land" the Dundee Growers "Red Hills" brand, and the Hills have the "Hatte Falls" and the Eugene growers have established labels. It seemed to be the prevailing sentiment of those present that a central sales organization should be built from the labels or brands of the existing selling organizations do so with bound hands becomes the species which to advocate it with it to be. The Oregon Growers have already offered to turn over "Hatte Falls" brand and their participation with no obligation of course to preserve its which has cost them thousands to establish. The organization expressed a like to turn over to the organization, if formed, its advertising matter of value the discussion drifted into as to whether it would be to advertise a number of trademarks or to select an designation on the the identity of the the brand for all the prunes local units, as you please them, would not be lost and of these organizations retained. This seemed to be a matter of detail and not of vital importance. Mr. and others who have had experience with trading with the selling of Oregon strongly emphasized the importance of one standard label Oregon or Northwest prune local designation on the result of this meeting, a was appointed to consist of each organization former members from the growers together with Mr. d, formerly county agent to meet at Salem next morning at ten o'clock to be expressed at this meeting and place before the organizations and the growers a plan for the formation of a central organization, which subject to ratification of the growers of any given
