ROSEBURG, OREGON, FRIDAY, JULY 6, 1923.

THE RIGHT ATTITUDE TOWARD FAILURE

Many people go through life without making any real failure at anything, yet they have never accomplished much. They may have succeeded at every job they undertook, yet they tried such easy things that they were practically sure to succeed each time. They are like a ball team that wins every game as the result of playing only with teams much below its abilities. The person with a correct mental attitude will expect to make a good many failures. He will be like the ball team that prefers to play most of its games with teams of much superior ability. Much of the time such a team will be beaten, yet it will learn a lot each time as the result of competing with worthy antagonists. When it gets through such a season it will have really achieved a big success, since as the result of its own experience it has become superior to teams of its previous rank. So it is in life with certain people who are ambitious and who are willing to accept a certain amount of failure as essential to progress. They are always trying things too big for them and therefore often fail to grasp the prizes they seek. But as the result of this contact with big minds and large problems, they win more power with each failure. They gradually learn something from each fall, acquire constantly more skill and become able to handle important interests. Thus success finally comes through failure. The person who fails to get the results he desires out of a certain experience, may become discouraged and resolve that henceforth he will try smaller propositions and keep strictly within his limits. Or he can analyze what the reasons were for his failure, and fortify himself to meet such a situation another time and triumph over it. Life's larger triumphs come principally as the result of this mental attitude, which might be considered the heart of the psychology of success.

Dear Folks:

The man who hears tempting call, and calmly turns his back to put his longing that is born upon a torture rack, deserves the praise of multitudes. And may it come his way. May those who mock and jeer at him perceive another day when he shall stand with head erect, upon two able feet, the while he hears the world exclaim his warning of defeat.

PRUNE PICKIN'S

BY BERT G. BATES

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—
We steamed in a Shelby
Beanery this morning and
Ordered up our usual
Java and sinkers
And the rubber-haired
Cowgirl who skidded
The order in front of
Our parking place asks us
"Do you know why that Doughnut resembles Shelby?"
And after scratching our
Think tank a while
We had to give up
And she said:
"Well, after you go through
It you'll find
You're in the hole."

All things come to those who wait—or order hash.

PREPAREDNESS

A chap was making a call on his particular fiancee of the moment. The younger brother strolled into the parlor while he was waiting so he inquired, "Do you know Jack, whether Marjory is expecting me or not?"

"I guess she must be. She's up stairs taking the pins out of her belt."

"Aw, I can drive better drunk than sober!"

"No, it's not loaded, I just cleaned it last night."

"Don't be afraid, it's good stuff!"

"Step on it! You can cross before the train comes!"

HOME TALENT OPERA HAS BEEN POSTPONED

"The Mikado," the Gilbert & Sullivan opera, that was to have been staged this month at the Antlers theatre under the auspices of the K. of P. lodge, has been postponed at the request of the committee for the Knights until the week of September 24-28.

As ambitious an undertaking as the staging of "The Mikado" requires the best musical talent of the city, and a large singing chorus. Many of the singers of the city could not be secured at this time of the year because of absence from the city and press of business, and for these reasons the committee in charge requested Director Wilson to place the dates of the show at a time of the year when the vacation period would be over. Mr. Wilson left today with his truck, scenery and costumes for points in the Willamette valley where he has contracts, and will return here about the first of September to begin rehearsals anew.

DIST. SECRETARIES MEET IN ROSEBURG

Plans are being made for a meeting of the secretaries of the Chambers of Commerce of southern Oregon for the discussion of the problems of the organization for this section of the state. The meeting will be held at the local Chamber of Commerce offices on July 9. The district to be represented includes all the surrounding towns in the southern district. Klamath Falls, Eugene, Cottage Grove, Corvallis, Marshfield, Bandon, Coquille, and all the other cities which have a commercial organization will send delegates for the conference. Definite plans have not yet been given the local office, but it is thought that the meeting will include a thorough discussion of the commercial problems of this district. The vice-president of the State Chamber of Commerce will be in charge of the meeting.

FIFTEEN LYNCHINGS DURING SIX MONTHS

According to the records compiled by the Tuskegee Institute in the department of records and research, Monroe N. Work in charge, in the first six months of 1922 there were 15 lynchings. This is 13 less than the number 28 for the first six months of 1922 and 21 less than the number 36 for the first six months of 1921.

Of those lynched, two were whites and thirteen were negroes. One of the latter was a woman. One of those put to death was charged with the crime of rape. The other offenses charged were: Murder, 2; [illegible] the law, 2; wounding officer of the law, 2; no charge [illegible] man charged [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The states in which lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Arkansas, 1; Florida, [illegible]; Georgia, [illegible]; Louisiana, 1; Mississippi, 3; Missouri, 1; and Texas, 1.

SPECULATE ON UPPER ETHER

And That Is About All Modern Scientists Have So Far Been Able to Accomplish.

