SUMMER ADVERTISING.

There are some business firms that make it their practice to let up somewhat on their advertising in summer. Sometimes they may argue that a good many of their townspeople are away. But if that is the case, it is also usually true that a good many visitors are in the region at the time, and are carefully looking over the newspapers and making such purchases of things as they need. When people are away on vacations, they have considerable time which they can put in shopping, and often buy more than they do at home. Frequently they like to carry some articles home as a kind of souvenir of their trips. The firms that keep their advertising up through the summer must draw in a lot of transient trade of people who are visiting in the locality or who pass through it as tourists. A great many firms have goods in stock at this time that will be a source of expense if carried over to another season. Styles may change, money has to be borrowed to carry goods that do not sell rapidly. A great many enterprising firms find that they gain the best results by cleaning up their stock very largely as they go, and getting fresh goods on their shelves. They accomplish this result by advertising freely through the summer. It is a tremendous help to a firm if it can give the impression that it is pushing for trade every day and week in the year. The firm that advertises constantly gives that impression. It makes the public feel that it is alert all the time to pick up good goods at a bargain, and pass its good values on to the public. The department stores of the big cities know the game of merchandising, and it is noticeable that they keep up a great deal of advertising through the summer. If it pays for them, it will pay for the stores in Roseburg.

The American people are pretty self centered and often grasping, but they have open hearts and feel warm sympathy when sorrow and loss are called to their attention. They are manifesting very deep sympathy for the wife of the late president in her sad loneliness. Mrs. Harding is not the only one who feels the pang of sorrow on the day when she closes the white house door for the last time, and goes out from this white light of publicity to the quiet life she will henceforth live in her own home. Washington gossip has said that Mrs. Harding made herself an unusually popular president's wife. Notwithstanding the cares of her exalted position, she was always doing little acts of thoughtfulness. She passes out of the public eye to a considerable extent. But the country will never forget her. Whatever she undertakes or whatever befalls her, she will always be regarded as everybody's friend.

The accession of a new president is commonly a time when a lot of people begin to hustle for some government office. Probably a lot of them about now are wondering if they can not get some appointment out of President Coolidge. If so, they ought to realize that the present is a most inopportune time for office seeking. It is an extremely disturbing matter to have a change of administrations at any time. The present juncture is especially unfavorable on account of the big problems awaiting settlement. Office seekers will be extremely unwelcome at the present time. The president and his advisers should be permitted to give their entire attention to the problem of running the government, and they should not be harassed by the personal and political campaigns of factions and claimants.

As Mrs. Coolidge is reported to be a good cook no one should refuse an invitation to dinner at the white house for fear he will not get enough to eat.

After they get the baseball rules fixed up for another year, the people will be prepared to think about amending the constitution.

The women are seeking equality of the sexes in the courts while men demand it in the homes.

The people are making up their minds whom they want for president but the politicians will decide whom they will have.

Dear Father:

When you make a child a promise of a thing that you will do, he will take your word for granted and will put his faith in you. He'll believe you're going to do it, in his heart he knows it's so, and his patience never falters, tho your actions may be slow.

When you tell him that tomorrow you will bring him home a toy, you will see his face a shining with a healthy childish joy. He'll remember what you promised when the morrow comes along, and he'll wait for your returning thru a day that's roughly long. Tell him not, for he's a kiddie learning fast the ways of life, and a disappointment hurts him, cutting deep just like a knife. Now, the value of a promise in his mind is taking root, from the seeds that you are planting, later on you'll see the fruit.

Blame him not if he is fretful, if he whines and makes a fuss, when he finds a promise broken. He's not slow to discuss all the why's and whens and wherefores you may think will satisfy. All he knows is you have failed him. That for him is cause to cry.

If you promise him a spanking, do it right, be sure it's done. Try to show him by example how the race of life is run. Then the things, which now you're doing, are the things he's going to do.

THEM DAYS IS COME.

The melon-colic days are come
I ate too close to rin'
I hope they'll often mow the grass
Above where I recline.
You eat, and shoot the seeds about,
You drip from ear to ear;
But for me this festive time has proved
The saddest of the year.

HE WAS A LIAR.

Live grasshoppers will eat dead grasshoppers. A Missouri farmer mixed Paris Green and bran together and let a grasshopper eat it. He died. Twenty ate him up. They died. Four hundred ate those twenty and they died. Eight thousand ate those four hundred and they died. A hundred and sixty thousand ate those eight thousan and they died and the farmer was troubled no more. The man who did the counting is not dead but a champion liar.—From the Haskell Free Press of 20 years ago.

Bert Lawrence and Jack Shields herded the boys upon the bandstand last eve, tuned 'em up and they cut loose for a coupla hours with some reg'lar stuff, which was greatly appreciated by all. Free stuff always makes a hit with most of us and we remember that some of the same folks who tooted their klaxons at the court house square last eve were absent last winter when the band staged a coupla pay concerts at the theatre.

A feller who has been down in "sunny" Cal for the past few weeks hobnobbing with the native sons is back in our midst, stating that since crossing the Oregon line he has had a chance to let loose of his purse strings for five minutes at a time.

Charley McElhinny who has been deer hunting for the past few days has returned and is still eating deviled ham.

