COST OF CLOTHING

MUST COME DOWN

CHICAGO, April 27.—How to get clothing to a customer at the lowest price, or in other words a lesson in the reduction of overhead expense smaller in character to an abbreviated university course, will be offered to everyone who attends the tenth anniversary convention and exposition of the National Association of Retail Clothiers which will be held here during the last week of September.

According to the arrangements made by Charles E. Wry, executive director of the association, every one who addresses the convention will place particular emphasis upon this important subject.

"The retail clothing dealer who favors high prices if there still exists such a merchant," said Mr. Wry while discussing the preparatory work of the convention and exposition, "is standing in his own light. We had one sad experience with high prices not so very long ago, and it taught us a lesson. High prices don't mean big profits to the dealer by any means. In fact they mean just the opposite. What we are endeavoring to do all the time, and what we are doing to emphasize drive home to everyone who visits our convention and exposition, is that reasonable prices brought about by economy in overhead expense, such as rents, efficiency in handling goods and other incidentals to the handling of clothing, mean reasonable profits and satisfied customers."

"A careful survey of the clothing industry by qualified experts resulted in this conclusion, and this lesson is going to be taught at our convention and exposition morning, noon and night."

TEXTBOOK FOR THE

MASSIS IS PLANNED

PORTLAND, Ore., April 27.—The gathering together of material for a textbook on religion which will meet the approval of Protestants, Catholics, Jews and all other faiths which have the foundation of their belief in the existence of a God, has been favored by the Presbyterian ministry of Portland. Even atheists might be called to help.

At a recent Presbyterian meeting this subject was brought up for discussion and found ready approval in the utterances of the clergyman present. It was pointed out that the need for religious education is apparent, but that no provision had been made for this need of children because of the prejudice involved. The fundamental beliefs of all creeds would find a place in the book and so harmonized that the material could be used in public schools, as a part of the curriculum.

The feeling of the ministers was that it is impossible to build up a proper citizenship without a religious basis. A committee, members of which would be drawn from disciples of all creeds, would work in collaboration at the expense of the various church organizations in the preparation of this work, and a suitable publisher then found. There are 11,000,000 school children in the United States, it was pointed out, who would thus learn with other knowledge, their essential duties and obligations toward their fellowmen.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

by MRS. ELLSBURY

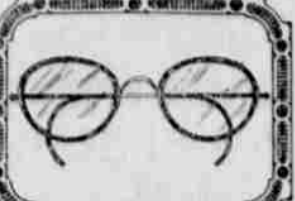

(Address all communications to Mrs. Ellsbury, care of News-Review.)

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: I have been a reader of your column for some time, and think that you give splendid advice to young people, and old ones too some times. I was especially interested in the letter you wrote the other day to a mother who complained that her daughter was unmanageable and wouldn't stay home. I wonder if a double experience of mine will help that woman any. It will at least bear out what you had to say. My own home wasn't strict, but my parents never seemed to have time to be interested in anything we did. We just ate, did as little of the work as large ones, sometimes just a few girls to make candy. I encourage her to bring girls home and take them to her room which is the prettiest in the house, and usually take them something to eat. As "Kathie's mother," I think all her friends love me too. And it has been a wonderful success. I wish every mother would try it. Do not think it was expensive to fix up her room. The curtains are gingham, the counterpane and pillow slips are edged with gingham, the little book case is homemade, the rocker is an old one of my mother's, transformed with a coat of white enamel that she applied herself.

This is a Studebaker year.

RATTLESNAKES ARE SHIPPED TO HOLLAND

ONTARIO, Oregon, April 27.—Idaho rattlesnakes are being shipped to Holland where they will engage in the manufacture of a serum for the benefit of the human race, the enemy of all snakes.

Robert Limbert, of Boise, has shipped 47 rattlers to Amsterdam, Holland, where they will be used by the Dutch government in experimental work, chiefly in the development of a serum calculated to provide a cure for rheumatism. The snakes were captured in an hour and a quarter at Black's creek, 12 miles from Boise, on the Mountain Home highway. They range from 10 to 30 inches in length. The fangs of the snakes, removed before shipping, will be back in again in three weeks, and the Hollanders will have to move warily in unpacking the load, which will be ready for striking and causing a different kind of rheumatism.

OLD RESIDENTS TO BE HONOR GUESTS

SALEM, April 27.—Candidates for honor guests at the Champeog luncheon of the chamber of commerce next Monday are being lined up and guests will be present who have seen Salem develop from a tiny frontier trading post, with trails as streets and a few small wooden structures for business houses, into its present thriving status.

Mrs. Kate Pugh who came here in 1852 and lived as a girl at Cottage and Union streets until she was married and then moved a block to Winter and Union streets and since resided there, will be among those at the luncheon. J. A. Baker is running a strong race for the longest residence on the male side. He came to Salem in 1849, having come to Oregon in 1847. Mrs. Riley Small came to Salem in 1852 and Mrs. Malinda Wade in 1859. Mrs. Wade was born in West Stayton in 1816. All of these pioneers have found Salem a splendid place to live during the long years of their residence here and with no desire to move away. John Wright Steward at the asylum, would be strongly in the running as one of the oldest residents, if not the oldest in point of time here, but he is ill and would be unable to attend the luncheon.

Others are looking up definite data as to individual candidates that they would like to see at the luncheon and it is likely there will be a most interesting race for the places before the lists are closed.

KANSANS ENJOY DEBATES ON FREAK LEGISLATION

TOPEKA, Kansas, April 28.(A. P.)—Freak legislation did not play as prominent a role in the Kansas legislative session, just ended, as has been the custom heretofore, party leaders assert. Several measures of this nature, however, furnished the legislators with occasional diversion.

One in particular, calling for automobile tags on front, rear and sides of cars, reached a stage where it was amended to include also tags on the top and bottom, before the enacting clause was stricken out. Some of the statesmen argued that "The tag on top would aid air police in bandit chases, and every car should carry a tag on the under side so that a victim, when run down, may read the number of the license as the car passed over him."

A bill calling for a pension for farmers also elicited jocular treatment. The original bill, introduced by a farmer, provided for pensions up to $50 a month for both men and women, the minimum being $10 a month for those residing on farms ten years; $20 for twenty years and $30 for thirty years or more. One senator, also a farmer, amended this to make the pension payable only to farmers "with corn on both hands and bunions on both feet." The measure was killed in the senate agricultural committee.

A democratic representative presented a resolution endorsing Henry Ford for president, but the Republican majority of the state affairs committee recommended it to read "Warren G. Harding," instead of Ford, and recommended it for passage.
