BIG SHAM BATTLE AT O. A. C. MAY 26

All of College's Military Forces to Be Used in Great Tournament and Exhibition—Modern Battle to Be Staged.

CORVALLIS, May 15—The greatest sham battle ever staged at night in the northwest will take place May 26 as an aftermath of the tenth annual Military Tournament staged in Bell stadium at O. A. C., asserts Lieutenant Patrick H. Tansey, of the engineering unit and director of the tournament.

The present plans show the most energetic and ambitious schedule ever outlined in a military tournament at O. A. C. This is the first time the "one army" idea was ever fused into the military tournament. The entire spectacle will be a fitting exemplification of the purposes and ideals of the army of the U. S.

The tournament was started 10 years ago and every year the show has increased in size and importance, until now, the affair is attended by thousands from all parts of the northwest. The first tournament consisted of a few races and competitive infantry drills but has increased until the five combatant major units of the military take part in an all day and evening performance.

"All combatant forces of the army in action, the famous cavalrymen of O. A. C. in a spectacular charge, the charging of the doughboys in an awe inspiring assault, the artillery barrage of the battery of 75's the spatter of rifles and automatic guns, the detonation of trench mortars and one pounders, exploding shells and rockets, flares, "very" lights and numerous other flashes and deafening noises, typical of the modern battle, will make the most graphic picture of a real battle ever presented to the civilian axe anywhere at any time," said Lieutenant Tansey.

SAYS DECREE WAS GOT BY PERJURY

EUGENE, May 15.—Charging that his wife secured a divorce from him in Lane circuit court a month ago on perjured testimony are made today in a motion by the husband to set aside the decree in the case of Ros- is L. vs. Daniel O. Durham. Fred E. Smith is his attorney.

Durham who makes his home at Yoncalla, says he was not advised of the date of the trial, and had he been so would have been there with a good defense. The cruelty charge preferred against him by his wife he declares to be false. He further charges the she perjured herself to obtain a decree.

The defendant asserts his non-appearance at the trial perfectly excusable on his part, if not on the attorney he originally retained but has since deserted.

An affidavit in support of motion proclaims Durham as a man well qualified to take care of the two sons, up to the time of the decree in his charge. It is signed by six citizens of Yoncalla, including the Methodist minister and the postmaster there. All say their belief is that he is a man of excellent moral character, sober, industrious and steady.

Here's a popular way to serve Kellogg's Bran—greatest health food!

Most every one who realizes how effective Kellogg's Bran is for the permanent relief of constipation has their own particular way of serving this wonderful cereal. Most people eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. Others sprinkle it on their favorite hot or cold cereal. Every one enjoys its nut-like flavor!

If you are cooking a hot cereal try this method:—Measure off two tablespoonfuls for each member of the family. Mix it with the cereal and cook as you always cook the cereal.

Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared and ready to eat, but its regulatory powers are in no way impaired if you cook it with other cereals.

Kellogg's Bran has won the friendly recommendation of physicians because it does give prompt and permanent relief from mild or chronic constipation and because it can be eaten without forming a habit. Again, Kellogg's Bran will free you from drastic, dangerous cathartics.

When constipation conditions exist in your system or whenever you are "run-down," do not take half way measures. Fortify with a period to your cereal from now on! What you must have is Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Get the kind that gets relief!

Devastated Areas in France Rapidly Being Restored by Owners

REBUILDING DWELLINGS

In Spite of Four Years of Systematic Destruction War-Torn Areas of France Are Getting Back to Normal

PARIS, May 15.—Of devastated France, it may be said today that, due is no small measure to the dogged fortitude and tenacity of its returned inhabitants, the area has safely passed the crisis in its recovery from the wounds suffered through more than four years of systematic destruction.

According to estimates of various reconstruction agencies the end of next year, if all goes well, should see this vast sore in the side of France practically healed with the exception, of course, of some of the cathedrals and other historic monuments which never can be replaced.

The general idea of how the work is progressing may be had from the fact that 552,977 of the 741,993 dwelling houses which were crumbled by cannon have now been completely restored. Other forms of reconstruction are going forward and in less than five years after the greatest military struggle the world has ever seen, more than 4,000,000 of the 5,000,000 terror-stricken people who fled from the German invader are back on the soil they love and are beginning to catch a glimpse of normal, undisturbed contentment. While the world talks of reparations and the political aspects of the occupation of the Ruhr these weather-hardened refugees are plugging away from sun to sun to restore their cottages and replant their gardens.

This is there one object. True to the temperament of the average provincial Frenchman, these repatriated men and women want only the opportunity of remaking homes for themselves; places where they will no longer be patronized as refugees; places where they may till the soil and enjoy its fruits. They waste no time discussing the Ruhr, and are willing to leave such things to their political leaders if only they themselves may be left unhampered in their efforts to prosper the land which once formed such a fertile part of France.

A correspondent of the Associated Press who has made a tour of the devastated regions comes away with the outstanding conviction that, of all the elements entering into the work of reconstruction, the greatest factor of all has been and still is the sheer will on the part of the people to restore.

Although there are still many vivid signs of war, the contrast between the wartime aspect of the countryside and that of reconstruction is startling. There are great stretches of rolling, sun-kissed fields still so full of lead and steel and yawning shell holes that cultivation so far has been impossible; but there are even greater stretches which have responded to the plow and are now carpeted with a fuzzy growth of green spring grain. There are miles of weed-grown hillsides still matted with barbed wire, but there are also great piles of it that have been combed out, particularly from the Chemin-des Dames region, like huge tangled skeins of hair, and are rolled up along the roadsides to rust and disintegrate.

