WHO CAUSES THE WARS.

Different people have different theories as to what element in the world causes the wars.

The socialists claim the capitalists cause wars, by grabbing for concessions and trade advantages. But this theory fails to see how terribly capitalists suffer from such conflicts.

Some people feel that military men cause wars. Maj. Gen. Brewster of the United States army declared in a recent address that this is not true, but that the public is really back of all wars.

Probably the responsibility for wars should be divided up between the people and the politicians and diplomats. The politicians and diplomats do not want war, but they run risks of getting into it, in their effort to obtain national advantages.

If the people of all nations would select public officials who would be just as careful of the rights of other nations as they are of their own, the danger of war would disappear.

Formerly the problem used to be to prevent people from working seven days a week, but now the question is how to make them work more than five days.

Many people who lost money in get rich quick stocks are convinced that prosperity is very unevenly distributed.

The laity folks are strong believers in the idea that the rewards of life should be more equally distributed.

Dear Folks:

Pip Cragen led a useless life, a derelict was he. A man who tossed and drifted on the ever changing sea of circumstance that now and then, will give a mighty roar and cast its human wreckage on a barren lonely shore.

Upon this shore of loneliness another soul was tossed. Another piece of wreckage with all hope and courage lost. Buck Logan struck the rocks of life like some ill fated ship, so cast his lot for good or bad along with that of Pip.

Between the two there sprung a bond of friendship staunch and true. Devotion to each other came, and steadily it grew until it seemed a kin to love, and when they made a strike, the catch was always half and half, 'twas share and share alike. But once there came another day when Pip was not around. The Buck had hunted high and low, no trace of him was found 'til late at night the river's life had laid him on the sands. The soul of Pip had slipped away to other safer hands.

Buck Logan lived for thirty days and stood the pain and smart. Then went to join his Buddy Pip and took a broken heart. For loyalty and love like theirs knows neither class nor creed when once it starts to blossom out and grow up from a seed.

Cordially yours, T. V. R.

This here job of writing Humorous stuff is really serious. DUMBLELL DORA THINKS "This Freedom" was a book written by a flapper on the corsetless age.

Rent is what the poet had in mind when he wrote those immortal lines about Falling Dew—only he spelled it wrong. The word rent also means, in one sense, hole, which the average householder finds himself in about the time the other kind comes due.

Justice Gawge Jones sent a jane to the county bawdle the other day for her part in her hubby's bootlegging business, and Gawge says the wimmen folks oughter be canning peaches at this time of the year instead of putting up home brew.

The Portland Oregonian roasted the small city papers the other day for using shears to fill their editorial columns and we notice that the Oregonian's Monday edition carried the same editorial squibs that appeared Sunday in their sheet and we guess their paste pot had dried up over the week end.

More graphic than this the figures show that the value of goods made here was greater than the value placed by the census bureau on all the land in the combined states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Delaware, Wyoming and New Mexico, and would have purchased all the farm machinery used in those states, with New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio thrown in just to make good measure.

The figures were compiled after a thorough survey. The information came from thousands of industrial plants who replied to a carefully prepared questionnaire sent out by the Chamber of Commerce. The gathering of these facts required several months.

Another significant feature in the industrial advancement of Los Angeles is that the metropolitan district here alone scored a greater total of manufactured goods than did any of the 22 western states usually looked upon as manufacturing territory.

In 18 states the amount of capital invested in manufacturing enterprises is less than the capital invested here. Still the amount of capital invested and the total of goods produced in a single year is greater in Los Angeles than any one of these 18 states.

For an example: On a capital of $685,184,997 plants here in one year turned out products amounting to $959,806,503. Compared with some states, this is an enviable record. For, in some instances, such as South Carolina and a number of eastern centers, the margin between capital and manufactured goods runs less than $8,000,000.

In summing up the survey the report shows that the gain in 1922 production over 1920 amounted to $12,174,950, and the gain of 1922 over 1921 amounted to $15,887,862.

TODAY: Industry in Los Angeles Some Convincing Figures Compared to the East

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE, International News Service Staff Correspondent. LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8.—Industrial workers in Los Angeles last year earned more than the net earnings of all the banks in the United States. Such is the information in a report by the United States census bureau.

There are 7,762 national banks in the country and they rolled up an aggregate net earnings sum of $240,236,000, while Los Angeles wage earners drew $276,912,188.

Products turned out by the metropolitan district of Los Angeles last year totaled $959,806,503, is declared to be far ahead of the value of all the gold in circulation in the United States.

A few years ago Los Angeles, the city of "climate and tourists," was looked upon as unsuitable for manufacturing enterprises, but last year it turned out manufactured goods that exceeded in value the $685,184,997 credited as the operating income of all the railroads in the country in 1921, the report continues.

More graphic than this the figures show that the value of goods made here was greater than the value placed by the census bureau on all the land in the combined states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Delaware, Wyoming and New Mexico, and would have purchased all the farm machinery used in those states, with New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio thrown in just to make good measure.

Take Figs To Fair—C. O. Garrett of Glendale came to Roseburg yesterday bringing several branches of figs which were grown at the Ernest Pruner place at Riddle. Mr. Pruner has two fig trees which are thirty years old and produce very heavy each year. The figs are of large size and are of the quality and flavor and are very unusual. Their productivity, however, proves that they can be readily grown in this climate. The exhibits are being placed in storage and will be displayed at the state fair.

Bosser's Manager Here—Henry Krieger, manager for Nick Yeager, the well known Albina heavyweight, is visiting Clyde Ward in this city. Yesterday Mr. Krieger was taken to the favorite fishing spots on the North Umpqua where he succeeded in landing a fine catch of trout. Mr. Krieger is greatly enthused over the Umpqua country and says he is spending a most enjoyable vacation.
