WAY TO AVOID DEPRESSION

One of the most serious evils of industrial life is the succession of panics or business depressions that have occurred with some regularity. These breakdowns are used as an argument by socialistic propagandists. They charge that such disasters are an essential element in the present "capitalistic" system. Any kind of a system is bound to produce some irregularities. If business was managed by some great political bureaucracy, or if the operatives of producing plants controlled them, probably more mistakes would be made in organizing production than are made now. Too much merchandise would be produced in certain industries and too little in others, and work in many lines would have to stop while these conditions were righted. One of the chief causes of business disasters was removed when the banking system was reorganized in 1913. Many of the former panics were caused simply by shortage of currency. When the banks were organized into a federal reserve system, then it became possible to use all the bank assets of the country as a reserve against which a sufficient supply of currency could be issued, and panics from this cause were made practically impossible. Speculation tends to produce panics. The people who buy hazardous securities help it on, also those who spend their money extravagantly. If all the folks who used money in such ways in 1919 and 1920, had put it into banks and good bonds, the disaster following that period might not have occurred. The business community must realize that to escape the low points of depression, the high peaks of inflation must also be avoided.

A demented man was roughly handled in this city last evening by the night officer. Eye witnesses say the unfortunate man was struck several severe blows over the head with a cop's "billy." He was accorded a reception like a wild beast of the forest, though aside from his desire to talk too freely, was probably as harmless as a mouse. There is such a thing as an officer of the law overstepping the bounds of decency in performing his duties. Because he is privileged to carry a gun and other "implements" of protection is no reason that he should take advantage of any person— sane or insane. Any officer who cannot control minor offenses without his "finger on the trigger" is a dangerous asset to the community. Innocent people are just as likely to suffer at his hands as the guilty.

Give some men a little authority and they lose all sense of respect. Probably more good men have been ruined by stamping them with a policeman's badge than any other means of "elevation."

"Drive slow, you might meet a fool," would be a good slogan for the sharp turns on the Pacific highway—and not a bit amiss, for there seems to be aplenty of them stepping on the gas these days.

President Harding gave the Shriners the "once over" yesterday at Washington, D. C. And he wasn't a bit disappointed, either. Hard to find a better bunch of men.

Some people complain that they never get credit for what they do—but if they would only do something the credit would come in big chunks.

Prominent among the great historic events of June are always the strawberry festivals.

What is more beautiful than the Umpqua Valley just at this particular period of the year?

Dear Folks:—

The day was fine, the sky was blue and I had nothing planned to do, so when a friend came 'round my way and said: "Let's go and spend the day a riding in my new machine," I welcomed him upon the scene.

His car was new without a scar, without a scratch or single mark and he was proud as proud could be and said in happy tones to me, "This bus of mine I hope to keep from looking dingy dull and cheap. I hate a lot of dents and bangs that come from careless whumps, so I'll drive with lots of care, by doing so I hope to fare as well as folks of whom I've heard. This bus of mine is not a bird, it has no wings and can't fly and so I'm never going to try to make it speed or leave the ground. Now don't you think my logic's sound?"

I answered "Yes" and off we went, upon a day of joy intent. A mile or so we'd gone along, my friend began to sing a song when Bang! there came a sudden jar that bent the fender on our car. My friend began to cuss and swear and stamped around and pulled his hair. He called the other man a chump for giving him a careless bump. The words he used would make you blush, I did my best to make him hush. But when he stopped his long abuse, the other man said: "What's the use? I did not try to hurt or kill, go get it fixed, I'll pay the bill."

Again we started on our way. My friend had little to say except "The name of fool I've earned, there's a still a heap, I've never learned."

PRUNE PICKIN'S

BY BERT G. BATES

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—
An act of bravery was performed on the main drag last eve when an officer tried to subdue an insane man which reminds us of the heroic deed performed by a prizefighter when he slugged his Grandmother's throat with a razor while she was asleep.

DUMBBELL DORA THINKS—
Gratification is the process of applying cold cream to wrinkled physiognomies.

Mizzoner Gawce Jones is wearin' a smackin' new straw derby these days and Gawce suttinly makes those Rodolph Valentinos see look like the proverbial toity cent.

Sam Josephson, who formerly measured ribbon in this village, is now measuring gas in Shelby Montana where the champ battle is going to be staged. Sam says Shelby is a reproduction of Roseburg thirty years ago.

Dumbell's little sister, Perunia, says that if all these folks who indulge in moonshine poison would pool their money for a week they could buy the constitution and change it to suit themselves.

Spring has come An' Strawberries too We gotta quit, This juncs won't do.

