ANNUAL MELON FEED TONIGHT

The youngsters of Roseburg are going without meals today in order to have plenty of available capacity for the free watermelon feed to be given by the Douglas County Concert Band tonight. The band this afternoon received a ton and a half of melons from the Dillard melon fields, and eight husky men have been secured with big, sharp knives and are ready to serve all of the youngsters of this city with big juicy slices of melon.

The feed will follow a band concert and program which will occur at the regular time at the bandstand at the court house yard. The band tonight will be under the direction of W. H. Bowden, a veteran musician and band director, who will have charge of the band during the absence of John Shields, who has been called to Salem in aid in the music for the state fair. In addition to the concert a chalk talk will be made by Bert G. Bates.

ROUND-UP OPENS AT PENDLETON TODAY

PENDLETON, Ore., Sept. 20.—The round-up, Pendleton's annual Wild West Classic opened today with a large crowd of visitors present to witness the deeds of skill and daring and scores of riders and others trained in the arts of the ranch. Among the spectators were many Shriners who came in a body from Portland. Four special prizes have been offered in addition to cash prizes. Winners of the world championship bucking contest, the northwest bucking contest and the steer roping contest will each be presented with a handsome saddle. The winner of the ladies' relay race also will get a saddle.

pany, has exhibited a perfect willingness to cooperate in this matter and has informed the local sportsmen that it is ready and willing to build any kind of a fish ladder believed best for the purpose. It is thought however, that the plans are too expensive and that a cheaper ladder can be built which will serve as well. The sportsmen do not desire to put the company to any unnecessary expense, and consequently the inspection today was made for the purpose of going over the ground, examining the various plans and determining the best course of action.

Mr. Price came to Roseburg for this purpose and will represent the commission. It is desired to get the ladder built before the fall rains bring high water so that next year's spring run of salmon can get to the headwaters of the stream.

Mr. Ness, representing the local water and power company, will have the company's engineer on the ground at once to draw plans of the proposed fish ladder, as suggested by the sportsmen and Mr. Price today, and it is hoped to get immediate action on the matter and the work under way at once.

Rev. J. B. Needham, former pastor of the local M. E. Church, South, today announced his temporary withdrawal from the ministry and will remain in Roseburg. He has purchased the Mill Street store from J. M. Bennett, its former owner and will go into business here for at least a year.

Mr. Needham has been a very faithful pastor for many years and during his residence in this city worked hard for the upbuilding of the local church. During his ministry the congregation here constructed a new place of worship and he feels that he has associations here which make it difficult for him to depart from Roseburg. He is so well pleased with this community and with its people that he does not desire to leave. He also feels in need of a rest, having served continuously for many years, and consequently is taking a change of occupation for at least a year. Mr. Needham was transferred to the Medford church, but has tendered his resignation and will not accept the place offered him.

The business which he has acquired is a growing one and has a good future. Under the able management of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett a fine trade has been built up by the store, which is located in the south part of town, and several additions have recently been made and the store enlarged. Mr. Needham because of his wide acquaintanceship will doubtless enjoy a fine trade. Mr. and Mrs. Bennett expect to remain in Roseburg but are not decided regarding their plans for the future.

international significance to the kidnapping affair, and of the danger of destroying the good feeling between America and Germany. It has suggested that both countries regard the two men in their true light, but added with expressions of astonishment that the Bergdoll affair was given more widespread attention in the American press than the fall of the Cuno government or the reparations question.

FISH LADDER PLANS ARE INSPECTED

Dick Price a member of the state fish and game commission and a large delegation of members of the Roseburg Rod and Gun club, together with a number of the prominent business men of the city, left shortly after one o'clock for Winchester to make an investigation of the fish ladder problem there. The present fish ladder is not adequate to allow the spring run of salmon to pass and thousands of fish die below the dam yearly or else fall prey to poachers. The state department drew up plans for a new ladder, but these plans are said to be too expensive and not altogether practical.
