MONEY NEEDED TO START PORT WORK

Improvement On the Umpqua Jetty Will Be Started As Soon As Port Commission Matches Government Fund.

Improvement work on the Port of Umpqua, particularly the north jetty will be begun just as soon as the port pays in cash the $102,500, which with previous credited expenditures will match the government's appropriation of $127,500, says the Reedsport Courier.

This information was acquired by Port Attorney J. Hawkins Napier, who spent Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of last week in Portland arranging with government engineers for settlement.

It was decided that $175,000 had been spent by the port on jetty improvements and the amount has been credited Umpqua. The difference between the government appropriation of $127,500 and the already expended $175,000 is $102,500 or the amount needed to make the necessary match.

The port has approximately $82,500 on hand. This, however, will be needed in paying for and operating the Umpqua dredge and for general and bond interest fund. So it is thought that this money should not be touched in matching the appropriation. However, there is $125,000 worth of series "B" bonds, yet unsold, which were set aside by the port commission for this specific purpose in 1921. It will be necessary to sell these bonds to raise the money to be paid to the government.

The port commissioners will meet Friday morning and take definite steps in the matter as delay is holding up the work. All details is on hand at Secretary J. R. Brown's office. Treasurer H. J. Hubbard has been in Portland for the past few days and it is believed that he is looking into the condition of the bond market.

The $102,500 which is necessary to pay the government before any work will be begun on the port, will draw interest while the government is holding the money until drawing on this specific sum is made. However, there is no way of coming to agreement without first paying the government the cash.

All this data has been compiled by Attorney Napier and will be submitted at the port meeting.

The port commissioners will meet Friday morning and take definite steps in the matter as delay is holding up the work.

CELEBRATION AT REEDSPORT JULY 4

The American Legion is planning a exciting July Fourth for Reedsport, with arrangements underway to secure the services of a first class carnival company for a two or three day celebration, the two to cooperate in making this a bigger and better Independence day than the city has ever known, says the Reedsport Courier.

This was decided at the meeting of the executive committee of the local post held Friday evening. Adjutant Bill Ruckel is now in communication with department headquarters of the legion regarding the securing of the carnival company, which if plans materialize will locate near the school base ball grounds.

Publicity is being given the idea, particularly early, so that families may plan to remain in Reedsport that day.

NEW FISH CANNERY TO START UP SOON

Activities will start immediately on the new fish cannery, which expects to be in operation here on or before September 1, says the Reedsport Courier.

Notice to vacate was served a number of families occupying houses, owned by the company, who, it is reported expects to have the houses rented by employees. It is estimated that the cannery will employ about 25 men.

Notice was served on the firm by Fire Chief Glatfelter, asking that brick flues be built into the houses before they be re-rented.

The cannery will be modern and electrically operated. W. A. Penter of Cloverdale, will be in charge. One thousand cases will be the daily output.

THEODORE ABRAHAM WILL TAKE TESTS

CORVALLIS, May 21.—Theodore Abraham of Roseburg, a pharmacist at Oregon Agricultural college, will take the state examination in pharmacy given here May 24, to 25, by the members of the Oregon state board of pharmacy. Abraham is taking the examination for a degree in pharmacy.

Members of the state board are appointed by the governor. W. D. McCurry of Portland is president of the board. Frank S. Ward of Portland is now secretary-treasurer. Conrad Staffin, formerly assistant general of Oregon, and Hal McNair of Ashland, complete the membership.

Before 1918 the classes went to Portland to take the examinations but since that time the members of the board have conducted the examinations on the O. A. C. campus. In preparation for the examination the staff in pharmacy has given several trial state pharmacy examinations in order to familiarize the students with the plan of writing such an examination and to bring to their attention certain matters which might be otherwise overlooked.

LOOKING FOR MOWER

The following article concerning Nathan Fullerton local druggist, appeared in The Oregonian last week, while Mr. Fullerton was on a business trip in the metropolis:

Search was made yesterday for a lawn mower by Nathan Fullerton of Roseburg, registered at the Mullinor-mah. The mower that Mr. Fullerton was trying to find was not the only one of non or garden variety, but one of those large affairs which are used on golf grounds. Roseburg now has a country club with 92 acres, and most of the acreage is for golf. The golf but hit Roseburg a year ago. When it was first talked of by Dexter Rice and a few others, people "gave 'em the laugh," which is exactly what happened at The Dalles when Chauncey Butler talked it off. One night, however, 35 live wires of Roseburg were invited to attend a meeting to consider the organization of a country club and 33 attended; one was in Portland and telegraphed that he could be counted in, and the other was home and phoned that he would join.

