

Picture It In Your Home

—this Wonderful Warm-Air Furnace that Looks Like a Phonograph

picture shows the installation of Estate Heatrola in a modern six-room home. There is one in your home. It gives you what a wonderful improvement over a heating stove. Note how beautifully it blends with other furnishings. It combines the efficiency of a furnace with the appearance of a phonograph.

Estate Heatrola is a furnace—not a stove. Placed in one of the living rooms, it heats 3 to 6 connecting rooms, in even the coldest weather.

Burns any kind of coal, and uses less coal than a stove.

Beautifully finished in grained mahogany—a vitreous enamel, practically everlasting. You can rub and dust it with a cloth, just as you do your furniture.

OIL DATA DISCUSSED
SALEM, Sept. 29.—Data on the prospects for obtaining oil in paying quantities in Oregon, with particular reference to Lane county, were points in an address by Dr. Warren D. Smith head of the department of geology at the University of Oregon, before the members of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists at Los Angeles. Dr. Smith in company with Dr. Edwin T. Hodges, of the U. of O. geology department, has returned from the session, which was attended by over 400 members of the association from various parts of the United States.

“The California geologists who are familiar with the oil fields of that state were considerably amused at the methods employed in testing for oil in Lane county,” Dr. Smith reports. The use of the “witch stick” in attempting to locate the site of a well, and other mystical means of developing a paying field are no longer used in California.

The same has been played out and the instruments are being done in other fields where faith in them has not yet been shattered. It is the opinion expressed by the California oil men.

The delegates to the Los Angeles convention made inspection trips to Long Beach and Signal Hill, according to Dr. Smith.

A. F. L. ANNUAL CONVENTION TO BEGIN MONDAY

600 to 700 Delegates Will Be Welcomed by Officials to Oregon Conclave

Steel Industry Probably Will Be One of the Chief Issues Before Labor Leaders of United States

By JAMES S. SHEEHY, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 29.—Between 600 and 700 delegates are expected here when the forty-third annual convention of the American Federation of Labor convenes Monday to continue in session for two weeks. Plans for the convention have been worked out by President Samuel Gompers and the executive council in Washington and details incident to the actual conduct of the sessions are in the hands of a local committee which has been busy for several months.

Formal opening will take place Monday, October 1, in the municipal auditorium. Gov. Pierce, of Oregon, and Mayor Baker, of Portland, will welcome the delegates on behalf of the state and city, and Otto R. Hartwig, president of the State Federation of Labor, will speak for that organization. President Gompers will give the response for the American Federation.

Foreign Delegates.
Delegates representing national and international organizations, state federations, central labor councils and local unions will be present. Representatives from Canada, England, Australia, France, Italy, Cuba and Pan-American countries are expected. From Oregon, Washington, California and other states of the far west will come large delegations.

Although the exact nature of recommendations recently made by the executive council is not known it is understood they favor continued vigorous efforts at unification of the steel industry.

Labor leaders declare actual conditions in establishing the eight-hour day in the steel industry are at variance with the announcements of the United States Steel Corporation, the spokesman for the industry.

The old battle between the radical element and the conservatives led by President Gompers is expected to be resumed. So far as known no special radical projects will be advanced, though efforts to obtain adoption of a resolution favoring recognition of Russia undoubtedly will be made. The conservative leaders will resist it to the last.

View Radical Moves.
Radical activities of the Seattle Central Labor Council in its representation at the Moscow International and its support of the Soviet Government in Russia are scheduled to be considered at a special meeting of the executive council of the American Federation prior to the opening of the convention. Conjecture is rife among labor leaders in the northwest as to what action the executive council will take.

In the convention call sent out by President Gompers the following points were among those stressed: To restore and make effective in our daily lives the principle declared in the law of our republic (Clayton law): “That the labor of a human being is not a commodity or article of commerce.” To protect women and children in industries.

To oppose the use of force in the settling of industrial disputes.

Leaders in the labor movement seem in accord on the matter of the reelection of President Gompers. There is no suggestion at present that there will be any opposition to re-electing him.

The usual open forum will prevail in the sessions and there will be no set programme. State federations of labor, central labor councils and local federations not affiliated with either national or international organizations are each entitled to one vote in the convention. National and international unions are entitled to votes depending on numerical strength.

Gotta move on—and after Monday patrons will find Howard's Shoe Shop at 213 N. Jackson—also entrance 213 N. Main.

OLD CORPORATION PAPERS FOUND

In looking through some old papers at his home, S. D. Evans discovered some old corporation papers, filed in 1865, by a company organized to build a road from Sutherlin, across the Cascade Mountains, to connect with the old Fremont Trail, which is now known as The Dalles-California Highway. The document was signed by James C. Hutchinson, Washington, H. Crouch, S. D. Williams, and Thomas Banks. The company was known as “The Umpqua and Boise Road Company” and was incorporated under the laws of Oregon, for the purpose of building a clay and rock road from Sutherlin, by way of Diamond Peak to connect with the Fremont trail. The principal office of the company was to be located at Oakland. The papers were prepared April 3, 1865, and were filed on April 4, with S. L. Williams, county clerk of Douglas county.

The papers show that even at that early date the residents of the county recognized the need of a road up the North Umpqua river, to connect with eastern Oregon. Since that time the project has been much in the minds of the residents of the county, but little has been accomplished.

