ROSEBURG, OREGON, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1923. THE PROPORTION SPENT FOR CLOTHES.

The tendency is, in this day and age, among young people to spend a very large amount of their income on clothes. The spruce young fellow may spend more for his togs than the man who has made a big success in business.

A speaker before the American Home Economics Association at Chicago the other day, declared that one-fifth of any family budget was enough for clothing. She stated that thousands of young women who earn under $1,000 a year are spending annually $500 for clothes.

Dear Folks: "I'm in distress," said Abbey Lee. "I've lost my specs and cannot see. I've looked in every place and nook, between the leaves of every book, behind the clock and in my clothes, but everywhere I poked my nose no sign of specs appear at all."

Poor Mr. Lee said, "Yes, my dear, it's strange how things will disappear." Then off he went a hunting 'round in hopes the lost would soon be found.

At last he sighed and said, "My dear, your specs are safe and lying here. They're in the pantry on the shelf, you must have left 'em there yourself."

"Pray answer this, if you're so bright. When things get lost and out of sight, just why is it that you may look in every corner, place and nook, yet what you hunt is always found the last time that you look around?"

Mrs. W. H. Winkler left yesterday for Riddle, where she will spend the week end attending to business and visiting with friends.

PRUNE PICKIN'S BY BERT G. BATES

GOOD EVENING FOLKS— One good way to save money is to haul the bath-tub out in the backyard at noon and let it fill up with rain water for your weekly plunge tonight.

DUMPELL DORA THINKS That a mushroom is a parlor.

An eight line local item was "pied" in last week's edition of the News-Review and it read like a bowl of hash and we guess most everyone in town read it, because today they've all been kiddin' us about it, and we wonder if we are the only folks in the village who ever make a mistake—at any rate it only goes to prove that eight lines in the News-Review gets results.

The Kiwanis club fellows met again last eve, most of 'em spendin' their time elarnin' to pronounce the name of their organization.

To develop alertness and poise and limber up the spinal vertebrae, try stepping on the soap as you get out of the bath-tub tonight.

Things are not so worse after all. What if we were savages and had to wear rings in our noses and then caught terrible colds? Then we'd have something to blow about.

MAYBE HE'S "CLEAN-CUT" "Eliza," said a friend of the family to the old colored washerwoman, "have you see Miss Edith's fiancée?"

Eliza pondered for a moment, then bent over the laundry tubs once more, "no, ma'am," she said, "it ain't in the wash yet."—The Christian-Evangelist.

The paposes were left home with the aquas last eve and the Umpqua Chiefs held a regular pow wow.

Reverend Hilton, local baseball authority, was up to our sanctum this a. m. wearing a new white necktie which had a fringe on the end of it.

When a jane is in a hurry she never curls all her bobbed hair—just the ends of it receive attention.

The duck hunters will soon be out shooting their heads off.

Hogs are produced on three fourths of the farms of the United States and in all the cities.

We think a house could be furnished to suit without an incense burner.

Justice of Peace Jones defied the elements this a. m. by walkin' down the main stem in the face of a drivin' rain with his bumberhood folded calmly under his arm.

The young fry of the village are wearin' grins today, Saturday being the main cause of such merriment.

A lot of the old duffers of the village entertained the school marm at the high school last eve but as their wives were along such games as post office were left off the entertainment program.

As yet the damels of the village have not abandoned their perfumed cigarettes for the fashionable stogie.

We still maintain That Roseburg is the BEST city in the state.

The legion fellows are swattin' the moths this week in an effort to get their uniforms in condition for Armistice Day.

Mrs. Stude Burnett, who is a resident of Oakland was over this morning shopping and attending to other business.

Mrs. Sam Roger and son, HARVEY, who reside in Brockway, were among the out of town people here today on business.

You Can't Keep an Unfit Man Up

(By Wickes Wamboldt.) We are familiar with the optimistic statement that you can't keep a good man down, but the reverse of this is true. You can't keep an unfit man up.

I am prompted to write this article through hearing, as you have heard, a man gnashing his teeth over the success of another man. He felt that the other man's rise was due to pull, to luck, to everything else but ability. This attitude if often taken toward the man who is getting ahead. Perhaps we do it to save our own feelings, for if we admit that his success is due to ability, then we by inference that our lack of success is due to lack of ability. So sometimes we may try to make ourselves feel better by declaring that the other man's rise in the world is the result of circumstances entirely outside of himself.