The club signed up 100 members and assessed each $200 for a membership, and with the $20,000 it went out and secured grounds, laid out a course and built a clubhouse. The club will be furnished in a few days and there will be a house warming. The clubhouse is complete, with shower baths, dining room, a regular restaurant and all the things that go to make a modern golf house. Weather has been so mild that the members played golf every day all last winter. Mr. Fullerton is a druggist at Roseburg and has been attending a convention in Portland.

MISSING BARK LOST IN GALE

SAN PEDRO, Calif., May 21.—Mystery still surrounds the disappearance of the four-masted barkentine Alta, which sailed from this port February 29 bound for Bellingham, Wash., with a crew of 22 officers and men together with the wife and two children of Captain Charles A. Sexton.

The Alta, operated by the Bank of Italy in coastwise service, was swept southward, according to local seamen. It is believed the wind-pammer was caught in the heavy northwest gale that swept the Pacific ocean for days early in March, and carried south to the Rocky coast off Lower California. It is believed the Alta was rammed into the rocks at this point.

Tention of the sea decreed that Mrs. Sexton and her two children should accompany Captain Sexton on the ill-fated trip, the old salts assert.

The mystery of the Alta has caused shipping men to revive the many mysterious and superstitious of missing ships from the local harbor, chief among which is the story of the windjammer Parkus. The absence of a black cat is held by sailors to have been the cause of the Parkus disappearance.

When the Parkus was launched a black cat was found aboard. This cat remained and when the windjammer was anchored for her final trip the black cat remained. Superstition, so the tradition runs, made it imperative that a black cat should always remain aboard the Parkus.

When the black cat died and before leaving for its last trip the Parkus crew held an hour while members of the crew vainly sought for a black cat to replace the mascot. The captain laughed at the fears of his crew and ordered the vessel to weigh anchor. The Parkus was never heard from again.

FELINE LOYAL TO TRADITION

(By Associated Press.) OGDEN, Utah, May 21.—"And the cat came back." This was the message received by employees of the Union Pacific freight station in Ogden from Denver after the disappearance of a black cat that had come to this city in a car of merchandise.

Three weeks ago, according to local men, a black cat jumped from a car that had just been opened at the local station. It was found a being with the weakness, but disappeared a week later.

And now comes the message saying that the cat had returned in Denver in the same car in which it left the Colorado metropolis.

L. G. H. SCHOOL NOTES

The lower classmen and the teachers gave a reception in honor of the graduating seniors at the grand ball Wednesday evening, May 16. The evening was spent in playing games and music. The senior girls wore white middie and skirts and the senior boys wore dress suits. A delicious luncheon of ice cream, cake, sandwiches and punch were served in cafeteria style to the guests. The seniors were asked to sit at a table placed on the stage. The table was covered with a green white and red covering. The chairs were covered with a green covering also. Along side of the seniors' table was another table, surrounded by benches with no coverings. This table was lower classmen's table. Those attending had a splendid time.

A baseball game played at Brockway last Sunday between Brockway and Looking Glass was won by the Looking Glass team.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Goodman and daughter, Maxine, of Marshfield are visiting at the home of Mrs. Goodman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Morgan.

The church was beautifully decorated Sunday morning for the services of Mothers' Day. A large crowd attended the services.

The grade school closed Thursday, May 17, 1923. The school board paid a visit to the grade school last week.

George Bacon and family, and Charles Chamberlain spent a few days in Salem. They returned home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hensen and small son are moving to Roseburg. They will go to Washington later in the summer.

Mr. T. R. Stokes was very much surprised when a number of his neighbors came to his home and surprised him Wednesday evening.

Wesley Meredith is busy picking and delivering his crop of strawberries these days.

Three boys, John Montgomery, Jacob Cline and Harold Stromquist have joined the boy scouts in Roseburg.

Looking Glass schools took part in the contests at the track meet in Roseburg Friday, May 18. Donald Ollivant won third place in the declamation contest for the High School and Lucia Bowers won third place in the declamation contest for the grammar school. Several others won points for our grammar school.

MEETING AT COURT HOUSE

The meeting of prune growers set for Wednesday, May 23, will be held at the court house, instead of the Chamber of Commerce office as previously announced. It is expected that there will be a large number of prune growers in attendance to meet the representatives of the Portland Chamber of Commerce which is endeavoring to arrange a state wide system for the disposal of the prunes in the state. A large percentage of last year's crop remains unsold, while a new crop is coming on.
