

What God Says About Nehemiah's Long Prayer

...down certain days and prayed before the God of Heaven. "Yes, but—you say—"Nehemiah didn't have a telephone in his house, he didn't, and the man who has is put to it to pray long with distraction. But certain emergencies need prayer and they need more than they need anything else.

...to Nehemiah that prayer meant mourning and weeping and confession.

...and if Christian men would realize what prayer could do in their lives, if they would read what that sort of prayer accomplished, they would get away where telephones couldn't interfere and they would bare all the facts before the God of heaven and would come out of that engagement of "certain days" with God victory like Nehemiah's.

...will help any man who is in trouble or whose family is in trouble or whose church is in trouble to read the first chapter of Nehemiah and then to run away from the telephone and pray.

ASHLAND WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE

ASHLAND, March 29.—Domestic troubles are the alleged contributing cause for the suicide yesterday of Mrs. N. P. Shuler, recently returned with her husband from southern California, in the vicinity of San Diego. The couple were guests of the Columbia hotel, where the tragedy occurred about the noon hour on Wednesday, the woman shooting herself near the region of the heart with a 38 calibre revolver, she being seated in a bathroom. The bullet went clear through her body, penetrating the chair, then fell into the bathtub. The victim was conscious after the deed, but died shortly after. The husband could not be interviewed regarding the affair, particulars concerning which are somewhat veiled in secrecy. He is an Englishman, said to be possessed of domineering traits and characteristics.

He is credited with being the owner of extensive properties in Alaska and elsewhere. The couple have visited Ashland at various times and though not deemed permanent residents, were nevertheless well known here. Mrs. Shuler being prominent in social circles, her acquaintance in this town being extensive. She was about 40 years of age, of a pleasing personality, and her many friends will be pained to learn of this tragic circumstance. The family has resided in various places about town, and for a time were domiciled at the Palmer-Chamberlain ranch in the south part of the city.

COOPERATIVE MARKETING

The movement for cooperation among farmers for the better marketing of their products is one of the constructive developments of recent years, observes the Chicago Tribune. In basis it is sound economically and it should not only benefit farmers, but benefit them in a way compatible with and indeed conducive to the general welfare.

The farmer is an individual producer and he needs the benefits of union with his fellow producers. As an isolated individual he has often been at the mercy of conditions of which information, foresight, and united action would have made him the master. He has been exploited by agencies better organized and better provided and, while the consumer has paid high prices, he, the producer, has been obliged to accept low prices.

Producers' cooperation for the disposal of their commodities is established in other countries and in some districts of our own. Fruit growers, cotton planters, tobacco raisers have been cooperating in the United States with profit, and cooperation has become the leading plank in agricultural policy. So far as it follows sound economics it will expand, and through it we may hope for a greater stability and a better return for agriculture, both desirable, not only for the farmer but for consumers.—East Oregonian.

Four leaps ahead and still growing. The Roseburg News-Review is recognized as one of the best papers in the state. The large circulation proves it to be the most skeptical.

MESS BOY SPENT COOL MILLION DAILY

By M. D. TRACY
 (United Press Staff Correspondent.)
 SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Most every boy and girl in America at some time has sat down out behind the barn or in the tradesman's entrance to the apartment house or somewhere and said:
 "Wish I had a million dollars—I'd go to the show and buy candy and—"
 Well, everyone knows how it goes. And over in Germany boys and girls aren't much different down deep in their hearts, than they are in America, perhaps.
 With this exception—
 Reinhardt Schmidt, aged 14, of Hamburg, Germany, captain's mess boy on the German steamer Hans Hensoth, has had his wish come true.
 When he was back in Germany he did his wishing—only, of course, he wished for marks instead of dollars.
 Then he came to San Francisco, and all of a sudden young Reinhardt found himself in the midst of riches.
 A newspaper reporter found Reinhardt interesting. He told his editor. And as a result a girl reporter was assigned to give Reinhardt one memorable day.
 The lad was running around the decks of the big freighter which had been his home for months, when the mate stopped him and told him for the day he was to have shore leave and be the guest of the fair lady, who awaited at the gang-plank.
 Bewildered but anxious for just one taste of real fun, he eagerly accepted. And the day started. Reinhardt was to do as he pleased. And the lady would foot the bill.
 It started with candy at the ferry building.
 Then a ride through the city in a luxurious sedan—the likes of which Reinhardt had never seen.
 Then to a store for a pair of good, American shoes to replace the wooden ones he wore. Then lunch at the city's most fashionable hotel—the first fruit he had tasted for eight months was served him in a fruit-cocktail; ox-tail soup, chicken pie, apple pie with ice cream, and quantities of drink.
 "I drink no alcohol," he announced in German. "But milk, at home it is so expensive." He revealed in bottles of it.
 Then a trip to the top of the tallest building in the city and, next, out to the beach to the roll-coaster, the merry-go-round and all the other wonders.
 Reinhardt was gaining his poise and he hardly could wait for each successive thrill.
 "Powder River-letter buck," he shouted in his funny English as he mounted a pony on the merry-go-round and waved his cap, cowboy fashion.
 No satisfactory explanation could be secured as to where he picked up the phrase, but it was good evidence that somewhere back in the days of the war, he had met someone who knew something of the Ninety-First division which crushed through the Argonne forest with that battle-cry.
 A bystander passed $5 into his hand. "Ach! I'll send that to my mother," he confided to his fairy-godmother, in German.
 Evening came, and dinner, and then a visit to a vaudeville show.
 Late at night Reinhardt was returned to his shipmates aboard the steamer.
 "Ach, very fine," he exclaimed for the hundredth time as he sat on a coil of rope and sailors gathered around him to hear the story of how the fairy fulfilled his dreams.
 Out came a pencil and a piece of paper. For a moment he figured, while the lady looked on.
 In marks, his figures showed he had spent that day 1,663,609.

The Parent-Teachers Circle of the High School will hold a cooked food sale at McKean Darby and Baldwin's, Saturday, March 31.