A meteorologist may be a learned man who studies out a certain per cent of the causes of sudden changes in the weather and wonders about the other per cent.

The scientific theory is to proceed from particulars to generals, and we haven't yet enough facilities for collecting the particulars.

It is reasonably easy to find out what is going on in the atmosphere at the earth's surface a thousand miles away, but what is going on in the atmosphere ten miles up? There's the rub.

There are no signal stations up there and we haven't yet utilized the airplane to "radio" to the weather bureau the performances of the air currents and other phenomenal developments of the upper ether.

We don't suppose that all the weather comes from Medicine Hat or the arid Southwest. A lot of it, we suspect, comes right down perpendicularly. Why shouldn't it? If hot air rises, cold air descends. Well, then, there is a whole universe of that frigid atmosphere less than five miles away, with no strings tied to it.

We think, some day, we shall have an apparatus for piping or drawing it down in any quantity desired in midsummer and saving ice thereby; but all we seem to know about it now is that it's there.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

BRIDAL LORE OF INTEREST

Each Month Seems to Furnish Some Characteristic Concerning Mrs. Newlywed.

Bachelors who anticipate joining the ranks of the mated may perhaps find the following superstitious bridal lore of interest: A January bride will be a prudent housekeeper and good tempered. A February bride will be an affectionate wife and a tender mother. A March bride will be a frivolous chatterbox, given to quarreling. An April bride will be inconstant, not intelligent, fairly good looking. A May bride will be handsome, amiable, of a happy disposition. A June bride will be impetuous and generous. A July bride will be pretty and smart, but somewhat quick tempered. An August bride will be both amiable and practical. A September bride will be discreet and much liked. An October bride will be pretty, coquettish, loving, but jealous. A November bride will be liberal, kind, but wild of disposition. A December bride will be good looking, fond of novelty, entertainment, but extravagant.

Ingenious Coal Transportation.

An eastern coal company, in opening up three new mines, situated close together, was confronted with the problem of transporting the output to a river, four and one-fourth miles away, with steep and rugged hills intervening. A railroad around the hills or through them appeared to be too expensive in first cost and in operation, so it was decided to bore a small tunnel through the hills and convey the coal on a series of belts. The distance of four and one-fourth miles, in which there is rise of 300 feet, will be made with 20 conveyers in series, each delivering the coal to the one ahead. At the leading end, the belt will be five feet wide for receiving the coal direct from the mine cars as they are hoisted up the shaft, and will carry the coal 1,500 feet to the next conveyor, which will be four feet wide. The unloading belt at the river will be four feet wide, and will deliver to four or six other belts, which discharge the coal through chutes into barges.

Strange Experience.

One day when I hitched our huge dog to my sled a hunter fired his gun in a neighboring cornfield. The dog was frightened by the report of the gun and started off at an incredible speed. It was too late for me to get off, and I was seated on the sled as it careened dangerously around corners and threatened to upset. I shouted, but he only increased his speed. The sled neared an old wagon at an alarming pace, and the dog jumped over the shafts. My heart was in my throat when the sled met the shafts with a sickening crash! I was conscious of a delightful feeling and came to on top of a soft straw pile on which I had landed.—Chicago Journal.

Could Make What He Needed.

A recent writer on John Burroughs claims that his chief pride was not in his writing, but in the fact that he could make almost everything he needed with his own hands. From Edwin Wildman's sketch of Burroughs in his book "Famous Leaders of Character," we learn that the great naturalist could fashion ax handles, candles, toys, inkwells, slate pencils, even front lines, and that when he set to building his own study at Riverby he was able to make not only the shingles, window frames and nails, but even the furniture.

Her Version of Thunder.

Rose's mother had been weeks at the spring house cleaning. Papering had been done, woodwork varnished, etc. Carpets and rugs had been off the floor for some time and the noise of furniture being pushed over bare floors had become familiar.

When the first thunder was heard Rose said: "Mother, God is cleaning house. I hear him rolling the table over the floor."

GRAND JURY WILL HOLD BUSY SESSION

A busy session of the grand jury will start Tuesday, July 10th, when the state will take up all cases bound over for trial. No time will be given for cases which have not been bound over, as the session will be filled with cases already on hand.

The first case on the docket for the grand jury's disposition is the case of Clyde Weekly, alias Clyde Larsen, who is charged with robbery of the Glendale bank, and who was bound over until the coming session. If a true bill is returned by the jury the case will go directly to the circuit court.

Three cases of statutory rape have been docketed. One case is against George Grant, a second against Hillis Short and a third against Fred Bellows. All these cases are held over and will be considered in the next session.

Circuit court meets on Thursday, the 12th, and has a long docket to dispose of. One criminal case of the State vs. Hills on the charge of statutory rape, which was continued from the last circuit court session, will be concluded. Many minor cases and complaints will be tried during the term.
