TOIL AND PATIENCE ARE THE PRICE OF SUCCESS IN EGYPT

(By Associated Press.)

VALLEY OF THE KINGS, LUXOR, EGYPT, March 21.—While the world has been following with unabated interest and curiosity the wonderful archaeological discoveries in the Valley of the Kings, little thought has been given to the years of toil, research and patience given by archaeologists in these far-off ruins in order that these wonders of a vanished civilization may be made available to present generations. It is perhaps little understood that the recent unearthing of the tomb of King Tutankhamen by Howard Carter, the British excavator, represents a continuous effort of 33 years of research and excavation. Carter began digging on the site of Thebes, the ancient capital of Egypt, when he was eighteen and has never ceased his labors.

He was never rich enough to conduct his own excavations, but has invariably worked for others. Some of his more notable work was done under Theodore M. Davis, of Boston, who from 1907 to 1914 discovered six royal tombs and a wealth of rare and valuable antiquities. In more recent years Carter has been associated with Lord Carnarvon, who financed the excavating work of Tutankhamen's tomb. Carter has derived no pecuniary reward from his years of research. A friend has described him as "poor as a tomb mouse." American visitors to the newly-found tomb have remarked that the now famous excavator wears the same suit of clothes, the same hat and shoes, daily, Sunday, and throughout the year.

Carter's devotion and labors in the cause of Egyptian science are typical of the example of all excavators, British, American and French, in the ancient ruins of Egypt. These men may be described as modern hermits in this 5,000-year-old Valley of the Kings. They lead a one-sided and narrow existence. Cut off from all civilization and uplifting influences, the score or more of them who comprise the foreign colonies of Luxor move within a narrow groove and seldom even come in contact with one another. Excavating is almost a religion with them.

The Valley of the Kings and the Theban hills, 450 miles up the Nile from Cairo, are infested with wolves, jackals, wildcats, foxes, snakes, lizards, scorpions, vultures, beetles and vermin. The archaeologists live in unsanitary shacks and mortar houses with nothing but the barest, rough-hewn furniture and the most primitive household equipment. The house occupied by the American experts was built through the generosity of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, who was moved to pity by their privations and exposure.

The natives of the valley are pathetically poor and uneducated. Food is scarce and expensive. Water, where it exists at all, has to be brought from afar in hand-buckets. The nights are cold, and feel is difficult to obtain. Many of the other needs of life also are lacking. The heat of the valley is distressingly severe during the day, and the entire area is plagued with flies and pernicious insects.

The archaeologists have few social contacts. They live like recluses. The whole west bank of the Nile in the neighborhood of ancient Thebes is a desolate, forbidding waste of mud, sand and rock. No flower or vegetable or blade of grass has reared its head above this barren terrain for 50 centuries. Only the most primitive roads exist. Houses are few and far between. In selecting this place for their eternal entombment the ancients choose with an eye to its solemnity, seclusion and silence. The only human beings that move among the ruins are the wandering Arabs, the most flourishing city in the world are lean and specter-like Arabs dressed in white robes.

The American visitor to the cavernous valley which holds the imperial dead of by-gone ages is over-awed by the majesty and dignity of the great, precipitous sandstone cliffs that stand on either side of the necropolis. He is reminded of the heights of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, or of Yellowstone Falls when the noonday sun transforms them into a golden valley.

By day nothing disturbs the deep repose of the place except the sound of the pickaxe and shovel of the crowds of natives who had been employed in combing the earth for its hidden archaeological treasures. By night the stillness of the valley of death is broken only the hooting of owls and the cries of jackals and wildcats. In the midst of the silence and solitude one feels himself standing upon the brink of two worlds, with eyes gazing into a vista of the unknown.

Sleepers in the heart of these mountains are Tutankhamen and his royal kinfolk. Some of the tombs go down 150 feet and extend back a distance of three city blocks. The ancients believed these were the portals to heaven and everlasting life. American visitors to the chambers of death get a floating sense of eternity and immortality as they enter the innermost recesses of the tombs and look upon the man who pathetic features of a Pharaoh had as he was laid away 3,500 years ago. A modern electric light throws its rays upon the mummified face, and gives the beholder a thrill of awe and trepidation.

