Entered as second class matter May 17, 1920, at the post office at Roseburg, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

ROSEBURG, OREGON, TUESDAY, MARCH 6, 1923.

SWEEPING FIRES

Very frequently one reads in the newspapers the story of a fire that starts in some city while high winds were blowing, and which was carried from place to place by flying sparks, with the result that a big section of the town, perhaps the best of its business district, was in a few hours reduced to ruins.

Many laws passed by our state and nation seem obnoxious, but this is no reason for revolting against them. The majority of these laws are enacted for a certain purpose with good intent, but in many instances are not wholly understood by the masses.

Roseburg will furnish tourists and others a better program in the way of outdoor entertainment the coming summer than ever before. The country club's headquarters for golf and other sports will command the attention of many visitors.

It is now predicted that the country before many years will be compelled to pay $1 a gallon for gasoline, according to the edict of the senate committee investigating oil prices.

Coolie labor is competing with Oregon products in the Portland market. Broccoli produced by California Japs is just now the competing factor.

Governor Pierce is finding it a hard matter to secure a highway commission equal to the one soon to pass into history.

This is regular March weather. Nothing out of the ordinary which leaves no reason for weather prophets to complain.

Dear Folks: Henry Ford was once in dire need and didn't have a cent in his pockets for his daily food or for his monthly rent but he's only one of countless men of whom the same is told, and who later filled their baskets when they shook the tree of gold.

PRUNE PICKIN'S BY BERT G. BATES

GOOD EVENING FOLKS Its awful feeling When you seat yourself At this of grind And you haven't a darned idea in yer head And then the boss Yells at you and Wants to know if we Think he's running A monthly magazine.

DUMBELL DORA THINKS A cow-catcher is a lariat.

Ye ed rec'd a very kind letter this a. m. from Days Creek in which the writer commends this great uplift dept. and say folks, do you know, they were the kindest words that have reached our ears since we walked on her feet at a dance.

The street cleaning dept. last night turned down Nap Rice's plan to motorize that division. They'd rather stick to ol' Dobbin, they say. Well if they won't take flippers why not give 'em a few wheel-barrows, Nap?

It's a queer world. A man's mother hires some one to wheel him around in a baby buggy when he's young and he's pushed for money ever since.

AHEM! She: What color is best for a bride? He: I prefer a white one, myself.

Tommy Skeychill, Aussie come writor and slum eater during the late guerre, arrived in our midst today and will orate at the high school tonight. Tommy is a humdinger and we'd rather hear him talk than most any one we can think of right now.

The Legion barnstormers as per usual entertained a goodly crowd at Drain last night, returning to their home town after midnight as per usual and arriving at work this a. m. late as per usual.

Cider becomes very wicked if let alone for a little while and there is no mind great enough to frame a law that will reform it.

An Edenbower lady who is just learning to drive a car certainly has the world walloped when it comes to "safety first." When nearing the railroad crossing she always toots her horn twice to let the train know she is coming.

After having some of the village loafers hanging over our desk during the past few days oothering us when we are supposed to be busy we are tempted to have a sign painted to hang over our sanctum reading, "If you ain't got nothin' to do, don't do it here."

Germany is gettin' all het up about the frogs invading their "Gott Mit Uns" territory and are taking to the practice followed by a prominent statesman during the war and writing notes of protest. If the allies are on the job they'll simply consider said notes as "scraps of paper."

A yard of silk, a yard of lace; A wisp of tulle to give it grace; A flower placed where flowers go; The skirt-knee high, the back waist low; One shoulder strap, no sign of sleeve; If she should cough, "Good Morning Eve."

The wild west banbit has not died but he has moved east.

Who wants to know what has become of the old fashioned girl who wore so many pins in the vicinity of her waist line that you got your hands all scratched up?

"When money talks nobody is bored."

MOURNFUL MUGS There are folks who wear sour faces as they journey down life's pike; some wear rags and some wear laces—but they're always just alike. In the morn, with feelings foxy, I start gaily to my shop and I meet with old man Coxe who is sure a sad old wop. And he wails about the weather or the way the county's run till I grab a harness-leather and caress him on the bum. But that day for me is busted and I kick things around the shack, till my help all get disgusted—long to perforate my back. But another morning early as I gaily prance along I meet up with old Dad Burley, who "carecra" a joyous surly, and he greets me blithe and chipper and we go and take a few from the long-handled dipper that is filled with "mornin' dew." All the world seems bright and sunny as unto my shop I wend and the workers, ain't it funny, greet me like a long-lost friend. Men with mournful mugs and speeches ought to from the land be chased; things would then be cream and peaches and we'd all be cheerful faced. "Life is short and time is fleeting," sang a poet of renown, so let's can the mournful bleating and the double-jointed frown.

Life Pickins Seg: "It's a sad world. You go to the garage with your engine missing and when you come out your tools are."

EDENBOWER SCHOOL IS STANDARDIZED

The Parent Teachers' Association of the Edenbower school met at the schoolhouse March 2nd with a good attendance. It was a notable occasion, being the celebration of the standardizing of the school. An interesting program had been prepared and was well given.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR CROSSING

aviation field. If, however, the Nation cut-off is constructed as is now anticipated, the tracks will probably end at the proposed undergrade crossing.

As to the actual structure itself, the plans were worked out only after the most accurate data obtainable on the river conditions were taken into consideration. The highest possible water will not cover the sidewalk, and only the most extreme high water will get into the roadway.

The plans, contracts and agreements, have been taken under consideration by the city and if found to the city's interest, an ordinance will be prepared giving the city officers authority to enter into the contract with the company and the county court.

Stabbed by Neuritis

Many people suffer attacks by this ailment, commonly called "nerve inflammation." The first warning is usually a sharp stabbing pain, which may "come and go" or hurt constantly. You may feel it in the shoulder, neck, forearm, small of the back, or down the thigh and leg to the feet. It is sometimes mistaken for sciatica, rheumatism or neuralgia, which often end in neuritis. No matter where you have nerve pain or what caused it, you get quick relief without using narcotics or poison. Anky-Trenol over the part that hurts, and the pain will be gone. Anky-Trenol is absorbed through the pores of the skin. It has a soothing, healing effect upon the diseased nerve, gradually helping to restore them to healthy condition. Don't suffer any longer. Price $1 at W. F. Wharton, druggist. Transient Company, Mfg. Chemists, 490 Sutter St. San Francisco.
