THE INDIAN'S RESPECT FOR LAW

An Alaskan Indian was arrested for murder. His captor started with him upon a wearisome journey over snow, which stretched several hundred miles of waste between him and jail.

The delegation of Yeomen visiting this vicinity today for the purpose of selecting a site for a children's home had the privilege of inspecting one of the choicest property holdings in the county.

Today's weather is nothing unusual in this neck of the woods and we don't want those Yeoman visitors to think that observer Bell is handing out anything out of the ordinary in the way of weather conditions for their particular benefit.

The Southern Pacific is going to spend $50,000 in the way of improving their yards in this city. This is good news to the optimist, but an awful joke to the pessimist.

President Harding is scheduled to stop at Portland July 4. Wonder if there will be any "fireworks"—from a political standpoint.

It's all right to bite the hand that's feeding you if it's feeding you poison.

FAMOUS CHURCH SEEN

Method of Burying Bodies in Charcoal Explained by Professor Horner, Who Conducted Research Work

CORVALLIS, May 2.—Looking on the mounds of Indians who were buried longer ago than the human mind can recollect, was the experience of 150 members of the Oregon history class last Saturday.

Reasons for the different shapes of Indian skulls on display at the Hill museum were explained by Professor Horner. One had a very irregular surface and was almost straight on the back.

The United Presbyterian church at Albany, the mother of the United Presbyterian church of the world, was visited.

The home of Abe Blevins, who assisted Dr. Crawford in opening the first Indian mounds, was visited.

The Cochran mounds on the Blevins ranch were then visited. They were 150 feet in diameter, round, and 15 feet high.

The man with an onion breath doesn't always raise them in his own garden. Maybe he's been eatin' hash house dressing.

There are two things, anyway, that don't worry. They are pug dogs and lightning rod agents.