Everywhere everybody is at work. Adolescent striplings, who were mere children when the great exodus occurred and who are yet too young to do the heavy work of building, are following ox-drawn harrows over the fields, while their sturdy, horny-handed fathers are lifting heavy beams and stones into place while their wrinkled but wiry mothers are washing clothes, cooking meals and doing other household duties.

This metamorphosis from desolation to reconstruction is particularly noticeable in cities and towns that were most completely destroyed. Montdidier, for example, which bore the brunt of some of the most terrible bombardments of the war, looks almost like a new city. Chauny also, the little village in the Aisne which completely disappeared, has been almost entirely restored. The large chemical factory there—one of the 21,000 that were wiped out—is again humming with business and is much more modern and better equipped than the old one. More than 10,000 similar factories in the devastated region have been reconstructed. Practically everything in the village has been restored, except the church. This is true almost everywhere; the church apparently is the last thing to be rebuilt. Absolute necessities must come first.

Wartime refugees, like the evacuees of that type are making progress, but their destruction was so colossal and the amount of debris to be removed was so much greater, that restoration necessarily must be slow.

TO RELIEVE PAIN AND BACKACHE

Women May Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I had heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed to take something to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up I began to take that. I had been sick off and on for years and barely weighed a hundred pounds, but now I have had such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one."—Mrs. J. J. RUBER, 3939 18th Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn.

Finds a True Friend

"Every woman who values her health should be proud to have a true friend like the Vegetable Compound," says Mrs. W. E. Shaw, 3827 Walnut Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I had female weakness so badly that I could not stand on my feet. Half of my time was spent in bed and I had pains in my back which were unbearable. I tried everything I could think of to help myself, and when a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began taking it at once. I recommend it without hesitation."

IMPROVEMENT IN BANKS REPORTED

SALEM, May 15.—That the banking conditions in the state of Oregon are much better at present than they were a year ago as shown by the resources was the word brought to the members of the Salem Chamber of Commerce by Frank C. Bramwell, state superintendent of banks.

The aggregate resources during the year of 1929 showed a decline of nearly fifty millions of dollars, Mr. Bramwell said. In 1922 the resources showed an increase in excess of twenty three millions of dollars. The resources have continued to show a favorable increase since the first of the year, he said.

Mr. Bramwell attributed the increases to the general pressure of business calling attention to the business in all lines of commercial activity.

In telling of the failures of banks the speaker said that of the ten banks that closed their doors during the past two years but two could be recognized as legitimate failures. Two of the banks have reopened for business while the majority are now under the process of liquidation.

WATCHMEN LEAD EXCITING LIFE

(By Associated Press.)

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah., May 15.—The life of a night watchman is not one of little excitement as most persons imagine, according to George F. Houghton, 62, who for thirty-three years has patrolled a block on Main street here. Several men serving time in the Utah state prison were captured through Houghton's efforts and although the veteran watchman has never been wounded by a criminal he has been fired upon several times.

Since becoming a night watchman in the early 90's, Houghton has not had a vacation but he plans an automobile trip to the Pacific Coast this summer.

HELENA, Mont., May 15.—The Great Northern railroad is planning construction of about eighty miles of line south from Java, on the northern border of Glacier Park, which will turn east across the summit of the Rocky mountain range to connect at Augusta with a branch line now running west from Great Falls, according to W. P. Kenney, vice president of the Great Northern. Mr. Kenney was here recently testifying before the state railroad commission.

LETTUCE INDUSTRY GROWING ON COAST

That the lettuce industry is taking on gigantic proportions up and down the coast is again shown by reports from Puyallup, Washington, where the valley farmers have gone into the production extensively. They have passed the experimental stage as has also Southern Idaho country, where lettuce is shipped east by carloads, and the crop in Puyallup Valley this year is expected to bring about $2,000,000 to the growers of that section. This fact will be of especial interest to Umpqua valley farmers who are this season experimenting with lettuce growing, and expect to ship their first car the latter part of the month. The report from Puyallup says:

Puyallup valley farmers who have won world distinction in the bush berry field have concluded it is no better for a community than for an individual to put all the eggs in one basket, and steps are rapidly being taken to widen the scope of agricultural activity in this section.

Already the valley lettuce farms are attracting attention and contracts are being signed for the shipment to the eastern market of about 2000 cars this season from the Puyallup and White river valleys. As the growers expect to net about $1000 a car, this means a net income of $2,000,000 for lettuce in this section the coming season.

Thus far lettuce growing has been entirely in the hands of the Japanese syndicates. W. H. Paulhamus, however, is working up the project to get Americans in the business.

Another feature that is to be looked into in the future development is the growing of flower bulbs.

Says There Is No Better Remedy for Kidney Troubles

Than Dr. Carey's Marshroot Prescription No. 777—Guaranteed

Cincinnati, O., July 25, 1920.—After having been relieved of kidney troubles of several years' standing by Dr. Carey's Marshroot prescription No. 777 am exceedingly grateful and loud in its praise—have recommended it to several fellow-workers who were also benefited beyond their belief by its use. It is my candid opinion that there is no better remedy than Dr. Carey's Marshroot.

August 3rd I received your letter asking permission to reproduce my letter to you (as above). If it will in any way help people to realize the true merits of Dr. Carey's Marshroot prescription you are at liberty to do so. I know that it cured me. I suffered great pain for several years and am certainly grateful and feel confident that if people who have kidney trouble will use it long enough to give it a fair test there will be more grateful ones added to the list.—John E. Douglas, 103 W. Court St., Cincinnati, O.

IMPORTANT—Marshroot Prescription No. 777 is Dr. Daniel G. Carey's own formula. It is not a patent medicine and was originally sold through drug stores to accommodate his patients. You can always get this effective prescription from Nathan Fullerton, The Rexall Store, Roseburg, Ore.
