Entered as second class matter May 17, 1920, at the post office at Roseburg, Oregon, under the Act of March 2, 1879.

ROSEBURG, OREGON, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1923.

SPIRIT OF WAR.

People generally thought, when the awful world war was over in 1918, that the misery thus created was so obvious that the world was ready to quit that idiotic method of settling disputes. But the radical action taken by the Italian government to settle a dispute with Greece does not look as if the lesson had been thoroughly learned as yet.

Evidence of the News-Review's popularity in Douglas county is the constantly increasing demand for this paper from all sections. Its circulation in the county is increasing steadily, showing a greater growth than any previous year.

The surest, quickest and most economical way to reach the people of this big county is to advertise in the News-Review. Its circulation reaches every nook and corner of the county.

California homes are said to be built more substantial than those erected in Oregon. There's a reason. Oregon doesn't get the earthquake crop that California draws—every now and then.

Dear Folks: All the world is now in motion for it's moving time again. It's a season loved by women, one that holds no joy for men. Up come rugs and dusty carpets, down come pictures from the wall, all the house is in confusion from the stairway to the hall.

Father's pipe is with the missing, Johnny's toys are tucked away. Sister's doll is in a barrel on the morn of moving day. But the Mother's eyes are shining, there's a picture in her mind of a home that she's been wanting but had never hoped to find.

Then the heartless giants enter tracking mud upon the floors, banging chairs against the tables, knocking lamps against the doors. By and by the house is empty, Mother takes a look around, tho at heart she's really happy, in her eyes a tear is found.

Thus it goes in moving season, North to South and East to West. For a home is not a dwelling. It's a home that love has blessed.

PRUNE PICKIN'S BY BERT G. BATES

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—Howdy Old Man Roseburg Broccoli, prunes and folks. Come let me splatter in your ear About a colyum full of jokes.

DUMBELL DORA THINKS A zebra is a mule wearin' a bathin' suit.

This colyum stands unqualified for the public ownership of safety razor blade sharpeners.

We understand that the Japanese have selected as their national anthem "I Love You California."

A couple birds Driving flies Collided down on The main drag this a. m. And before we knew What had happened They were both out Claiming the right of way And we allus wondered Why it is that The other feller Is allus to blame When an accident occurs.

OUR DAILY MAIL. Dear Sir: I am using some kind of grease on my hair and my wife complains that the pillow cases "are just simply ruined." What shall I do?

CURLY LOCKS. Friend reader: Buy yourself a football helmet.

The city council met last night but no gun play was recorded.

That Oklahoma governor will soon be sawin' wood alongside of the ex-kaiser.

Prophet Bell appeared on the main stem this a. m. without his overshoes. Forecast: Fair and warmer.

Lather J. Barnes informs us that the Indians invented the scalp treatment.

A damsel with last year's coat hairn't got a heluva big chance to get by in a small town.

A main street masher stood on the curb in front of our sanctum this a. m. and ogled at the early morning shoppers with little or no effect.

Armistice Day is the next big event and we hope the fellows will look over their moth-eaten uniforms before appearing in public in them.

A couple birds walked into a repair shop last eve and picking up the cash register, meandered away. The feller hadn't oughter taken a garage-man's chief means of livelihood.

The Bucket of Blood was dripping gore again today.

J. M. Judd, present proprietor, is down in the metrop and Harry Pearce and the of gang are back in the old harness shop doing their stuff. With the phonographs whining and the pianos jangling the boys are having a heckuva time. The ol' stove is missin' however, and it is necessary to use a victrola for a spittoon.

A grouchy person is the bark of a family tree.

Lafe Pickins Says: "Why is it a woman works a month puttin' up peaches and then when a feller wants to open a jar of 'em she has a fit?"

Taxi 85 has moved to Grand Hotel Barber Shop, Crocker and Gilham.

NOTICE TO ELKS.

All members of the Elks lodge who are interested in the formation of a football team, are requested to meet with the committee at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday, Oct. 3, in the lodge room. H. C. DABBY, Chairman.

PILES You Can Be Cured MY offices are a mecca for Pile sufferers from all over the West who come to me for relief. And it makes no difference how chronic or severe the case may be, I am able, without operation, surgery, pain or anesthetic, to send them away permanently cured. But my FREE illustrated book explains my method. Write for it today. CHAS. J. DEAN, M.D. 2ND AND MORRISON PORTLAND, OREGON

Have You Seen George?

(By Wickes Wamboldt.) I was thinking today what a little thing can decide the question of law keeping or law breaking.

I once saw a fellow operating at a street carnival. He was standing in front of his place shouting through his megaphone, "George! George! Have you seen George?"

For a day or two people paid little attention to him. Then, for some reason, the words took the fancy of the fun-seekers. Small boys began to yell around the street, "Have you seen George?" Grown people would greet each other with "Good morning. Have you seen George?" Then folks began to go and see George.