Ye ed. attended a picnic last eve and it grew dark while the lunch was being served and we hope we didn't partake of a caterpillar, thinking it was an overripe pickle.

The taste of the water is back to normal and now a feller kin take a bath without being called a "moss" back.

A lot of our prominent citizens flivvered to Eugene today to take their kids to the Barnum and Bailey circus and those who had no offsprings shot up some other excuse.

A local "citizen" walked into our sanctum the other day and leaned over the counter and with a breath that would knock you for a row of garbage cans whispered, "Put a leetle item in your paper that I gotta leetle money to loan" and when we informed the said gent that it was advertising and would set him back two bits, he flew into a rage and backed out. "Wonder what he thinks we butter our bread with?

The price of gas dropped a cent yesterday which allows us to drive our flivver a half block farther each day.

These janes who chase around with bandana hankies around their neck find the same durned handy when they wants blow their nose.

Those who purchased dress suits last winter are hoping they'll get a chance to wear 'em sometime this season.

Yes, you can bank on that, decided the teller as he accepted a ten spot.

THE WEATHER OPTIMIST

Look through the fog on cloudy days.
When e'er the days are cloudy
And you will be a friendly face
And hear a cheerful "Howdy."
Look pleasant at the falling rain,
When e'er we have spring showers
Look pleasant for each little drop
It calling forth spring flowers.
Look up to see the sunny sky
When e'er the skies are sunny,
And you will find a lot of joy,
You cannot buy for money.

LEAVING OUT THE BRIDE

(Mobile, Ala. Presbyterian News.)
Rev. James W. Marshall was married December 4 to Mrs. Marion L. Stallworth in Tioga. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George F. Johnson, Dr. Dunbar H. Ogden serving as best man. It was the first time Mr. Johnson performed a ceremony; it was the first time Dr. Ogden was best man.

OLSON TO DRILL SUTHERLIN WELLS

SUTHERLIN, Aug. 24.—D. E. and C. A. Olson of Eugene, who recently entered into an agreement with the directors of the Sutherlin Oil and Development company to take over the leases on approximately five thousand acres of land in Sutherlin valley and put down an oil well near Camp Two east of town, were in Sutherlin last Saturday and completed final details in the transfer of the contract held by Robert F. Campbell and the leases.

Under the contract Mr. Olson is to begin actual operation within six months; but he expects to be on the job here within thirty days. In his contract for the well near Eugene he was given a year in which to begin operations, but actual work was started within thirty days and the well is now down over seven hundred feet. To show his good intent in the matter of developing the Sutherlin field, Mr. Olson has put up a forfeit of $1000 as a guarantee that operations will be under way within six months.

Mr. Olson stated that his oil-detecting instruments worked to perfection on the land selected for a test well east of town, and he is confident that a good producing well will be brought in in that locality. Robert F. Campbell, well known geologist who was with Mr. Olson when the test was made with the instruments, states that while he has long been confident of the existence of oil in the vicinity of Camp Two, the test made by Mr. Olson convinced him more than ever that his diagnosis of the matter was correct.

Mr. Olson is expected here again within a few days, and it is expected that during his next visit he will let a contract for the erection of a derrick or call for bids for he work. There is much satisfaction here over the fact that the directors of the local company and Mr. Campbell have interested Mr. Olson in the enterprise.

SEATTLE MAY GET YEOMAN'S HOME

EUGENE, Aug. 23.—That the proposed national children's home of the Brotherhood of American Yoemen will probably be located near Seattle, at the Hollywood site which was inspected by the committee of national officials last May, is the opinion expressed by officers of the Eugene unit of the order following reports from the national headquarters.

A delegation of ten Seattle men interested in the project recently attended a session of the Yeomen officials at Des Moines, Iowa, and fortified with several reels of motion pictures and a mass of data concerning the advantages of the Seattle site, are said to have made quite an impression on the national officers of the order.

Although Washington, according to present indications, has the best chance in the contest for the prize, it is said that Oregon is still being considered, following the elimination of all sites proposed with the exception of five, the Eugene officers report.

Man Has Miraculous Escape

"I was told by our family physician that I could not live without an operation, as my liver and gall sack were in such a condition. I set the day to go to the hospital, but then I saw the advertisement of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Since taking it I am feeling like a two-year-old. I am sure I never could have survived an operation." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

Own Your Own Home

How long have you paid rent and what have you got to show for it? Nothing but a lot of receipts. If applied on the purchase price of a home, you could have paid for it. He that succeeds is the one that has the will to win. Any tramp can wish for a thing, but it takes real character to get it. Singing is Hab the Joy of Owning a Gulbranson

The songs you like best to hear, sung by some loved voice, to your own softly-accented, perfectly-timed accompaniment on a Gulbranson. There's genuine enjoyment for you!

Select your song rolls from the hundreds upon hundreds available, with the words already printed on them. The key they are pitched in doesn't matter. Too high? Too low? Just turn a knob. The Gulbranson instantly transposes.

An ordinary song roll may be played as a splendid and correct accompaniment number on the Gulbranson. The difficult phrasing is taken care of by the roll. Through the pedals you register your breath, your time, your expression, following exactly the interpretation given the song by the vocalist.