The road was of importance in that early day, even though the development of the state had scarcely commenced, but today it is a much more vital issue and the dream of those early builders should be put into effect. Their corporation with its capital stock of $20,000 apparently found the task before it too great to be undertaken and did nothing towards the construction of the road, but at the present time the road is entirely possible, and with sufficient interest on the part of the residents of Douglas county the project can be brought to completion without a great loss of time.

There is a movement on foot to retain the old name of the eastern Oregon road, which is now called The Dalles-California highway. The old name of The Fremont Trail, is held to be more appropriate and desirable.

POLICE ARREST WRONG MAN—TOURIST PROVES OFFICERS MISTAKEN

Spectators were treated to a lively sight near the depot this afternoon, when a local officer attempted to arrest a tourist for violation of the traffic ordinance.

According to eye witnesses, the tourist, who was driving a popular make of car, stopped at the repair shop of L. G. Devaney to determine the cause of his lack of power. After a short diagnosis, Mr. Devaney located the trouble and convinced the tourist that all his motor needed was a Bosch Ignition System and a Zenith Carburetor.

After the installation was accomplished, the tourist started up the street and owing to the fact that his car had so much more pep and power, he nearly lost control of it. A crowd soon gathered to watch the fun, but the tourist readily adjusted his driving to his increase of power and started toward the south.

Of course this is a paid advertisement, but nevertheless, a Bosch Ignition System and a Zenith Carburetor will work wonders with your car too. Try it and be convinced.

This is a Studebaker year.

ARTISTS OF EUROPE FLOCK TO NEW YORK TO GATHER IN GOLD

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The curtain of the winter season of 1923 draws apart and reveals New York as the stage of the world's most interesting dramatic achievements.

The program shows that America, once a disdained provincialism from which “high brow” of New York's Madison avenue, Boston's Back Bay and Philadelphia's Rittenhouse square fled for the cultural liberties of London and Paris, has become a cosmopolitan American city into which the artists of the old world hasten to pour their wares.

France, Italy, Russia, England, Sweden, Holland, Spain, Germany, Austria and the Orient will surrender their best entertainers to grace the boards of American stages. Grandchildren of the elite who yawned politely at Tony Pastor's, Niblo's, and Daly's of Henry James' New York will mingle in theater lobbies with the grandchildren of Parisians and Londoners who thought painfully of America as a land of commercial travelers, cowboys and uncouth manners.

But Broadway will be Main Street as well as Piccadilly Circus and the Boulevard de Bonne Nouvelle. The hundreds of thousands of visitors from the middle-west and the sunny shores of the Pacific will enjoy scores of “great American” plays and songs and books and, above all, will grate to the strain of the music which has made the entire world shake its shoulders—Jazz.

Theatergoers will see the Teatro dei Piccoli, Rome's marionette theater; the Grand Guignol, which has sent chills down the back of several generations of Paris playgoers; the Chauve Souris, the “bat” cabaret which delighted Moscow intelligentsia in the days when Russia ate caviar; the Moscow Art theater; the Swedish Ballet with futuristic music and cubistic stage settings; and the works of the late William Shakespeare, already well known in various European capitals.

Musical comedies and revues with the most daring features of the Casino de Paris and the Folies Bergeres will furnish a trans-Atlantic variety of happenings while those who regret the passing of the “Merry Widow” and the moonlight type of music will bask in the dulcet scores of operettas from Vienna and Munich.

Germany and Italy will provide repertory opera companies to compete with the Metropolitan; music lovers will hear huge symphony orchestras conducted by men who until recently held batons in Amsterdam, Paris, Petrograd and Berlin, and by others who watched the clouds on the banks of the Mississippi.

Latin Americans, who by the thousands have made Times square their mecca, will watch Spain's best dancer and her best variety artists. Several all-negro musical shows are planned. The royal dancers of far-away Cuba will be here, and, perhaps across the street from them, wild west riders from the shadow of the Rockies.

ORGEON GROWERS MEETING
SALEM, Sept. 29.—Behind closed doors the board of directors of the Oregon Growers Cooperative association today received the report of its special committee on reorganization plans and is working out the detailed plan for reorganization that will be submitted to the grower members throughout the state for their approval or rejection by ballot.

No announcement of new proposals is to be made until the directors have satisfied themselves that they have been able to work out a plan answering the demands of the growers and until the final draft of that plan has been completed. Today the directors are devoting their entire time to study and discussion of the proposal recommended by the reorganization committee, and when the discussion has been completed will resubmit the plan to the reorganization committee, which will prepare the detailed draft and send it back to the directors for their approval.

Working Out Plan.
Today the plan, which in a general way provides for the dissolution of the present dual organization handling both packing and marketing activities and substitution of a central association to handle selling alone with local associations doing all of the packing is being analyzed to determine whether or not it will remedy the defects of the present organization and fully answer the criticisms now directed at the association.

URGE PIERCE TO RUN
SALEM, Sept. 29.—Several groups have waited upon Governor Pierce this week urging him to become a candidate for the democratic nomination for United States senator next year, and the prediction here is that the governor will be a candidate. It is said a number of republicans have requested the governor to be a candidate. A delegation that visited him Thursday is said to have been all republicans. The movement, it is declared by friends of the governor, has resulted from the attempted recall. Should the governor become a candidate it would not be necessary for him to resign from the governorship to enter the campaign.
