ROSEBURG, OREGON, THURSDAY, MARCH 1, 1923

MODERN EDUCATION HALF EFFICIENT

Dr. Otis Caldwell, school principal of New York City, declared in an address yesterday before the National Education Association's convention at Cleveland, Ohio, that modern education is less than fifty per cent efficient, which is evidence that other states aside from Oregon are taking cognizance of the lack of fundamental principles in public school courses that go to make a better output of young men and women to meet the demands of the business world.

The Cleveland professor gives as a remedy for lack of efficiency in school work "a drastic revision of school studies, which would supplant archaic textbooks now in use, as well as the use of newspapers in class rooms to vitalize and modernize daily lessons."

Peter A. Mortenson, Superintendent of the Chicago Public Schools, states that in the two or three years, attendance in the sewing classes in Chicago high schools has easily doubled. In one or two buildings there are as many as four times the number formerly enrolled in this department.

Dear Folks:
On my desk there sits a picture of the house where I was born which was taken in the winter, all the trees their leaves have shown and the ground looks cold and barren, here and there a bit of snow.

PRUNE PICKIN'S BY BERT & BATES

GOOD EVENING FOLKS
The knickerbocker craze has hit the smalltown Golfers and we never knew before that some of our prominent men had such skinny legs.

Some people are just naturally curious and others just like to butt in.

On a voyage of one of the Cunard liners from New York to Liverpool a Major H. Reynolds of London was registered on the passenger list, according to Irvin Cobb.

A little later the cattleman, ignoring the purser, hunted up the skipper. "Look here, cap," he demanded, "what kind of a joker is this here head clerk of yours? I can't travel in the same stateroom with that Major Reynolds. I can't and I won't! So far as that goes, neither one of us likes the idea."

"What complaint have you?" asked the skipper. "Do you object to an army officer for a travelling companion?"

"Not generally," stated the Texan. "only this happens to be the Salvation Army. That there major's other name is Henrietta!"

Coroner Ritter was out on the main stem bright and early this a. m. looking for dead ones but we guess the street cleaning dept. had already picked up all the empties.

Lil Arthak Mahoney, who works for the express co., was out grabbing kale for his concern today and giving a few pennies out in change.

Just as we were going to inscribe a beautiful poem to Spring a bill collector showed up at our sanctum and took the pep out of us.

The clatter of the lawn-mower is beginning to awaken the neighbors these mornings and some folks will have to equip their harvesters with headlights if they persist in getting up so darned early.

March trotted in like a lamb today and according to the legend should gallop out like a herd of lions.

The new sheik sweaters can be seen on a number of the local boys but thank heavens the peon pants have passed into oblivion.

CHAMBERLAIN CLAIMS HE IS NOT CANDIDATE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 28.—
Commissioner George E. Chamberlain, of the shipping board, ex-senator from Oregon, tonight reiterated a denial made several weeks ago that he planned to be a candidate for United States senator in Oregon next year.

The denial was brought forth by a Washington dispatch widely published throughout the country to the effect that Mr. Chamberlain had definitely decided to make the race for senator.

"I have no intention, as I said before, of running for the United States senate next year," Commissioner Chamberlain said. "Of course, I do not know now what I might do next year, but I can say truthfully that I am not now a candidate for the senate or inclined to consider making the race. I want to say further that I have not said anything to lead anyone to believe that I was going into the race, consequently there is no fact upon which to base the dispatch reporting me as ready to become a candidate."

LAST PROGRAM BY FLYING SQUADRON

Propaganda Being Sent Out for Purpose of Influencing Country in Favor of the Wet, Element, Speaker Here Says.

The work of the Flying Squadron Foundation came to a close in Roseburg last night. These speakers brought some wonderful messages to the people. The last speakers were the Hon. Oliver W. Stewart, the president of the Flying Squadron, and the editor of the National Enquirer. Mr. Stewart has long been engaged in this work, and while in the Illinois legislature helped to put across a dry program. Gov. Hanley was the originator of the Flying Squadron, and now Mr. Stewart carries forward this work. He was accompanied here by Rev. Miss Norma C. Brown, the only woman speaker. She is a young woman of great power. Miss Brown was at one time chaplain of the Illinois senate, and Mr. Stewart said it took some woman to pray for the Illinois senate. Miss Brown has visited 48 cities, has made two or three and more speeches a day, and has never been sick any of the time. She is a graduate of Eureka college, and has held some successful pastorates.

Mr. Stewart in his address told the plans of the wets to bring back the saloon, brewery and whisky. He stated that they had sent out their challenge that they would elect wet delegates to both parties, that they would demand a plank for light wine and beer, or else absolute silence. Mr. Stewart said the plan of the dry forces was also to be represented at both conventions, and demand a dry plank in both platforms.

The Flying Squadron aims to meet the wets at every turn they make by being right on the ground and making counter demands. Mr. Stewart then showed how the wets sent forth their propaganda. That the Chicago Tribune, one of the three greatest papers in the United States, and known as Lincoln's paper, had taken an out and out stance against prohibition. He said they sent out propaganda in big headlines last fall that Ohio had voted wet. In one little corner, obscure, in its setting toward the last of the week they stated it had gone dry. The same was true of California. Many people still think these states voted wet. The National Enquirer is being used to help combat this propaganda.

Miss Brown in her splendid address showed the fallacy of the wet argument, and made a strong appeal for the people to be true to the end, and keep up the fight until a complete victory is won. This series of talks has been a great help to those who have listened to them, and put new pep into many for a greater fight.