Day after day, throughout the year, the silent, patient archaeologists pursue their lonely calling, finding here a broken statue of a sovereign, there the tomb of a high priest, here the shattered skeleton of a hunter, there the crumpled figure of a soldier, and everywhere small tokens of a civilization that gave the world its rudiments of culture, art and humanity.

MUCH MONEY IS SPENT ON ROADS IN HAWAIIAN ISLANDS
(By Associated Press.)
HONOLULU, T. H., March 22.—Professor Frederick E. Tennessee, dean of engineering at the University of Wisconsin and a member of the Wisconsin Highway Commission, on a recent visit to Hawaii, was enthusiastic in his praise of the roads of the territory.

"It would scare me to think of putting $50,000 to $100,000 a mile into highways in Wisconsin," said the Professor when told that some of the main roads in the islands had cost that amount.

COST OF REPAIRS ON "OREGON" BIG

SALEM, March 22.—The fate of the battleship Oregon is now in the hands of the navy department, according to Adjutant General White. Although the state whose name the famous old warrior bears is ready to give her a permanent home and has made provision in Portland harbor the state could not consent to accept the ship in its present condition.

Official figures just presented by Rear Admiral John A. Hoogwerff, commandant at the Bremerton navy yard, at the request of Adjutant White show that it will cost $47,350 to put the ship into condition for the trip to Portland harbor under her own steam. It will take at least $24,000 to put the ship into condition for exhibition purposes, not including the cost of towing her into the Willamette river with the use of navy tugs. Either of which sums, General White points out, are entirely out of the question so far as the state is concerned. The appropriation made by the last legislature and which became available in May for the current year is $15,000. That amount according to White, is for maintenance of the ship in Portland and cannot properly be paid out for making repairs at Bremerton or for putting the ship in presentable condition after its two years of buffeting about in "rotten rags" at the mercy of the wind and waves.

General White is confident the navy department will put the ship into presentable condition, this confidence being based on the attitude of navy department officials in 1920 when White visited Washington.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles Have to Go

Closed up Kidney Deposits are Dissolved and the Toxins (Poisons) Completely Driven Out. Druggists Told To Guarantee It in Every Instance. Year after year's sufferings are wiped upon the perfect functioning and health of your kidneys, no matter how long you have suffered from them. Dr. Carey's Famous Prescription No. 777 (known for years as Marshbrot) is not recommended for everything, but we cannot too strongly urge its use if you are suffering from annoying bladder troubles, frequent passing of water at night and if you have some of the above symptoms. Kidney and Bladder troubles don't wear away. They will grow upon you slowly, stealthily, and will not go away until you have a serious attack. Don't lose a single day. For Fullerton's Free advice has been at hand to return the purchase money on the first big bottle to all who state they are not benefited.

SAYS SHACKLES BOUNCED OFF PRISONER'S HEAD TO HIT OFFICER ON SCIENCE

(International News Service.)
ATLANTA, Ga., March 22.—Judge John Humphries was placed in the position recently of deciding whether or not a pair of handcuffs, usually in the hands of an officer, would bounce off the cranium of a recalcitrant prisoner, or near prisoner.

Claude Thompson, of College Park, was charged with resisting an officer. Deputy Sheriff J. E. Orr, of Campbell County, exhibited a scar on his forehead said to have been inflicted by Thompson.

Thompson's principal witness, who saw the fracas, testified that Thompson struck no blow during the altercation and explained the scar on the deputy sheriff's forehead by saying that when the party of the first part hit the party of the second part with his handcuffs, the property of the officer, they bounced right back off his (Campbell's) head and hit the deputy sheriff right between the eyes.

After being out for two hours members of the jury declared they were unable to agree, and Judge Humphries declared a mistrial.

NURSE WHO FREED GIRL PRISONER TO ATONE BY SEEKING THE CLOISTER

(International News Service.)
LOS ANGELES, March 22.—To atone for her wrong committed against the laws of society by religious devotion and penance for the remainder of her life was the pledge recently taken by pretty Rosefile Smith, 18, and student nurse at the County Hospital, who on Christmas Day last, gave Betty Arnold her freedom from the hospital where she was held a prisoner.

In order that she might carry out her plan to take the vows of a nun the District Attorney's office requested the felony charge against her be dropped when she appeared before Superior Judge McCormick for arraignment.
Because of the fact that the offense with which Miss Smith was charged was prompted by a mistaken idea of kindness, the authorities willingly accepted her plan to enter an order of Sisters.