Now, what do you suppose this side-show man had which he charged people a dime to see? Nothing in the world but an exceedingly long-nosed, coal-black, sawed-off negro with a washed, implish face. He was either a very old negro with a very little body or a very little negro with a very old face.

I spent a dime to see George, myself. He did not do anything except grin. There was no reason in the world for anybody to go and look at him. But the phrase of the speaker had caught the public fancy and the place was crowded all day long.

Now, a humble-witted gentleman who saw this simple success figured out a way to turn a stream of dimes into his own pockets. Just across the street he erected a rough board structure. Along the front he hung a slanting banner carrying the striking legend, "Abyssinian Ground Hog."

Under this was the picture of something that looks like a cross between a Bengal tiger and a red rhinoceros. The nimble-witted gentleman stood in front of his place on a dry-dock box, shouting interesting things about the Abyssinian ground-hog. The people who went in came out looking hysterical. They grinned a good deal, but had little to say. Much curiosity was aroused.

I went in to see the Abyssinian ground-hog too. What I saw was a couple of barrels with a board across them. On the board was a plate of pork sausage. "Ground-hog" it was indeed; but as for being Abyssinian, I cannot say. However, the police seemed to lack appreciation of the humor in the situation and put the man in jail.

Now, what was the difference between these two fakers? Neither was the public anything for its money. Yet one went to jail and the other stayed out and prospered. The only difference was that one deliberately attempted to deceive the people, the other legitimately played on public curiosity.

As a matter of fact, neither of these gentlemen is entitled to a place in the biographies of great Americans.

MOVIES

Antlers Theatre The newest screen "discovery" whose work has been pronounced the most surprising thing, considering experience and professional backing, of any performance of the season, comes to the local screen at the Antlers Theatre when "Merry-Go-Round," Universal Super-Jewel attraction de luxe is shown there tonight. Mary Philbin, although only three years out of high school and with an actual camera experience of only two or three important roles, essayed in "Merry-Go-Round" an intensely emotional role, the dominating characterization of the picture.

Liberty Theatre

The real hit of "The Broken Wing" is Walter Long. We all know Mr. Long as a deep-dyed villain, but here he shows that he has considerable comedy talent. He plays his role for laughs and gets them. Edward Brady is another, who in a sleep-walking comedy role, gets full value. "The Broken Wing" has many sensational aviation scenes, and its real thriller, in which an aeroplane falls through the roof of a house, is realistic to an extreme. The Mexican army looks as a Mexican army ought to look. Best of all are the titles and the continuity. Some of the titles are models for their humor and brevity, and the story moves easily toward its unexpected conclusion. Miriam Cooper and Kenneth Harlan play the leads. Miss Cooper at last finds a role which suits her perfectly and in which she is able to do something other than look at the camera.

Antlers Theatre

Lon Chaney, noted for his unusual characteristics as personified in "The Miracle Man," "The Trap," "Shadows" and other notable productions adds another gem to his crown in the role of Wiles Dillius in "The Shock" at the Antlers Theatre tomorrow. It is the part of a cripple, moral as well as physical, who is regenerated through the love and kindness of a good woman. Miss Virginia Valli in the role of the heroine is excellent. A capable supporting cast has been provided by Universal.

School Girls With Defective Vision CHILDREN often have defective vision from birth. Hard school work develops alarming symptoms that require quick, careful handling. The natural prejudice of parents against glasses is soon overcome by the excellent results we attain. Bubar Bros. Optical Dept.

MELONS SHIPPED BY CARLOADS

Reminiscence of the past year, the Umpqua Valley melon growers are having this season, the Rice Brothers ofillard are able to wholesale melons in car load lots. A fine carload of these melons has just been shipped by this firm to Marshfield, where they will be distributed to nearby markets. Another car will be loaded in a few days in case a satisfactory market can be found. Besides the many tons of these fine melons that have been delivered to the market by the members of the firm themselves, many tons have been sold to outside truck men who have disposed of them at Coos Bay points as well as at Rhinath Falls and other places in southern Oregon. BROCCOLI MEETING TO BE HELD AT YONCALLA A meeting is to be held at Yoncalla on Saturday, October 13th, which time the Umpqua Valley Broccoli Growers Association will change will speak on the marketing and marketing for growing broccolis in Douglas county. There is a considerable interest in the broccolis in the Umpqua Valley and many growers are contemplating entering into the growing of broccolis. A list of growers at 1 o'clock at the P. Hall. A NEW NECKTIE A silk knit tie of beautiful design is one inch wide, beautiful combinations. Newest thing at Carr's. J. E. Brand, former owner of Marshfield, spent some time in Roseburg visiting with Mrs. Charles A. Brand.
