LETTUCE TO BE IMPORTANT CROP

Dillard Grower Says Future of Industry in County
Is Very Bright

CAN INCREASE PROFITS

Climatic Conditions in Umpqua Valley Very Favorable to Crop—Returns on Lettuce Will Be Large

Commercial truck gardeners of Douglas County are neglecting an opportunity to substantially increase their profits by failure to produce greater quantities of lettuce, in the opinion of F. Schmidt, of Dillard, who was in Roseburg yesterday.

"Other sections of the Pacific northwest have built up the lettuce industry on a highly profitable scale, but so far Douglas county has failed to follow their example," said Mr. Schmidt. "In the Puyallup valley of Washington, alone the value of this year's lettuce crop ran into seven figures. In other localities the results were proportionally as flattering."

Mr. Schmidt, who is a professional gardener with many years experience with local conditions, pronounces Douglas County's soil and climate ideal for the propagation of lettuce. Growers have been too moderate in their production, however, owing either to improper methods or failure to visualize the practically unlimited marketing possibilities.

It will be constructed of wood covered with stucco and will be patterned after a famous open air theatre in Switzerland. It will be built in the form of a stage with a large canopy and will have footlights and wall lights. The structure is being built by Contractor L. W. Metzger who is donating his profit in addition to a donation of cash.