At the time the offense was alleged to have been committed Roselle Smith was a student nurse at the County Hospital and out of a spirit of Christmas allowed Betty Arnold to walk from her cell in freedom.

SOVIET RUSSIA MAY DOMINATE AIR IN FUTURE

By DAVID M. CHURCH
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, March 21.—While the rest of Europe is engaged in the latest rivalry over aviation development, Soviet Russia is not standing idly by.

Reports from Moscow indicate that the Soviet government is making great strides in the development of its aviation service, both military and commercial.

An active propaganda for development of aviation is being carried on in Russia, a semi-official newspaper points out to the Russian people that "Soviet Russia is attacked" by enemies who come by air long before they attack by land or by sea, and that Russia must be prepared to meet this new air raid.

Statistics indicate that France leads the rest of Europe in aerial development, but Russia is awakening, and with her vast resources and with the expert advice of Germans, who are reported to be interested in Russian aviation within the next two years she may become a great air power.

Reports reaching London indicate that German aviation experts, who have been invited to the Soviet Union to study the progress in their own country, are actively conducting experiments in Russia and are having promising results. Tales of a flying machine, which will "knock down" and carry in a small tube, reports from Russia, and this is said to be the work of German experts.

France has the only military air force in the world. At the Neversky aerodrome, when the aerodrome is located there, the Soviet Union has a distinctive machine with her half-closed cockpit and seating for a pilot and a mechanic in the front and a mechanic in the rear.

This is Miss Nina Gendovitch, a flight commander, who is reported to be one of the world's expert flying aviators, and her rise to the position of flight commander is a tribute to her skill in the air.

In order to increase interest in aviation the Soviet government is conducting a campaign and sending lectures through the provinces.

RHEUMATISM Leaves You Forever

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Toxin Struck to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.
Every Rheumatism in this country is attributed to uric acid. Uric acid is a poison that if a full bottle of Alkermid, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, rheumatic swollen joints, and do away with even the slightest twinges of rheumatic pain, he will still return your money without comment.

Alkermid has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agonizing pain, which is the result of uric acid, has been relieved. Where the patient was bedridden, Alkermid has done it. It has done it for many years, and it has done it for many years, and it has done it for many years.

Alkermid has done it for many years, and it has done it for many years, and it has done it for many years. It has done it for many years, and it has done it for many years, and it has done it for many years.

DOGS GUARD ART TREASURES

BOSTON, March 22.—Two giant police dogs nightly guard the treasures of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Trained to refuse to accompany anyone but the watchmen who have charge of them, they are led at intervals each night through the darkened galleries.
Employees are cautioned against remaining in the building after hours because of the danger of attack by the powerful animals. An official of the museum who stayed until well into the evening recently was saved from the dogs only by the quick intervention of the watchman.

CO-EDS MAKE RULES FOR BLISS IN MARRIED LIFE

(By International News Service.)
LOS ANGELES, March 22.—Little Dan Cupid has taken a heavy toll this semester at the University of Southern California, and as a result the school holds a new record for weddings. Several student marriages have already taken place so far this year, and it is reported that something like 20 per cent of the co-eds are engaged to wed.
Here are six "rules" laid down by the engaged co-eds on how to be happy though married.
Equal confidence on business matters relative to both.
Unqualified trust between man and wife.
Promise never to end day with a quarrel.
Establishment of family after marriage is not a light matter, but one of respect.
Every college girl, married or single, with ambition should use her training.
Both parties use common sense and be sure they are in love.

WIFE SAYS HER "NOBLE" HUSBAND THOUGHT NICKEL A DAY PER CHILD ENOUGH

(International News Service.)
DETROIT, Mich., March 22.—Her husband considered a nickel a day ample maintenance for a child, Mrs. Marie Dembowski testified in her suit for divorce. Stanley, the husband, told Marie she was lucky to get him because he was of noble birth, she told the court. Although he conducted a prosperous hardware store he allowed her only $1 a day to run their home, she declared. When the first baby was born he increased her allowance to $1.50 a day.
"Two years later we had twins and it made him terribly angry," says Mrs. Dembowski. "He told me it was shameful for a nobleman to have twins. He said he could never love me any more and only raised my allowance to $1.15."