I recall the case of Reggie Vernon. Reggie was a good looking, sporty, young chap. His father died and left his mother considerable life insurance. At Reggie's demand, she bought him a half interest in a livery stable. The rest of us young fellows envied Reggie with his name on the big sign and his privilege to ride up and down Main street with his hat cocked over one eye, a cigarette hanging from one corner of his mouth, his shoulders hunched forward, and one foot dangling nonchalantly out of a narrow, stylish rig pulled by a high-stepping horse.

We talked about Reggie's luck, and that is exactly what it was. Reggie didn't last six months. They had taken him into partnership because his money was needed. Then they bounced him out and the place knew him no more.

I will remember another young man with whom I would gladly have traded places. He was the pampered son of a wealthy family. They owned a magnificent estate. He put in his time enjoying life. He hunted and fished and danced and drove around in very sort of spectacular conveyance he could buy, and with a different suit of clothes for every hour of the day. And how everybody did give him the glad hand!

Then the time arrived when he came into sole possession of the immense property. He lasted about three years. His glad hand friends took it away from him. The last I saw of him he was wearing his suit of date wardrobe and picking up a dollar or a drink anywhere he could.

No, you cannot keep an unfit man up. You can't put a man up, but if he stays up he must have ability. And it has a bad effect on ourselves to try to account for the other man's success by ascribing it to pull and luck, instead of push and pluck.

I have seen lots of men go up but I have never seen one stay up unless he was fit to be up.

ROSEBURG C. OF C. WORK DESCRIBED

There are many things which we have in common, but a common representation to act is required. Such a body is the Chamber of Commerce, and it has become a public necessity in nation, state and city. When we consider that the present splendid road giving us communication with Coos Bay was until a very recent date a subject which was not dreamed of, yet the Chamber of Commerce undertook its promotion. To the activity of its members in inaugurating the work, and giving assistance until completed we must give great credit for the addition for this great artery of trade and intercommunication with our neighbor on the west. The advantages derived, are beyond estimate. The same may be said of the initiatory work looking to the completion of the public thoroughfare on the east of us having for its object a road to Diamond lake and giving us direct communication with eastern Oregon. A record of the activities of the Chamber gives us all a tinge of surprise. It would include able assistance given in bringing to the attention of our authorities the opening of Stephens street on the south. The condition of this street was giving Roseburg unfavorable publicity. It was an extremely bad piece of road which the visitor encountered when he entered the boundaries of our city.

The Chamber of Commerce has been a pioneer worker in opposing the inclusion of Diamond lake and its surrounding country in Crater Lake park. Should this scheme to take from us this part of Douglas county be successful, no one can doubt that its effect is not only inimical to our county, but to the whole of Oregon.

It would be impossible to enumerate the many activities of our Chamber. The citizens of Rock Creek will bear witness, that with the assistance of the forestry department we undertook their cause in advocating the bridge at Rock Creek. That the Chamber has and is steadily working with the people of Roseburg in securing a highway which will again give us a road which shall be one of the most serviceable in the state, communicating again with the seaboard.

With publishing 19,999 copies of a new Roseburg and Douglas county booklet and causing their distribution, over half of which have been sent to prospective settlers; with promoting our new library; with putting on a successful campaign by which we are assured a cannery giving ing employment to a large part of our community; with maintaining a business office where during the season of 1923 information has been given to over 5000 tourists touching local conditions, crops, soil, etc., and pamphlets distributed, the Chamber has been and is one of the live factors in helping Roseburg to advance and keep up with the procession of progress. A record of the things accomplished, had we time or space, would not only be surprising, but helpful to our citizens, and particularly to the class which every community has, who believe in non-action themselves, but stand ready to reap where others sow.

"We welcome the Umpqua Chiefs to the field where a commencement has been made; but where there is yet much to be accomplished along the lines of good citizenship. We need in Roseburg a greater general interest in those things which the Chamber of Commerce represents. Roseburg should double in size in the next two years, but we must all pull together, and help and help—then some. To this end there should be a more general interest in the organization which if properly sustained has the power to do so much for Roseburg. The business men of Roseburg should take a leaf out of the books of Eugene, Corvallis, Albany, Medford, Marshfield, and Grants Pass in that regard.

"The progressive people, those who are for a greater Roseburg, should pull together and help each other. Let us stand loyally by our Chamber. Roseburg is blessed with great natural advantages, but her people must take advantage of it."
