"A PURITAN WIFE"
By Jane Phelps

CHAPTER LVII
Grace and Dick were sitting on the gallery of the hotel when the others arrived. Grace looked annoyed, Dick a bit sullen.

"She's tried to make him do something and he has refused," Ann said to herself as she and Besse joined them.

"I see you not here safely," she said.

"Of course we did!" Grace wanted to go on, play a joke on you by giving you the slip," Dick said as Ned appeared, "but I told her we'd wait and see what the rest of you wanted to do."

Grace's look of annoyance, Dick's sullenness because she urged him, were explained.

"That's right, Dick!" Besse broke in. "A party's a party, not a two-some. And this is a party today. Come on, Grace, let Dick and Ned cool their heels here while we go shopping. Ann and I want to get a few things."

Grace started to reply, then slowly joined Ann and Besse without speaking. To have refused would have been too patently because of Dick, and she was trying to be tactful. At least as much so as it was her nature to be. But her unwillingness to go with them was obvious and she hurried them in the shopping, saying she hadn't won a bet to give them a chance to shop.

They had luncheon at the hotel. Grace insisted upon ordering because of her waver. She really was adept at choosing a well-balanced meal, far more so, owing to her city training, than either of the ranchmen or their wives. She recovered her good nature when Dick complimented her and he laughed heartily when Ned told him to wait until he saw the check.

"Spend all you want to, Grace," he told her. "We don't agree it often."

Ann wheedled, but made no remark, although her economical soul had ruffled as she followed the order. Such a luncheon for five people—it would be more than her household expenses were for a week.

Dick and Ned had disappeared for a few moments while waiting for the luncheon to be served, and when they returned Ann saw Dick had had a drink. Grace, too, noticed and said:

"Stingy! I thought this was my party! Why didn't you ask me to have one too?"

"Want one?" Dick asked.

"You bet I do! I like an appetizer as well as you do," she roared and followed Dick from the room.

Ann had opened her mouth to object, then closed it tightly. Ned chuckled after them:

ing his own God, and advocates re-writing the Bible. In the evening of the same day a globe-trotting young Britisher went entirely out of his way to defend the Russian Soviet and dispute some statements recently made at Wilbur by Congressman Hawley. He served us what he himself called a very "striking" lecture, but the only striking thing about it was the assurance with which a very young man, with limited powers of reasoning, undertook to settle the great problems of philosophy, government and religion. Pretending to accept the Bible, he said that man wandered for a million years as a savage but the Bible says he was created in the image of God. The lecture was made up of some historical facts, a lot of vanity, and a miscellaneous lot of scraps of history as written by H. G. Wells, and a few chips from the evolutionary workshop, with nothing to refresh their minds as to the teachings of certain evolutionists should read Mr. Bryan's book "In His Image" which can be found in our public library.

The speaker said Christianity should be put back into the churches, but his idea of Christianity is shown by his statement that Christ was "the product of a Hebrew renaissance." The Bible says He came miraculously into the world as God manifest in the flesh.

Those who sign guarantees for Chautauqua programs are usually not evolutionists or socialists. They should look well to the character of those programs.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

LECTURE IS OPPOSED
Editor News-Review:
A few words about Chautauqua, which was founded and developed by Christian people, believers of the Bible and in Jesus Christ as the divine Son of God. At the Roseburg Chautauqua this week, a woman lecturer urged people to read the writings of the socialist H. G. Wells. Wells boldly talks about man mak-

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pain, You or Bladder.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day; also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaker; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have stomache twinges. The urine grows cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and push off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then get well. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with bicarbonate, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system as they no longer bring, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lime-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys every year.

BROWN NOT SEEKING GOVERNOR'S JOB

SALEM, June 20.—If the Ku Klux Klan carries out its alleged plan to invoke the recall against Governor Pierce it will have to look elsewhere than to George M. Brown associate Justice of the Oregon supreme court, for its recall candidate.

"I have absolutely no information on the subject other than what I have seen in the press, but I positively am not a candidate for gubernatorial honors," Justice Brown declared this morning when approached for an expression of his attitude toward the reported move to run him as a candidate for governor against Pierce in a recall election.

"I have reached the pinnacle of my political ambitions in my position as a member of the supreme court. I would rather be a supreme justice than governor."

"Furthermore the oath of office to which a member of this court subscribes when taking office provides that he shall not be a candidate except for a judicial office during his term as a member of the court."

"I have not been approached by any one relative to becoming a candidate for governor but if I should be so should be compelled to decline the honor."

TWENTY-EIGHT HAVE ESCAPED FROM PEN

SALEM, June 20.—Twenty-eight men have escaped from the state penitentiary since the present administration took over the reins of office there, not including the effort to escape made by Ellsworth Kelly, George Holtselaw and George Jackson when they sawed their way from their cells early in March, but were intercepted before making good their break.

Twelve of the men who have escaped during this time have been captured and returned to the prison. In addition three men have been returned to the prison who escaped during former administrations. These are Leo Werter, D. Truax and Jasper Griffith.

The 12 men who have been recaptured who escaped under the present administration are George Kemp, William Brinkley, "Kid" Williams, John Pike, Elvin Nelson, Ed Brownlee, Ed Jones, J. W. Cramer, mouth Storms, George Joe Lee, Andrew Carpenter and Habert.

Miss Mary M. MacKay of Salem will arrive in this city Thursday a visit for the remainder of the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. MacKay and family.
