetrating questions about the merits of their wares. Perkins of Perkinsville was no exception to this rule.

"Are they really fresh?" demanded a woman customer who had come to buy eggs.

"They certainly are," replied Perkins.

"You're sure of that? Because I'm so frightened of bad eggs, I must have them really fresh."

"Boy," called out the grocer to his assistant. "Just run to the back room and see if this morning's eggs are cool enough to sell."

One of Prune Pickin's readers sends the following squib, which oughta tickle we hicktowners.

Two modest girls of the sweet sixteen age, who had been reared in the sagebrush on the west slope of the coast range had never been away from their home until one day their father took them to town. The streets being shoe-deep with mud, the girls started down the middle splashing and stopping in the slush. A startled native of the village watched them a moment and said, "Why don't you girls come over and walk on my sidewalk?" The two damzels, from the sticks blushed and said, "Not much, we don't walk on people's porches."

It is easy enough to do things, folks. You'll have to admit that. The rub is—it takes brains to decide what to do.

"Th' joy ride is all over when a tire blows out."

It's toasted. This one extra process gives a delightful quality that can not be duplicated

FARM NEWS

SEED LAW EXPLAINED

In explaining the purpose of the Oregon pure seed law, W. S. Carpenter, assistant county agent, says this is the season of the year when farmers are buying a great deal of seeds of one kind and another from the various dealers who carry seeds. Most everyone knows that there is a pure food law to protect us in regard to the healthfulness of the foods we buy, but very few farmers and many seed dealers do not know that the Oregon pure seed law is in existence and what its purpose is.

The purpose of the Oregon pure seed law is for the protection of any one who buys seeds from a dealer and also for the protection of the honest dealers in handling stock from unreliable firms.

The chief and most valuable portion of the seed law provides that any one who offers seed for sale within the state of Oregon in any package of a pound or more in weight must have this package labeled. This label must be printed or written in the English language and must contain the following information:

- 1. Kind of seed and name of variety.
2. Full name and address of salesman, importer, dealer, or agent offering seed for sale.
3. A statement of the percentage of the purity of the seed contained, if such percentage is below the standard of purity herein established. If the percentage of purity is equal to or greater than the standard herein established, it shall be specified as "standard purity."
4. Specification of the kinds and percentage of the impurities (as hereinafter defined); provided, said seeds are below the standards in this act.
5. Locality where seeds were grown, if known.
This law does not apply to small

TOM SKEYHILL BACK FROM EUROPE WITH INTERESTING RECITAL OF CONDITIONS

Famous Young Australian Soldier, Post, Ran Lines Getting Into Soviet Land After Being Denied Passport

Tom Skeyhill spent five months during the winter of 1920, in the heart of Russia. Denied a passport in New York he went to the land of the Soviet without permission. It was a mighty risky thing to do and Skeyhill probably never would have lived to tell the story had he been found out.

He returned to Europe in the late summer of 1922 for a first-hand glance at general European conditions, to obtain additional information for his lecture "Europe of 1923."

Skeyhill's personal story is a most interesting one. In 1914 he entered the war with an Australian Anzac Division, for Skeyhill is a native Australian. He was blinded in the famous Iardanelles campaign and for two years groped about in unfathomable darkness. During this time he kept on with war work, becoming one of the most famous of all the war loan speakers. In twenty-three minutes at Madison Square Garden he raised $23,000,000.00. Colonel Roosevelt said of him: "I would rather be on the platform with Tom Skeyhill than any man I know." The Literary Digest said of him: "Skeyhill is the sort of 'man worth reading about.' Suddenly, miraculously, it seemed, Skeyhill recovered his sight through the efforts of a Washington specialist. He has talked in all of the largest cities of the United States and hundreds of the smaller towns. With the recovery of his sight came health again, and renewed vigor, and it was the indomitable spirit of the soldier which caused him to undertake the Russian trip.

Why thousands of women are now making their own Mayonnaise

It is very easy to make the most delicious mayonnaise you ever tasted, with Mazola.

Mazola-made Mayonnaise is delightfully smooth and creamy, and always firm and fresh. And it keeps longer without getting rancid or "separating out." You can be certain that Mazola-Mayonnaise is always pure and wholesome, and that the eggs you use in it are absolutely fresh.

You'll find, also, that Mazola thickens your mayonnaise more quickly. This saves you considerable time and labor.

Why not use the Mazola you have, or get a can from your grocer, and try the recipe given here? See how simple it is to make perfect mayonnaise. Mazola is packed and sealed in sterilized tins, on our own premises, under expert supervision. Your grocer sells it in pint, quart, half-gallon and gallon tins. The large sizes are most economical.

Mazola is never sold in bottles or in bulk—as are ordinary salad oils. If Mazola is not satisfactory, return it and get your money back.

Order Mazola from your grocer today.

packages of flower and vegetable seeds, but is designed chiefly for bulk sales of agricultural seeds. The standard purity and germination are fixed by law and are supposed to represent a good grade of seed containing noxious weed seed such as wild oats, corn cockle, dodder and quack grass and numerous others. This law is in effect at all times and the dealer who violates the same is open to prosecution, and the farmers for their own protection should insist that these dealers from whom they buy seeds live up to the requirements of this law. Any one interested in the application of provisions of the law should address their inquiries to the state dairy and food commission, of Portland, Oregon.

HISTORIC TREE FOR SCHOOL GROUNDS

Two valuable trees have been offered by local women for the purpose of beautifying the high school yard. A tree grown from a root taken from Mount Vernon, the home of George Washington, has been offered by Mrs. W. R. Willis, and a tulip tree, a unique and very beautiful tree, has been donated by Mrs. J. H. Booth. The Parent-Teachers' association which is working with the student body in making plans for the beautification is very grateful for these gifts and will give them