Gosh, we'd like to be a kid now that school has just ended and the summer season of play has started. This here bin' grown ain't what it's cracked up to be.

An item of news came over the wire today that excited us all here in the office. It was to the effect that a comet was speeding toward the earth at the rate of eight million (or maybe it was eight billion) miles a second, and we might go amash at any moment. Much disturbed, we ed called John Blinks of Skunk's Misery on the telephone, and reads the telegram. "You say it's on the way now," asked John. "Yep." "And going to hit?" "Bound to." "Oh, well," said John, "the way fighting has been the last month this earth isn't worth much any more. Let her hit." And John hung up with a bang.

A clothing house advertises "Pants $1.19 a leg." Seats free.

SOME DUE SAYS LITTLE LOU
His summer suit is worn through; His hat looks even bummer; "I'm wearing now," sings little Lou, "These here last clothes of summer."

What's become of the old-fashioned women who used to carry a bag of "peppermints" in her satchel?

A burglar proof safe in a fireproof building, which recently burned in New York, was found after the ruins cooled off, to have been opened and robbed.

Painting the eyes is a very old fad. Sorrow, alcohol, jealousy and fits have been doing it from time immemorial.

The chief difference between the old-fashion dime and the modern novel is exactly $1.90.

It's the dumb man who makes the cutting remark.

When a man swells out his chest and sonorously declaims "Now I take issue with that," he does nothing of the kind. He just wants to talk.

Some men could say what they think and still be quiet.

The local nutted has just compiled complete statistics to show that there are about 11,000,000 persons in the United States who wish they were some one else.

WHERE TO FIND THEM
If they want to take the thumbprints of chorus beauties, the place to find them is on taxicab doors.

The satisfaction of shopping by telephone is that you do not see how little you get for your money.

A brilliant individual play may bring a lot of applause at the moment, but team work is what brings the pennant in the end.

Dumb waiters carry everything but gossip.

The Elluka will trot on tomorrow eve and the fantastic will be all tripped up as per usual.

The feller with the most guts ain't alius the feller with the most nerve.

The army monoplane, T-2 which was recently used by Lieutenants Oakley G. Kelly and John A. Macready in their sensational transcontinental flight was equipped with an Exide battery.

"Incidentally," Mr. Taylor of the local Exide battery service station explained, "the plane is of the famous Fokker type used during the war, and was made by the Fokker Co. of Amsterdam, Holland.

"This particular Fokker which is of cabin design has a wing spread of 76 feet and is propelled by a 400 H. P. Liberty motor. The gross weight of the plane is 10,800 lbs.

DANGERS OF A COLD

Roseburg People Will Do Well to Heed Them.

Many bad cases of kidney trouble result from a cold or chill. Congested kidneys fall behind in filtering the poison-laden blood and backache, headache, dizziness and disordered kidney action follow. Don't neglect a cold. Use Dean's Kidney Pills at the first sign of kidney trouble. Follow this Roseburg resident's example:

Mrs. Laura Kimball, 222 S. Flint St., says: "My kidneys were always weak and if I took cold it always settled in my back, and I suffered dreadfully. I couldn't hold out to sweep the floor and the action of my kidneys was irregular. Dean's Kidney Pills always relieved these attacks, straightening my back and kidneys and benefiting me in every way."

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Dean's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Kimball had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

CHINESE LUG INDUSTRY SUFFERING HEAVY LOSSES

TIENTSIN, June 6.—(A. P.)—The unprecedented boom in the rubber-making industry in China, which followed interruption of the Turkish and Persian trade during the war, has suffered a severe check.

Out of 500 factories which were built in Tientsin during the first years of the war, developing a daily output of more than 10,000 square inches, fewer than 300 have survived a renewal of competition. During the heyday of the industry prices soared from $1.60 and $1.80 per square foot to $3.00 and $4.00. About one-fourth of the output was consumed domestically and of the rest America took the bulk.

The slump is attributed largely to inferiority of the product under the enormously increased demand, due to inferior wool, unskilled dyeing and inexperienced workmanship.

Dead!

"Dead" oil is damaging thousands of cars every day. Maybe it's damaging yours. You think not, of course. You wouldn't have it if you knew. But most oils do become dead before you know it.

SUNOCO

THE DISTILLED OIL

is different. It isn't compounded of light oil and "cylinder stock." It's such oils that quickly break down and go dead.

Sunoco has a longer lubricating life. It's the only oil of six types, each of which is wholly distilled. It's pure lubrication. It lasts longer and makes your car last longer.

Ask your dealer or write us for booklet, "What's Happening Inside Your Motor?"
