WARREN G. HARDING

The entire nation today mourns the death of our late president, Warren G. Harding, who unexpectedly expired last evening at San Francisco. And the suddenness of his death was a severe shock to his millions of admirers throughout the entire world. Little did the people of this valley realize when the announcement was made at the local depot a few days ago that the president's illness would prevent him from making a personal appearance here that his condition would lead to his ultimate death. We could not believe him otherwise than only slightly indisposed and exclamations of regret were heard from hundreds of people who had gathered to see and hear him talk, if only for a moment's time.

Thus the uncertainty of life is vividly portrayed. We are here today, but tomorrow gone forever. There is no distinction between the most humble citizen and the world's greatest and most distinguished personage. The Grim Reaper takes his toll from all walks of life—strikes his prey without a moment's warning. Loved ones are torn and spirited away from the keeping of those who love them dearest. No power is strong enough to tide the coming of death. Not always giving warning of its presence, lurks about and spirits away its victims from the loving care and tender mercies of those who cherish them most.

The death of our late president is brought nearer to the hearts of the people of the west owing to his recent visit to the Pacific coast. We had a closer love for him. We felt that his presence among us had had a wholesome effect and a greater reverence toward the chief executive of the nation by the people of the great western country was noticeably evident. His unexpected death coming at a time when reports made it known that his health was apparently much improved was a severe blow to the entire nation and every hamlet today mourns in deepest sorrow for the loss of this great and most respected of all men of the present day.

From a lowly printer to president of the United States, Warren G. Harding had a career of unmistakable achievements and many accomplishments. Ushered into office at a period following the World War his has been a career wherein the truest and most patriotic principles of American citizenship was called upon to bind the wounds of all nations wrought by the world's greatest conflict. He measured up to all tasks that confronted him. He was kind, loving and thoughtful of all persons in his daily life, plain in his demeanor, a real man in every sense of the word and of that plain, commonplace type that endeared him to all people. The nation has lost one of its best and most able presidents.

Dear Folks:

The captain of a sturdy ship that sails across the seas, can dock his boat a thousand times and do his best to please the folks who pay him for his work, a work of brain and skill. But little will be said about his cleverness until he runs his ship upon the rocks and then the panning starts. The grief he gets is deep enough to break a dozen hearts.

The man who sits upon a stool and keeps a set of books will often show the strain of work in worn and haggard looks. But little praise will come his way when things are straight and right, but let his books get tangled up and how he has to fight to shield himself from those who say his brains are weak and few! And so it goes right down the line in sports and business too.

When things go wrong it's easy stuff to pan and knock and scold, to taunt the one who made the slip until his heart is cold. But where's the gain that anger brings? Why not reverse the trick and now and then speak friendly words when things are going slick?

The slips will then less frequent be, and scattered all around, a heap more fun in living and in working will be found.

PRUNE PICKIN'S

BY BERT G. BATES

GOOD EVENING FOLKS
The nation's head is
Today bowed in sorrow
Over the loss of our Great leader
And great writers are
Bestowing words of Praise in tribute
To the death stricken
Executive and as
We do not feel
That levity should be
Indulged in at this
Time and not feeling
Capable of penning
A worthy eulogy to so
Great a character
We can only say as
We close our column
He was a man
And in those few words
Is embodied all that
Is good and true.

S. P. PICNIC AT ALBANY SATURDAY

A large number of local S. P. employees are planning on attending the annual frolic and basket picnic which will be held at Bryant park at Albany tomorrow. A good program, including sports of all sorts, dancing and bathing is being arranged and considerable rivalry is already aroused between various departments and districts. The athletic program includes a baseball game between a representative Southern Pacific team and the Albany city team, a tug-of-war, races and field sports of every description, valuable prizes for which are to be provided from money obtained through the sale of fifty-cent admission tickets to be sold to gentlemen only, ladies being given complimentary tickets.

For those who wish to dance, a specially constructed dancing pavilion is under construction, placed underneath the big shady park with a delightfully cool breeze from over the water.

Slides, springboards and plunges have been provided for the swimming fans, and one of the features of the day will be a bathing girl's parade.

Assistant Passenger Traffic Manager John M. Scott is issuing a tariff authorizing a round trip fare of $4.75 from Roseburg to Albany and return, the sale date being August 4 with a final return limit of August 5, to permit the public to attend the picnic.

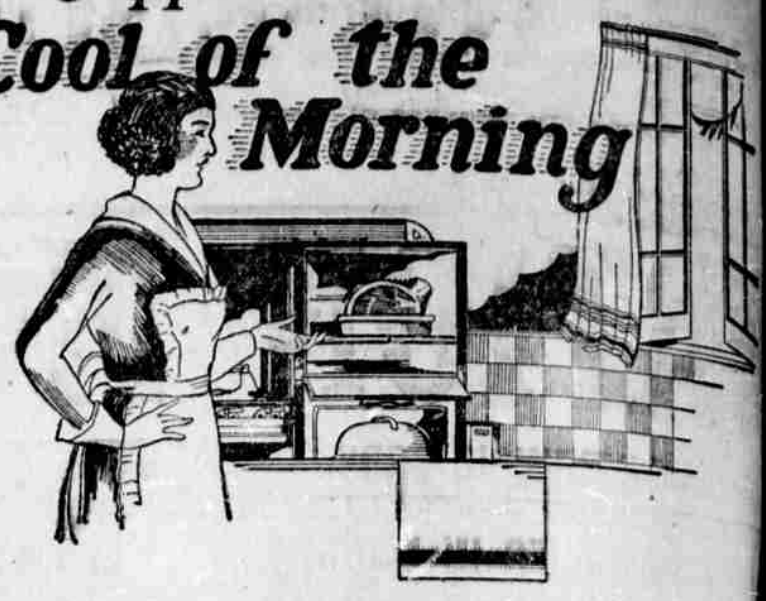
He said he would ask all churches to observe the day with special memorial services.

This is a Studebaker year.

Get Supper in the Cool of the Morning



Frye's Delicious Ham
"Everything the name implies"

Bake the butt of a FRYE'S DELICIOUS HAM, then it will be ready to slice cold for supper.

FRYE'S DELICIOUS HAM is ideal for baking. It's just choice, tender, grain-fed pork, cured and smoked in hard-wood smoke by the exclusive FRYE PROCESS to preserve the juices and delicate texture and develop the richest flavor. No par-boiling of FRYE'S DELICIOUS HAM is necessary—the meat is so mild and tender.

For perfect baked ham score the skin half way through the fat, season with ground cinnamon, cloves and mustard, sprinkle with brown sugar and bake like a pork roast in a covered roaster with just enough hot water to make steam, allow fifteen minutes to the pound. A clove of garlic inserted next to the bone will add flavor.

You will find FRYE'S DELICIOUS BACON of the same quality as FRYE'S DELICIOUS HAM. The best part of the bacon side is used to produce it.
